BLOCS BRINGING NATION TO RUIN, WARNS J. M. BECK

Mulct U. S. Treasury of Billions.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Warnings that the bloc system at Washington and the pressures of minority groups of politicians and voters to exact subsidies from the federal treasury are a menace to the perpetuity of the Union were sounded last night by James M. Beck of Philadelphia, congressman from the First Pennsylvania district and former solicitor general of the United States. He spoke at the 35th annual dinner of the Illinois Manufacturers' association in the Stevens hotel.

Francis H. Sisson of New York, president of the American Bankers' association, also spoke at the meeting.

In the last quarter century, Mr. Beck set forth, a great change has come about in the political philosophy of the people of the United States, now seen in staggering tax burdens and a great growth of bureaucracy, all moving away from the fundamentals of American government.

The "New Philosophy."

"Formerly," he said, "they regarded their government as something to live under. But now, in the last 25 years, they have grown to think that the federal government is something to live on. In other words, that the federal government must underwrite in some way their losses, errors, and misfortunes."

Doctrines expounded by George Washington in his farewell address were used by Mr. Beck to point the direction in which America is now moving away politically from the constitutional principles laid down by the founders. Washington's warnings against combinations and associations and minority groups formed to usurp the reins of government, he declared, were prophetic of the age of blocs at Washington which is a tendency towards disruption of constitutional government.

Raps Small States' Subsidies.

The exploits of some of the smaller agricultural states in drawing from the federal treasury subsidies many times greater than the taxes they pay into the federal treasury were denounced by Mr. Beck as a menace to the "economic solidarity of the Union." The adoption of the 16th amendment—providing for the federal income tax—twenty years ago threw industrial states and the income from manufacturing and commerces open to exploitation by states of small wealth and population, he declared.

"The 16th amendment," he said, "made possible the milking of the great industrial states.

"At the time of the adoption of the 16th amendment in 1913, the expenses of the government were a little less than 700 million dollars a year. Last year they were four billion seven hundred million.

Industrial States Bear Load.

"The reason for that is that, for example, in 1928 16,000 people out of the 124,000,000 paid 60 per cent of the income tax and about 400,000 paid 97 per cent of all the income tax.

"Therefore, it was an easy thing, where the whole weight of the greatest burden of taxation was to fall upon an infinitesimal fraction of the community, and they largely residing in the industrial states and largely engaged in industrial occupations, with the easy way of milking the industrial states, to resort to the wildest extravagance.

"North Dakota, for example, would realize that all she would pay would be, as last year, $351,000, against the $604,000,000 that New York paid."

Cites Farmers' Demands.

As an illustration of the tendencies that have led many blocs and groups to regard the federal treasury as underwriter for their financial troubles, regardless of the strain on taxpayers, producers, and national income, Mr. Beck spoke of the demands of a group of 250 farmers which were laid before congress last Friday. He said:

"They asked for a gift of half a billion dollars to be spent by the farmers themselves through committees; that in loans from the government no collateral should be asked, and several other things, including the formation of a governmental bureau 'to reduce prices to consumers and raise prices to producers.'"

"It is easy to dismiss this incident as unimportant," Mr. Beck added. "On the other hand it is not impossible that this might be a spark that would light a greater conflagration than we at the moment might imagine. It is not the unreasonable demands that

POLICE CAPTAIN OUSTED IN WAR ON BEER FLATS

In accordance with orders issued by Mayor Cermak to police captains on Monday, special and district police squads covered the city last night, warning beer flat and speakeasy owners to close down and raiding places whose proprietors refused to obey. They also started a drive against all forms of gambling.

These activities followed the suspension late yesterday of Police Captain Alfred C. Christensen of the Sheffield avenue district, where a policeman was slain in a speakeasy on Monday. The suspension of Christensen was regarded as a warning to other police commanders that the mayor's orders are to be enforced.

Several Places Raided.

Other developments of the day included:

Raiding of the Playground, an amusement shop at 118 West Randolph street, in the Hotel Sherman building. About thirty machines operated by means of spring plungers and metal balls were confiscated on the charge that they were used for gambling purposes.

The raiding of a dozen places during the late afternoon and night, most of them beer flats. One of the places raided, according to the police, was a divisional headquarters for the Capone syndicate.

Beer flat proprietors and bookmakers, it was said, agreed readily to the demand that they shut up shop. In both fields business was poor, the operators complained. This voluntary capitulation greatly facilitated police work, although here and there it was reported that a number of operators grumbled.

House Cleaning Ordered.

In his instructions on Monday Mayor Cermak said that he wanted to get rid of beer flats for all time.

"We will be on trial when legal beer comes back," he said. "If there are violations of whatever regulations are set up for beer it will be difficult to repeal the eighteenth amendment. We are beginning to prepare ourselves, to have our house cleaned when beer is legalized. The police must help me in this undertaking. If we can't clean house we ought to resign."

Soon after the mayor issued his orders came the murder which led to Capt. Christensen's suspension. That was the killing of Policeman Albert J. Magoon by an alcohol racketeer in a beer flat owned by Jerry Maas at 2908 North Halsted street.

The police were on the trail of Magoon's slayer. Five men were in custody. One of them, who at first had given the name of Paul Gordon, admitted early this morning that he was the Paul Cooper, alcohol dealer, for whom detectives had been searching. Cooper denied he had anything to do with the killing of Magoon but was reported to have given the police important clews. A code list of 250 booze customers, taken from one of the men in custody, was also being investigated.

Allman Orders Suspension.

The order suspending Capt. Christensen was issued by Police Commissioner Allman. It named Lieut. William O'Brien as acting captain of the Sheffield district. It provided that Capt. Christensen is to stand trial before the police board on charges that will probably include neglect of duty.

Shortly after the suspension the cleanup squads swung into action. The hoodlum squad, headed by Sergt. James Walsh and working out of the mayor's office, went to a restaurant at 215 East 25th street, an alleged Capone syndicate hangout. There Frank [Dago Burke] Bienill, part owner, and four other men were arrested. The four are John Becker, Philip Vinci, August Demma and Lester Lang.

Raid Division Street Office.

From there the hoodlum squad went to 413 West Division street and raided the offices of the United International Sales company, ostensibly dealing in oil burners. On one door was the legend: "Fred Romano, lawyer."

In another part of the office appeared the name of Dominic (Libby) Nuccio as vice president. He was not there. Present, however, and apparently in round table conference, were his brother, Michael (Little Libby) Nuccio, cafe owner and secretary of the company; Dom (Nags) Brancato, Dominic Bello, Joseph Lisicandrillo, and Ignatius Oliver.

The latter two, Sergt. Walsh said, are muscle men. Bello was described

COMMONS BARS TABASCO SAUCE MADE IN AMERICA

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Tension over war debts in the house of commons was relieved today when a member during a debate called the attention of the chairman of the kitchen committee to the fact that the tabasco sauce served in the parliament dining room came from the United States and asked if something just as good or better could not be secured from Empire resources to flavor oysters.

"We have had all the hot sauce from America that is good for us in the last month," the member added, "and we don't need to import any in bottles."

Sir John Childs Ganzoni, the kitchen committee chairman, replied that only a dozen bottles of American sauce had been ordered in the last two years, while oceans of a substitute had been obtained from the Empire. He promised that when the present supply was exhausted no more will be purchased from America. Tabasco sauce is a fiery pepper preparation from southern Louisiana.

MERCURY MAY GO UP TO 32° TODAY, SAYS FORECAST

A substantial rise in temperature was promised for Chicago today in the official weather forecast. Forecaster J. R. Lloyd said that the minimum early today would be between 10 and 12 above zero and that the maximum might reach 32 above. There is a possibility of snow.

Yesterday's lowest reading was 7 above zero and the highest up to 4 p. m. was 13. Contrary to popular belief the first thirteen days of December have not been unusually cold. The normal mean for the period would be 32, and the mean so far this month is 31. The first six days of the month were unusually warm. Although snowfall reached a total of seven inches, total precipitation was only .33 of an inch, or .04 of an inch below the average for the period.

In the Rocky mountains temperatures were still low, Salt Lake City reporting 7 below zero and Woodruff, Utah, 49 below, a mark untouched since 1899.

Goes Out in Lake to Fish and Freezes There Awhile

Andrew Dancho, 33 years old, left a dock at Randolph street yesterday in a 32 foot boat and went out in the lake to fish. Last night his wife notified the coast guards that Dancho was missing. A search disclosed that the boat was surrounded by ice a mile or so off the navy pier. The coast guards and that Dancho was in no danger. They were right. He worked his boat free from the ice and landed at the Michigan avenue bridge at 4 o'clock this morning.

Young Woman Attacked at Evanston 'L'

A young married woman was robbed and attacked last night in a waiting room of the Ridge avenue station on the Niles Center branch of the Rapid Transit lines in Evanston. She is Mrs. Julia Klein, 29 years old, of 2415 Arthur avenue. Her assailant was a man about 26 years old, armed with a revolver.

Mrs. Klein tried to fight off the gunman but he overpowered her. Her screams for help went unheard. There were no elevated attendants or guards at the scene at the time. Fares are taken in an automatic collector.

Visiting Father in Evanston.

Mrs. Klein had been visiting her father, Charles P. Flannigan, in his home at 1102 Brummel street, Evanston. He is said to be a retired Chicago police sergeant.

About 10 o'clock Mrs. Klein left the Flannigan home to return to her Rogers Park residence. She walked alone to the station, a distance of less than three blocks.

She started to mount the steps leading to the platform when the gunman appeared. He ordered Mrs. Klein to put up her hands. She obeyed. He seized her purse and took a small amount of money from it. Mrs. Klein looked about in vain for help.

Dragged Into Waiting Room.

Suddenly the gunman seized her and started to drag her toward the women's waiting room. Mrs. Klein tried to fight him away. She struck and kicked him. She called for help and kept struggling even after he had threatened to kill her. He half carried her into the room and there attacked her, she said.

After the assailant fled, Mrs. Klein ran to her father's home. The elder Flannigan and a son, Walter, notified the Evanston police. Squads were sent to the scene. They searched the streets in the vicinity until after midnight but found no trace of the gunman.

SEAL THREE MEN IN A ROOM TO STUDY COLDS

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Seeking clews to the cause of the common cold, scientists at the University of California hospital are making observations on three men living in a sealed room under conditions controlled by the experimenters.

Dr. William J. Kerr declined to disclose the details, but it was learned that the purpose is to determine among other things whether the subjects could contract colds simply through atmospheric or temperature changes.

ROBBER IS SLAIN, ANOTHER SHOT IN OAK PARK HOLDUP

One bandit was shot and killed and another was wounded early this morning when they attempted to hold up the Norbard Superservice greasing station at 6201 West North avenue, in Oak Park. A third robber got away.

The three gunmen entered the station, ostensibly to get warm, while Arthur Schnyder, a former Oak Park policeman, who is now a private residential watchman, was in the place. Schnyder had seen the men approaching. Suspecting their intentions, he had his pistol ready.

After a moment's wait two of the robbers drew revolvers. Schnyder fired directly at them. One dropped dead, a bullet in his head. The other, shot through the arm, turned and ran from the station. Meanwhile the third robber had jumped into the gang's automobile and escaped. The wounded bandit fled on foot the few blocks to Mason and North avenues in Chicago, where he was captured by policemen.

He identified himself as Chester Horton and said he had known the dead man only as Sam. The dead robber's body was taken to the county morgue where the police sought to identify him from his fingerprints.

An elderly man, known to residents of the vicinity only as Tony the ragpicker, was burned to death last night in a fire which destroyed a shed at 156-158 West Division street.

HERRIOT IS BADLY BEATEN AFTER ALL NIGHT FIGHT

Chamber Demands Reconsideration of Debts.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Dec. 14 (Wednesday).—(AP)—After 14 hours' debate the chamber of deputies early today refused payment of the war debt to the United States under terms proposed by Premier Herriot, threw the government out, and then voted 380 to 57 to defer payment until such a time as an international debt conference can be held.

Members of the Herriot cabinet submitted their resignations to President Albert Lebrun at Elysee palace at 6:35 a. m., and he was to begin the usual consultations later this morning to select a new premier.

Joseph Paul-Boncour, minister of war, and Edouard Daladier, minister of public works, both members of the Herriot cabinet since its formation last June 4, were mentioned as likely successors of their chief.

Radical Socialists, who voted for the premier's terms of payment, defeated by a vote of 402 to 187, walked out of the chamber before the second vote was taken on the resolution proposed by the foreign affairs and finance committees.

As was customary, President Lebrun asked the Herriot cabinet members to continue to transact business until their successors were appointed. This meant, it was announced in lobbies, that the Herriot cabinet will transmit to Washington the text of the resolution approved by the chamber over the premier's protest.

President Lebrun was to begin his consultations this morning with the presidents of the senate and the chamber.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—[Wednesday, 5:30 a. m.]—France has chosen for default.

By a vote of 402 to 187 Premier Herriot was overthrown in the chamber of deputies at 5:15 o'clock this morning on the government's proposition to pay the $19,261,432 interest installment on the war debt to the United States tomorrow with unilateral reservations.

Deprived of all authority, the government will be powerless to carry out the debt payment tomorrow.

Thus the country which in 1924 went into the Ruhr to force Germany to live up to the last letter of its signature elected to break its solemnly pledged word for the first time in history.

Cabinet Resigns at Once.

The cabinet, it was announced, will present its resignation to President Lebrun at once.

It was the defection of the powerful Socialist party which lost the day for Herriot. Consequently there is a strong probability that the next government may be a Red experiment, uniting the Socialists and the extreme left wing of Herriot's radical party.

The fourteen hour chamber debate came to a vote at 4:40 o'clock this morning when Herriot, cutting short the last minute technicalities, jumped up and declared the government accepted the resolution drafted in its behalf by M. Chauvin and made it a question of confidence. The challenge rang out clearly and Herriot stepped out into the lobby with a grim smile on his face and shoulders set proudly.

Herriot Wages Valiant Battle.

He had finished just a half hour before the greatest speech of his parliamentary career. The indecision which had marked the movements of this poet and scholar for the last two weeks dropped from him as if by magic and gave place to a man of action.

Weariness and the defeated look which he had worn since the debate started disappeared. He had found his fighting heart and put everything he had in an effort to save his country from dishonoring its signature.

At 5:15 o'clock the deputies filed in and five minutes later they were reseated and heard the vote announced.

Premier Hears Vote, Walks On.

The moment the defeat was announced Herriot got up and walked out, followed by members of his cabinet.

There was some cheering for the premier, but this was drowned out by an uproar in the gallery above which was heard the chant of the Royalist and Nationalist partisans, "Not a sou to America," a song which they have been singing about the streets of Paris in recent days.

When partial quiet was restored Deputy Lucien Lamoureux took the tribune. Amid a wild turmoil he declared that the vote simply was against the Dec. 15 payment and said he felt it should be known whether this simply was going to be rejected or how it is to be considered in further negotiations.

At this time the Radicals rose up in a wild uproar and walked out. The president then suspended the session.

Herriot Makes Great Fight.

Herriot put up a hard fight to keep his country from dishonoring its signature.

At 2:40 o'clock, looking harassed and ill after hours of heckling, the premier walked to the tribune with his voluminous portfolio. With a tone conciliatory at the beginning, he said:

"Obviously payment is the most expedient and practical move."

Then he explained in detail the four points of the government's reservations. He stressed again that if no payment is made there will be no basis for new negotiations on debts, either with the old or new President in the White House.

Here a theatrical coup was pulled. A messenger walked to the tribune with a cable from Ambassador Henri Claudel at Washington, which Herriot read. It said:

"President Hoover reaffirms that debts can be reconsidered, particularly in relation to economic conditions in the world."

This produced cheers from Herriot's supporters, but scornful snickers from the opposition.

The premier was putting up a great fight, answering all objections voiced in the past two days in the chamber. His voice was plaintive as a woman's, then had the strength of a lion. He used persuasive pleading, then grew sarcastic or driving, parrying all his hecklers like a worn out but still masterful swordsmen.

Not a Question of $19,000,000.

"This payment is not a mere question of $19,000,000, but bears on the entire debt of $3,863,650,000 stretched over sixty years," he said. "Your children and grandchildren will be mortgaged by the decision taken now for this money which is in the treasury."

At 3:15 a. m. he seemed to be winning even the opposition.

The premier said he had learned that the Belgian government had voted today to refuse to pay its installment because it was incapable of paying, and, furthermore, the Belgian cabinet had resigned last night.

He then insisted on maintaining solidarity with England, and warned:

"Is it possible that with one imprudent gesture we would risk breaking this unity of views?"

Jests at Overthrow.

He spoke almost in a light vein of the possibility of being overthrown. Turning to the right benches, he said:

"I know you will do all you can to overthrow me, but I tell you frankly I think you will be wrong and I

HERE'S SUMMARY OF DAY'S MOVES ON DEBTS TO U. S.

WASHINGTON — American officials yesterday said the latest British note explaining its stand in meeting the payment of $95,550,000 due the United States tomorrow was satisfactory and the negotiations were considered closed. Officials interpreted the British note as one of "mental reservations." Officials, when they learned early this morning of the French chamber of deputies' refusal to pay, declined to comment.

PARIS.—The French chamber of deputies, by a vote of 402 to 187, defeated Premier Herriot's plan to meet the payment of $19,261,432 due the United States tomorrow. The cabinet resigned.

BRUSSELS.—The Belgian cabinet announced that Belgium would repudiate its debt instalment of $2,125,000 due the United States tomorrow. The government resigned. Details on page 2.

LONDON.—The British government reiterated its intention to pay tomorrow, with the reservation that the payment be considered an advance on any future revision. Details on page 2.

PRAGUE.—Czechoslovakia announced that it will pay in gold the instalment of $1,500,000 due tomorrow. Details on page 2.

think you will learn it if another ministry follows."

He said this with obvious pain and infinite fatigue in his voice. He pointed out that France could not use Belgium's argument for not paying, since France has money in the treasury. With England paying and Italy paying, he again stressed the danger of France's isolation. Speaking of the "recent rapprochement which brought about a veritable fraternity of nations" (referring to England), he said he would not like to see France isolated for such a small sum.

Expresses Love for France.

"I know the French people is revolted in its instinct for justice," Herriot continued, "but I ask only to be clear. Then, at the moment when the chamber is going to judge me, I have taken my resolution. I defend what I believe to be the general interest. I love my country. I give this country at this moment proof of veritable affection. I hope it will be thankful to one who is devoted to it, to save its honor and its signature."

Loud applause greeted his words. He further said:

"This refusal to pay will set a historic precedent for France."

And, turning again to the question of honoring accords, he declared:

"It is fidelity to signature which is the basis of honor of the French family."

The entire left center section of the chamber leaped to its feet as Herriot finished, applauding frantically, but the Socialists, in the extreme left, and the whole right remained cold. As Herriot regained his seat, his colleagues swarmed around, pressing his hands and clapping him on the back.

Even Francois-Albert, white haired little gnome who was one of the leaders of the radical conspiracy against Herriot, came to congratulate him. Only Gaston Bergery, another of the opposition leaders, remained aloof. He walked out of the hall with a lighted cigaret between his lips and a smile of anticipated triumph on his face.

Committees Spurn Plan.

The war debt drama began in the chamber at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon after the premier's plan to pay with reservations had been overwhelmingly turned down by the finance and foreign affairs committees of the chamber. Instead they drafted a resolution of their own recommending default.

As the chamber convened strong guards were stationed about the building. As the day wore on Royalists staged several riots against payment to the United States in the Boulevards St. Germain, St. Michel, and Des Italiens. About 1,000 rioters were arrested, but were released shortly afterward.

Herriot was placed on the defensive from the moment the chamber met until it adjourned at 7 o'clock. It seemed more as if an official mass-meeting against the debt payment was being held instead of a debate on whether it should be met.

With the exception of a handful of personal followers, the premier was isolated.

The Hoover moratorium was singled out for attack by the deputies.

"Every nation must take the consequences of its own acts," declared Louis Maxin, extreme Nationalist and rabid foe against payment. "Where can you find a man who will not admit that our interests have been harmed by the Hoover initiative? It was the initiative of President Hoover when he launched his moratorium which broke the debt contract that France signed.

"The financial burden of the war should be divided among all peoples. Why should France alone support the burden?"

Quotes Gov. Roosevelt.

Marin insisted that payment with reservations would be meaningless, because "Franklin Roosevelt has said debts and reparations are not related and that readjustment of the debt depends upon the capacity of the paying countries."

Following Marin's speech, the chamber recessed for a brief period. Agitation was started for an immediate vote when it reconvened, but after a few more speeches, the session was again adjourned until 9 o'clock. It was when the chamber reconvened that the big battle which resulted in Herriot's defeat opened.

A nervous little man whose voice carries considerable weight in financial circles, M. Lamourex, the reporter of the finance committee, mounted the tribune and read the resolution recommending default which had been adopted by the committee. The resolution insisted on postponement of the payment until America consents to sit in on a debt revision conference.

When he had finished Herriot was bristling with fury. All the lassitude was gone from his movements as he stood up in his place and launched into a sarcastic tongue-lashing of the two commissions for not having communicated to the chamber the government's text and their reasons for rejecting it.

Amid a general turmoil, Herriot climbed down from the tribune and plunked himself indignantly at his desk. Then a voice from the right came out supporting Herriot's demand that his text be communicated to the chamber. Turning with a sneer to the left, where his followers and their allies sat, Herriot said:

"I am ashamed to think that I have to thank one of my adversaries for the support I expected from my friends."

Await France's Explanation of Debt Delay as Britain Modifies Stand by Latest Note

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—With President Hoover accepting the latest explanation by the British government of the mental reservations with which it will pay on Thursday the 95 million dollar installment of the British war debt to the United States, interest here veered to the attitude France will take on the payment of her 19 million installment. A note from France setting forth her position is expected not later than tomorrow. The rejection in parliament, however, of Premier Herriot's proposal to pay conditionally led to much speculation on the course France will elect to pursue.

One suggestion heard was that France might avoid payment on Thursday because of the fall of the Herriot government. Default could then be ascribed to the lack of a government to make payment on the due date.

Talk of Reprisals.

As the news reached Washington that Premier Herriot had met defeat considerable speculation was aroused as to the effect a French default would have on Franco-American relations. Although administration officials maintained a strict silence in the face of pessimistic news regarding French payment, members of congress were not so reticent. In some quarters there was talk of possible American reprisals of some form in event of French refusal to pay.

Evidence of a rising indignation over the attitude of the French parliament were apparent in many congressional quarters. In some circles the view was expressed that a French default might cause so much ill feeling in this country that relations between the two countries would be complicated for years. Indications were that British payment contrasted with a French default would have a tendency to benefit the British.

From a British source it is learned that the MacDonald ministry contemplates pressing eventually for payment by the United States of the bonds repudiated by certain southern states as a partial offset to the amount owed by Britain on her war debt. Eight southern states repudiated nonconfederate debts aggregating 75 millions of dollars, of which 20 millions are reputedly held by British subjects.

Up to date the British bondholders have sought unavailingly to induce their government to demand payment of these state obligations by the federal government. The United States has disclaimed responsibility for the payment of the debts of states.

A counter claim against the British government may possibly arise from the losses of American investors in securities payable in sterling as the result of Great Britain going off the gold standard.

John Bull's Latest.

Britain's softened explanation of the circumstances under which the British payment will be made was delivered to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson by the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, at midnight and laid before the President as the cabinet was assembling this morning. From this it appeared that the British were not asking the United States to accept payment on the condition that it be credited on the amount to which the debt is reduced eventually. All they meant to suggest, they asseverated, was that they would urge this treatment of the December payment in the subsequent negotiations for reduction of the debt.

Text of British Note.

The British note follows:

"In replying to the note of the United States government of Dec. 11, his majesty's government desire to emphasize that the purpose of their note of even date was to state clearly their own position in regard to payment on Dec. 15 and to explain the circumstances in which they had decided to make payment. It was not, of course, the intention of their note to touch upon any matter affecting the constitutional position of the United States government.

"Their note should, therefore, be read solely as relating to their own position, which they have taken after mature consideration, viz: That they are prepared to make payment on Dec. 15 in the light of the considerations set out in their note of Dec. 11, and they must reserve the right to recur to those considerations in the examination of the whole question to which the United States government have agreed. They would again emphasize the importance of entering upon that examination without loss of time."

Accepted as Satisfactory.

The prevailing opinion in the cabinet was that this explanation was satisfactory. Inasmuch as Britain had reduced her conditions to mental reservations the payment could be accepted without committing the United States to any deviation from the terms of the debt settlement.

Later in the day Mr. Stimson, Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, and Undersecretary of State William R. Castle Jr. had a conference with the President at which it was decided to consider the incident closed so far as Great Britain is concerned.

"The negotiations with the British government so far as the Dec. 15 payment is concerned are closed," said Mr. Stimson on emerging from the White House. "I do not anticipate a reply to the British note of today is necessary."

Whether Mr. Hoover will send a message to congress on the debts is uncertain. In any event he is expected to wait till after Thursday, when it will be known how many debtors default. Greece defaulted on her November payment and Hungary served notice she could not make her December payment. Czechoslovakia, her minister said today, will pay. Italy is the only debtor that did not ask suspension of the December installment.

POLAND COMPLAINS INTEREST ON WAR DEBT TO U. S. IS TOO HIGH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 13.—Emphasizing that Poland is not asking for annulment of its war debt, Ignacy Matuszewski, former finance minister and now editor of the Gazetta Polska, official government newspaper, explained his country's request that the United States review the 1924 debt agreement, which Poland thinks is unfair.

The chief reason upon which Poland bases this request, according to Matuszewski, is that Italy pays $2,500,000 interest yearly on a debt of two billion dollars, while Poland pays six million dollars interest yearly on its debt of 200 million dollars. If America will reduce the interest, he said, Poland will be satisfied.

Matuszewski also said the loan to Poland consisted of foodstuffs, clothing, and medicine, and was used to save the population from starvation and disease and, contrary to other war debt plaintiffs, Poland's war gains consisted of independence, which, he said, is comparable to restoring to a property owner his burned house.

Matuszewski argued against Poland reducing tariffs against American goods or reducing armaments.

BRITAIN INSISTS U. S. PROMISED A CUT IN WAR DEBT

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 13.—With the delivery last night of Great Britain's fourth note to the United States reiterating the British government's insistence that there be a revision of the war debts, London settled down tonight to await the "full dress debate" on the war debts in the house of commons tomorrow.

This debate promises to be lively. Tempers are rising in the house of commons and among the people, not against making the Thursday payment to America, but against suspension of payments to Great Britain by her debtors under the Lausanne agreement. This phase is likely to occupy much of the parliament's time.

Insist on Reopening Question.

The latest British note to America declared that the London government would make the Dec. 15 payment, but insisted that Britain reserved the right to a reopening of the question, to which, it declared, "the United States government have agreed."

The note ignored the arguments in Secretary of State Stimson's note of Dec. 12, in which Stimson declined to accept payment with conditions attached.

The official opinion here is that the latest British note meets the legal position of the United States government, while at the same time preserving Great Britain's right to claim some allowance for this payment if a future arrangement is made for reduction or a lump payment of the total debt.

Reveal Rush Work on Note.

THE TRIBUNE is able to reveal a dramatic story of high speed work under unusual conditions associated with the drafting and dispatch of the British note.

No decision had been taken last evening concerning Great Britain's reply to Stimson's contention. Late in the evening an urgent message reached the foreign office from Washington to the effect that unless the British government quickly sent a reply to the American note it would be assumed by Washington that the contention of the United States had been accepted.

There was a great flurry and hustle in the government departments concerned. Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council and lord privy seal, was summoned from a dinner party. Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, was reached by telephone in Birmingham. As a result, the British note took shape in record time. Prime Minister MacDonald was called from his bed at 11:30 p. m. to approve the proposed terms of the note. This he did and the note went back to the foreign office for coding and cabling to Washington.

Prime Minister MacDonald, who returned yesterday from the Geneva disarmament discussions with a heavy cold and who spent most of last evening talking over the new note with his cabinet colleagues and got up for a morning cabinet session today at which the chief subject was the Geneva accord among Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, and the United States to work for disarmament.

BELGIUM VOTES TO DEFAULT

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Dec. 13.—Belgium will repudiate its war debt installment of $2,125,000 due the United States Thursday. The government formally announced this tonight after a long cabinet meeting. The installment due Thursday is made up entirely of interest on the Belgian debt.

The reasons given for the decision not to pay are that the Hoover moratorium and the Lausanne reparations agreement deprived Belgium of substantial sums and that the debt funding agreement of 1925 was based on Belgium's capacity to pay.

Cabinet Hands In Resignation.

Repudiation of the war debt was the final action of the government of Count Charles de Broqueville. After announcing its decision the cabinet resigned.

The following communique was issued:

"The cabinet council, having considered the diplomatic correspondence concerning the debt question, has ascertained that the debt agreement of 1925 is based upon Belgium's capacity to pay.

"The Hoover moratorium and the Lausanne agreement having deprived Belgium of income essentially necessary to balance the budget, the government considers that these circumstances render impossible the resumption of payments.

"In informing the American government of its decision, the Belgian government regrets that no amicable decision was reached previous to the December maturity, while expressing its readiness to offer complete collaboration with a view to seeking an all around debt settlement and a solution for other problems standing in the way of economic restoration."

Czechoslovakia to Pay.

PRAGUE, Dec. 13.—Czechoslovakia will pay in gold the war debt installment of $1,500,000 due the United States Thursday. This was announced by the government today.

Latvia Decides to Pay.

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Latvian government decided today to pay the debt installment of $148,852 due the United States Thursday.

DRYS DECLARE 4 PINTS OF BEER WILL INTOXICATE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The results of a series of experiments on the alcoholic reactions of a group of young Harvard students back in 1922 were placed before the house ways and means committee today as proof that 2.75 per cent beer is intoxicating.

DR. WALTER R. MILES.

A Yale professor who experimented on the Harvard students said that the young men, most of whom previously had had some experience with alcohol, had been visibly affected by the consumption of a pint and three-quarters of beverage containing 2.75 per cent alcohol. His expressed opinion was that four pints under certain conditions would make a man drunk.

Yale Professor Testifies.

Dr. Walter R. Miles, professor of psychology in the Yale university medical school, conducted the experiments while a professor at the Carnegie institute. He told the committee and a room jammed with spectators. He was placed on the stand by opponents of the Collier 2.75 beer bill to combat the testimony given last week by Prof. Yandell Henderson, professor of applied psychology at Yale. Henderson had testified that in his opinion 2.75 per cent beer should not be considered an intoxicating beverage.

Dr. Miles testified during an interlude in the presentation of a mass of adverse testimony by the professional dry leaders of the Anti-Saloon league, the Methodist and Southern Baptist churches and the Woman's Christian Temperance union.

Bishop Cannon Leads Fight.

Bishop James Cannon Jr., speaking this time for the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, led the fight of the dry overlords against the current move to legalize beer with a content of not less than 2.75 per cent. The bishop, whose last appearance before a congressional committee brought out the fact that a part of the campaign contributions for his Hoovercrat campaign in 1928 had found their way into his own personal account, urged congressmen to defy their constituents and vote against the return of beer. He asserted that congress does not have the authority to fix any limit of alcoholic content it desires.

Canon William Sheafe Chase, a reform and dry lobbyist of thirty-six years' experience; Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union; Dr. A. J. Barton, Anti-Saloon leaguer and spokesman for the southern Baptist conference, and Deets Picket, author of the Clip Sheet, the propaganda organ put out by the Methodist temperance board, rallied behind the bishop in the fight against enactment of beer legislation now.

The drys packed the room to the stifling point and supported with applause every move of their veteran spokesman. In the excitement of Bishop Cannon's appearance on the stand one woman collapsed and was helped out by the police.

Hostility Toward Witnesses.

Marked hostility toward the witnesses was shown on several occasions. Toward the close of the session Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], who was acting chairman, cut the final witnesses down to two minutes each. Such a protest was raised, however, that it was agreed to allow F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, and one or two others, to speak tomorrow.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills will be the main witness tomorrow. Speaker John Garner [Dem., Tex.] said today that a beer vote may come in the house next Tuesday. The committee had expected to complete its hearings today in time to get a vote this week, but so many witnesses turned up this became impossible.

Prof. Miles admitted to the committee at the outset that his experiments with 2.75 per cent beverages had not been conducted with real beer. He said that the brewers had declined to cooperate to the extent of sending him samples. As a result he fed his subjects a beverage compounded by himself which consisted of grape juice, sugar, and straight alcohol. Its alcoholic content was 2.75.

Heart Action Increased.

His experiments showed, he said, that one and three quarter pints of this 2.75 beverage speeded up the pulse rate, warmed the skin on the hands, and caused unsteadiness on the part of the eight Harvard young men who had been selected as subjects. The students ranged in age from 20 to 22 years. They worked three hours each day and were paid by the institute.

"The students were given one and three-quarter pints of the beverage over a thirty minute period and then watched carefully for reactions. We found within an hour the heart action had been accelerated by from 4 to 18 per cent, that their hands were warmed and that they showed unsteadiness in standing. The body temperature went up about 1 degree centigrade. The height of the effect developed in about an hour was all gone in from two to three hours. No permanent after effects were noticed," Prof. Miles testified.

In response to questioning, Prof. Miles said that he believed four pints of beer if consumed within thirty minutes would make many men intoxicated. Later, he said he might be mistaken about the four pints. He felt certain five pints, if a man could drink that much, would have an intoxicating effect.

Drys Call Move Hysteria.

Summarized, the testimony of the drys was to the effect that those backing the beer movement were suffering from hysteria, that liquor money was financing the drive to return beer and that congress could do no more deadly thing than to bring back legalized beer.

Deets Picket told the committee that the massed church organizations of the country would rise in a new movement to prevent modification. Representative Carl Chindblom [Rep., Ill.] advised the witness that a tremendous change in sentiment had taken place throughout the country and that the revolt against prohibition extended to within the ranks of the organized drys.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Remarks on Liquor Bring Protest

Topeka, Kas., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's reputed assertion that "the average American girl of today faces the problem of learning very young how much she can drink of such things as whisky and gin and sticking to the proper quantity" brought a "shocked protest" today from a group of women leaders here.

Fifty of them from many of the leading women's organizations in the city instructed a committee to inform the wife of President Elect Roosevelt that her radio address on the subject "has put a severe strain upon the loyalty of countless American women."

"Lest your astonishing statement," said the letter of protest "should pass unquestioned in America and Europe as representing the opinion of American womanhood, we wish in the name of hundreds of thousands of American women of all political parties to register a shocked protest against this statement."

"To advocate that an open door to the use of intoxicants may be safely entered by a judicious knowledge of the amounts a young girl may imbibe with impunity is the most astonishing statement yet made by a woman whose husband has been elected to the highest office in the gift of the people."

Protest at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Cuyahoga County Women's Christian Temperance union today composed and sent to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt a letter expressing "keen disappointment with your attitude toward this question," referring to her "utterances" on "certain conditions brought about by prohibition."

"Thousands of thoughtful American women," the letter said, "must have been startled, as we were, at your utterances . . . in which you charged that 'certain conditions brought about by prohibition require more strength of character' in young girls than you remember in your youth.

"Our first contention is that the conditions alluded to were not brought about by prohibiton, but in spite of prohibition. We maintain that these conditions were brought about by the enemies of prohibition. . . .

"You also say: 'The average girl of today faces the problem of learning very young how much she can drink of such things as whisky and gin and sticking to the proper quantity.' If all patriotic American women exerted their influence to discourage the use of alcoholic beverages . . . many young girls would make finer, nobler decisions than those you suggest. . . ."

Contrasted with Other Days.

New York, Dec. 13. — (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt could not be reached tonight for comment on the "protest" being made in regard to her recent radio address. The address dealt with young girls and one section of the text as made available for publication said:

"In my youth all of us saw wine upon the table in our homes, and many of us saw a good bit of excessive drinking, but very few girls, whether in high school or private school or college, drank anything beyond a glass of wine at home and it never would have occurred to the young man to carry a flask to an evening party.

"He carried it traveling or on a hunting trip, but not to social gatherings, for his host provided him with whatever might be necessary, and it did not brand a girl a prig or unsocial if she did not join in whatever conviviality was going on in the way of drinking.

"Prohibition seems to have changed that to a certain extent so that the average girl of today faces the problem of learning very young how much she can drink of such things as whisky and gin and sticking to the proper quantity.

"One of the things that we hoped for in prohibition was protection for the weak and I regret to say that I feel that conditions brought about by prohibition require more strength of character than any conditions that I remember in my youth."

WAVES GUN IN HOUSE; DEMANDS 'RIGHT TO TALK'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—A pair of Pennsylvanians turned the house of representatives into a wild west show today.

Up in the gallery Martin Kammerer of Allentown, Pa., pulled a .38 caliber revolver, which seemed about a yard long, and threatened to fill the air with lead unless he was granted the "right of free speech."

L. T. McFADDEN.

Down on the floor Representative Louis T. McFadden of Pennsylvania introduced a resolution seeking to impeach President Hoover because he had failed to obey the mandate of congress against cancellation of the war debts and had "endeavored to nullify the contracts existing between the United States and its debtors."

Find Dynamite in His Room.

Kammerer was induced to give up his gun as the result of a bit of strategy on the part of Representative Melvin J. Maas [Rep., Minn.]. He was surrounded by police and hustled off for mental observation.

Police who hurried to the Massachusetts avenue boarding house where Kammerer had taken lodgings found two sticks of dynamite in his room together with 60 shells for his pistol. Kammerer told the police that he had first intended to carry the dynamite to the gallery in his pocket.

"Then," he said, as the police gasped in astonishment, "if any one tried to stop me while I was making my speech I was going to shoot into the dynamite and kill myself. I decided, however, that some innocent person might be hurt by the explosion, so I left the dynamite at home."

Ask Him to Resign Post.

McFadden was snowed under and his resolution tabled by a vote of 361 to 8. The Republican members of the Pennsylvania delegation held a hasty meeting, the result of which was a letter to the congressman demanding his resignation as their secretary and informing him:

"We are not in accord with your resolution to impeach President Hoover and we condemn it."

It was a page boy's shout—"Look out for that guy with the gun"—that turned the startled eyes of the house toward the gallery, and then sent the members and the gallery fans in a mad scramble for the doors.

"It's a Bomb," One Shouts.

Representative William L. Fiesinger [Dem., O.] burst out of the doors moaning, "It's a bomb! It's a bomb! I just knew something like this was going to happen."

Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, New York radical, a world war aviator, also ran—but up the stairs toward the gallery.

Kammerer, waving his six shooter, threw one leg across the gallery rail, shouting his demand for the right of free speech.

"I want the floor for 20 minutes," he yelled.

Representative Maas walked over and stood below Kammerer.

"All right, buddy," he called up. "You'll get your 20 minutes. But first throw me your gun."

Kammerer hesitated. Then tossed the revolver. Maas caught it and hastily lowered the hammer. At that moment Representative La Guardia and capitol policemen reached the gallery and took Kammerer in charge.

Allentown police tonight credited Kammerer with being an expert marksman, a "dead shot" with rifle or pistol.

It was the second case of gun play in the capitol within five days. Only last Friday a senate clerk invaded the press gallery with drawn revolver and threatened to kill a newspaper man because of a critical magazine article.

Based on Handling of Debts.

President Hoover's handling of the debt situation formed the principal basis for McFadden's charges.

The President, McFadden asserted in a 22 page document, has consistently sought to bring about cancellation of the war debts owed this country. The debt negotiations now being conducted, he declared, represent a concerted movement on the part of the foreign debtors of the United States under the leadership of Mr. Hoover, "having for its object the cancellation of the war debts due the United States." The President, Mr. Fadden charged, "may have offered or may have taken a bribe" in connection with the debt situation.

Seven Democrats for It.

The debt agreements consummated at the London and Basel conferences, said McFadden, were the result of a conspiracy between Mr. Hoover and foreign statesmen designed "to force the United States into submission to foreign nations and international bankers and thus to obtain cancellation of the war debts."

The eight representatives who voted against Representative Pou's motion to lay the McFadden impeachment resolution on the table were as follows: Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.], Frank Hancock [Dem., N. C.], Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], Milton A. Romjue [Dem., Mo.], Martin L. Sweeney [Dem., O.], Anthony J. Griffin [Dem., N. Y.], Lorin Black [Dem., N. Y.], and Louis T. McFadden.

NO WEDDINGS IN BUENOS AIRES ON TUESDAY—13TH

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 13.—Not a single marriage was performed today in Buenos Aires, a city of more than two million inhabitants. It was Tuesday the 13th, which Latins consider Friday the 13th raised to the nth degree.

The superstitious found considerable justification for their belief in this evening's headlines announcing the injury of several workmen in an explosion of a tank of carbide and also of the collapse of a two story house not far from the business district. But there were no casualties.

BLOCS BRINGING NATION TO RUIN, WARNS J. M. BECK

Mulcting the Treasury of Billions, He Says.

interest us, but it is the passionate and very sincere ardor of these men, undoubtedly suffering from a crisis of unprecedented dimension."

Billion to Aid Agriculture.

He quoted figures showing that the present congress voted more than a billion dollars for aid of agriculture, including the 500 million to the farm board.

"Not only has congress appropriated a billion dollars in aid of agriculture, but as a matter of fact most of these states that are preponderantly agricultural actually contribute not a cent to the federal treasury," said Mr. Beck.

"I took at random from the latest figures of the treasury 12 states—Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Ohio, Mississippi, Montana, New Mexico, Oregon, South Carolina, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wyoming. Not one of these states paid to the federal treasury in income taxes as much as it drew out in a direct grant of money—not referring to relief measures at all.

"Moreover, in some of them the situation is remarkable. For example, Arizona drew in actual cash from the treasury twice as much as it contributed. Idaho, from which we hear the very vociferous utterances of Senator Borah, actually drew five times as much as it contributed to the federal treasury. Montana drew three times as much; North Dakota drew six times as much, South Dakota drew four times as much, New Mexico drew seven times as much, South Carolina drew three times as much, and Wyoming drew six times as much.

What the Dakotas Get.

"Now, I am of course, not giving you the exact figures, because I have them here in round figures. But we hear so much of North and South Dakota that I am going to enlighten you as to the amount of income taxes—which are more than one-half of our revenue—that North and South Dakota, originally a single territory, but now enjoying four senators as against two senators from Illinois, each paid into the federal treasury.

"North Dakota paid in $351,000 the last fiscal year. It drew out $2,283,000 in a direct subsidy from the government. South Dakota contributed $719,000 and drew out $2,922,000. So North Dakota holds the enviable record of contributing less than any other state in the Union of which I have any knowledge.

"Now, please observe that I have excluded all corporation taxes because corporation taxes are wholly misleading.

What Industrial States Pay.

"Now before we complete the picture and pass on to something a little more agreeable in figures, let me refer to three other states that are predominantly industrial states. New York contributed to the federal treasury in the last fiscal year in income taxes, corporation taxes excluded, $614,000,000. It drew out as a federal subsidy $9,000,000, or approximately one-fifty-seventh. Pennsylvania contributed $174,000,000, and drew back about $10,000,000, or one-seventeenth. Illinois contributed $173,000,000, and drew back $8,265,000, or approximately one-twentieth.

"Now, it might be argued that this is all explainable by the per capita wealth, but it is a very curious fact—while I cannot give you the figures for the same fiscal year, I have the figures that were given three or four years ago by the treasury department—that the average per capita wealth in this country was $2,921 in that year; and Wyoming had $4,119, North Dakota had $3,803, South Dakota had $4,904, Idaho had $4,109, and Montana had $4,755.

"So that the states that contribute a mere fraction to the tax sum of over two billion dollars raised by the federal government were the states in which the per capita wealth was at its highest.

A Time of Crisis.

"Am I arguing against relief to agriculture? Not at all. We are living in very abnormal times; we are living in times when the very abnormality of the times requires abnormal remedies. We cannot escape the logic of events.

"All things have to give way to a crisis, which I believe, considering its world-wide character, may be justly regarded as one of the four major crises of the Christian era. I believe that eighty years from now, if some historian tries to write the history of the first two thousand years of the Christian era, he will say that the four major catastrophes were: First, the fall of the Roman empire; second, the thirty years war; third, the Napoleonic wars; and fourth, the world war, itself more of an effect than a cause, but in itself a cause for an aftermath of such unprecedented character as the world has not known within the memory of man.

"This union of ours can only be lastingly maintained upon a foundation of political justice and upon an equality as near as human wisdom can make it, both of contribution and of benefit. You cannot have a race of different classes to take from the public treasury the common fund of all without introducing an apple of discord that will destroy this or any union."

Recalls Washington's Advice.

Mr. Beck took up the warnings in Washington's farewell address against the machinations of special groups. He spoke of the development of the union and the framing of the constitution, under which each state was given two senators, as a compromise, while in the house there was to be proportionate representation.

"As a consequence," he said, "I can name you 16 states that have not the population of either New York or Pennsylvania and possibly little more than that of Illinois that have 32 senators against any two senators of either New York, Pennsylvania, or Illinois; in fact, I could show you that a majority of the senate does not represent constituencies of one-fourth of the people of the United States."

Attacks Special Blocs.

Congressman Beck read Washington's warning against artful minorities and groups seeking to subvert the power of the people and declared the trouble with the government is that it has been penetrated by blocs.

"If you were to ask me," he said, "what I regard as the most profoundly disconcerting symptom in our great experiment of popular government, my answer would be this: That government is no longer for many and most practical purposes, a government of two parties.

"The trouble is today that the two parties have been infiltrated by blocs; each bloc is devoted to some particular object to which everything else is subordinated.

"We have a soldiers' bloc, labor bloc, a farm bloc, the strongest of them all. In my experience in congress no one can get anything past the farm bloc. They may occasionally make a concession if they don't get what they want, but nothing can be passed. If I were to get up tomorrow and ask for the abolition of some of the crazy, unconstitutional bureaus of the department of agriculture I would get nowhere at all.

"The agricultural bloc would say, 'This is a part of our three hundred million dollar department of agriculture,' and would stop it."

Sees Upturn in Business.

In his analysis of business conditions, Mr. Sisson, who is vice president of the Guaranty Trust company, New York, declared there now exists the strongest group of favorable factors for business recovery since the depression began. "The foundation of a major turn for the better is probably being laid," he said.

Mr. Sission presented the view that while the winter months may not bring "marked changes in the rate of business activity," the principal obstacle is a psychological one and that returning confidence makes it reasonable to look for "steady, if rather slow, advance towards a normal state of mind on the part of the business community as a whole."

He presented a balance sheet of favorable and unfavorable factors, and declared the good outweighs the bad. He listed recent favorable business developments as follows:

The somewhat stronger bond market; credit relief measures; steadiness in electric power consumption; inflow of gold to the United States; the fact that the gold standard of this country is not endangered; low inventories of finished goods; decline in commercial and banking failures; further increases in factory employment and pay rolls; continued gain in bituminous coal production; higher prices for some farm products; seasonal expansion in foreign trade; excess bank reserves at new high levels for year; decline in the hoarding of money; the reparations compromise at Lausanne.

Other Side of Picture.

Among the unfavorable factors listed by Mr. Sisson were:

"The decline in the pound sterling; weakness in commodity prices; railway freight entering seasonal decline; failure of the automobile and construction inqustries to show definite signs of revival; prospect of a special session of congress; political difficulties in Germany; tariff barriers; lack of balanced federal budget; burden of additional taxation; unsettled international debt and disarmament questions; low corporation earnings; low purchasing power; large stocks of raw materials.

"These unfavorable influences will undoubtedly modify the speed and extent of business recovery," said Mr. Sisson. "Because of them, it is probable that whatever improvement is anticipated will be of only moderate proportions until many of these obstacles are removed."

One of the most urgent problems, Mr. Sisson said, is that of reducing the cost of government and the burden of taxation, and the accomplishment of an actual balanced national budget.

As perhaps the most serious unsettling influences upon business, Mr. Sisson dwelt upon "acute political and financial unsettlement existing abroad."

"The chief debtor nations spent on armaments in 1931 nearly seven times as much as they were obligated to pay the United States on account of the debts," he pointed out, adding that "until the debt question is settled, genuine world recovery is impossible."

DENTISTS CRITICIZE U. S. COMPETITION BY VETERANS' BUREAU

Competition of the federal government with the dental profession was criticized last night in a report read to 1,000 members of the Chicago Dental society by Dr. Emil L. Aison, chairman of the society's committee appointed to testify last summer at the congressional investigation into federal ventures into private business. The meeting was held in the ballroom of Hotel La Salle.

"We do not set ourselves up as the only group suffering from unfair competition from the government," said Dr. Aison, "but rather do we cite our own just complaint as an additional reason for immediate and drastic action on the part of the professions and business to halt the waste of taxpayers' money for the purpose of competing unfairly with taxpayers.

"The veterans' bureau, fourteen years after the war, employs an army of 35,000 persons and spends millions in providing free hospitalization and professional services of doctors and dentists for ex-service men, thousands of whom can claim no service connection for their disabilities.

"This society believes the veteran who received his injury or disease in actual war service is entitled to every government aid, but the fact is, considering only the dental profession, that more than 51 per cent of veterans who received dental treatment from the government in the last year showed no service connection to justify this free service. The amount of money spent by the government for this dental service was in excess of $2,000,000.

"Our investigations have shown also that hundreds of veterans who received this free service were more than able financially to pay for treatment themselves."

A resolution was passed condemning the federal competition.

GROUP WILL APPEAL DECISION OF JARECKI AGAINST TAX PROTEST

The Association of Real Estate Taxpayers yesterday informed County Judge Jarecki that it was appealing its objection to the 1930 taxes which was filed in the name of James E. Bistor, executive secretary, to the state Supreme court. Judge Jarecki recently overruled the objection which was filed in behalf of 26,000 property owners.

In appealing such a case the association must post the full amount of the taxes. The association posted with County Treasurer McDonough a bond of $33,832 for 139 taxpayers. The remaining cases in the original objection, on which more than $19,900,000 is delinquent, will be offered in a tax sale by the county treasurer unless the owners pay up.

Bistor, president of the 219 Lake Shore Drive Building corporation, will appear today before Judge Jarecki for a hearing on the 1929 and 1930 objections he filed to taxes levied on the 44 apartment building. Dr. Franklin Martin and Secor Cunningham, stockholders in the corporation, who paid $22,800 of a total delinquent bill of $69,000 on Monday, will also be in court. Last Friday they informed the judge that Bistor had refused to pay the tax bill although ordered to do so by stockholders of the building corporation.

Judge Jarecki yesterday reiterated his warning to property owners who have paid nothing on account against taxes protected by objections in his court, that tomorrow is the last day for making partial payments in order to be allowed a remittance of half the penalties accrued against their property.

COUNCIL FAVORS CHICAGO BIDDER DESPITE PRICE

The finance committee of the city council yesterday went on record as favoring the purchase of Chicago products when it awarded a contract for 200 cast iron lamp posts to the Hansell Elcock company, a Chicago concern. The company's bid was $4 a post higher than that of the lowest bidder, a difference in the total contract price of $800. The low bidder was D. H. Walter & Co., which would furnish posts, the aldermen were informed, manufactured in Alabama. William A. Jackson, commissioner of gas and electricity, told the aldermen in recommending the Hansell Elcock bid that it would cost the city nearly all of the $800 difference to inspect the posts in Alabama if the contract were awarded to the Walter company.

Some opposition arose in the committee against a proposed renewal of a grant to the Moody Bible Institute to maintain a water pipe under a city street, but the renewal was approved after discussion.

"Why should the institute be given any special consideration," asked Ald. Frank Landmesser [38th], "when it has blocked the completion of the North La Salle street widening improvement by not moving all of its buildings back to the new line?"

STORY IN LONDON PAPER DENIED BY GOV. ROOSEVELT

Charges Reporter with Faking Interview.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—President Elect Roosevelt today strongly condemned the tactics of foreign journalists—and he particularly singled out British newspaper men—for misrepresenting his views.

Mr. Roosevelt branded the latest tale of his views, which portrayed him as favoring cancellation of interest on the war debts, as "made up out of whole cloth," and he went on then to tell of other incidents he called faking by British journalists.

Cites London Article.

The story appearing today in the London Express, written by Harry I. Greenwall, who had a short meeting with Roosevelt yesterday, was cited as a typical example of the sort of misrepresentation to which the President elect has been subjected. As cabled back to the United States, it read in part as follows:

"Let me at once clear up any misunderstanding there is at home concerning what the new President is going to do about war debts. I gather from our conversation that on March 5 he is going to make a statement which I believe will bring some measure of relief to a doubting world.

"But although I have the best reasons for believing that the interest on the war debts may be waived, and perhaps some pretty hard conditions will be attached to cutting off the interest, there is no possible shadow of doubt that the capital, representing at Roosevelt's own figure, $11,000,000,000, will have to be paid—every red cent of it."

Denies Giving Interview.

"The story is made out of whole cloth," Mr. Roosevelt declared when told of the cabled dispatch. "Greenwall came in here yesterday asking me for a Christmas message to the world. I told him I would not give it. I said I would not discuss anything with him, either on the record or off the record. When he asked me about war debts I said I would have nothing to say before March 4."

Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who was at today's conference, verified that he had sat through Mr. Roosevelt's meeting with the Britisher and that nothing in any degree justifying Greenwall's story had been said.

The President elect also denied a report published in a Sacramento, Cal., newspaper to the effect that he will offer the portfolio of the interior to Senator Hiram W. Johnson.

Mr. Roosevelt today appeared to have reconsidered his plans to battle for adoption, by the pending special session of the New York legislature, of a bill providing for a study of reforms in the New York City government. Legislative leaders of both parties seemed satisfied the matter is dead.

Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee of New York City appeared before a public hearing of the assembly today to declare that unless the legislature effects salary reductions in New York of $20,000,000 "there will be payless pay days in New York before long."

CHARGE RELIEF FUEL CONTRACT NOT FULFILLED

Officials of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission were informed yesterday that one of the commission's seven charity coal contractors is not fulfilling the delivery provision of the contract. The complaint was made by Frank H. Lanser, director of the coal bureau of the Better Business bureau. The company named was the Capitol Coal and Coke company, 4500 Division street.

Lanser said that on Monday he followed two trucks of the Capitol company and saw twenty charity deliveries, only three of which were made into sheds. The other deliveries were dumped in the snow on the street, he said. He charged that the price received by the Capitol company, $6.21 a ton, includes a 75 cent charge for carrying coal into the house.

Lanser pointed out that by eliminating the delivery provision and dumping the coal in the street the commission might save 75 cents a ton on the charity coal to be delivered up to next April, an amount estimated at 300,000 tons. The saving would be $225,000.

DEMOCRATS FILE ALLOTMENT PLAN FOR FARM RELIEF

Few Like It; All Fear to Oppose It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—While so-called farm leaders wrangled at a nearby hotel Chairman Marvin Jones [Dem., Tex.] of the house agricultural committee today introduced as the Democratic farm relief bill a measure calling for the setting up of the allotment plan, more far-reaching than heretofore proposed.

The bill carries with it the blessing of President Elect Roosevelt and embodies the work of his advisers. Using it as a basis the Democrats in congress hope to work out a farm relief program which may be passed at this session.

Hearings Start at Once.

Hearings before the house agricultural committee will begin tomorrow, with John A. Simpson of the Farmers' union, L. J. Taber of the National Grange, and E. A. O'Neal of the Farm Bureau federation scheduled to state their views. These are the farm association heads who have been meeting for two days in an effort to get together on some sort of program.

They are reported not to like the allotment plan, but to be afraid to oppose it. Congressional farm relief advocates have been waiting in vain for them to take the lead. Members of congress are similarly critical of the plan, and similarly fearful of the consequences if they turn it down.

Two Plans in One.

The Jones bill, which applies only to wheat, cotton, tobacco, and hogs, provides virtually two plans in one. For 1933 the secretary of agriculture would fix the percentage of these commodities required for domestic consumption.

No means of curtailing production is provided. Thirty days after passage of the act producers of the four commodities would be entitled to receive adjustment certificates on that portion of their sales falling within the domestic consumption percentage.

The certificates would be issued at the rate of 42 cents a bushel for wheat, 5 cents a pound for cotton, 4 cents for tobacco, and 2 cents for hogs, less a small administrative charge.

With passage of the act adjustment charges at these same rates would be levied on the processing of the four commodities. Tariffs at these rates would be levied on imports and an extra tariff of 5 cents a pound on short staple cotton and cotton goods would be imposed.

Plan for Limit on Production.

Prior to the planting of 1934 crops of wheat, cotton, and tobacco, and the breeding of hogs for the 1934 pig crop, the secretary of agriculture might recommend and the President proclaim a second year in which the adjustment charges and tariffs would be in effect.

But in the second year only those producers who entered into voluntary contracts not to increase production or at the order of the secretary to decrease production would receive a splitup at the end of the crop year of the money in the fund raised by the charges on their particular commodity.

Mr. Farley, it Appears, Will Have to Walk When He Takes Office or Change Hats

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 13.—It is to be hoped that the Democrats will not make too much political capital of the plight of the postmaster general, Walter F. Brown, who had to buy a new limousine, at government expense, because the one which was given to him, at government expense, was not high enough to provide clearance for his high hat.

The new postmaster general will be James A. Farley, the chairman of the New York prize fight commission, who is 6 feet 2 inches. Mr. Brown is not quite 6 feet tall. This probably means that when Mr. Farley takes office he will have to scrap Mr. Brown's high hat special and buy a higher one, at government expense, unless he is willing to ride in a horizontal position or wear a lower high hat.

Mr. Farley Is Practical.

Either of these proposals undoubtedly would be unthinkable to Mr. Farley. He is a practical man, of course, because otherwise he would not have maintained the high social and cultural tone of the prize fight industry in New York without excluding the yeggs and bootleggers who occupied one of the front rows of Madison Square Garden on gala nights and operated so many of the prominent pugilists. But I am quite sure Mr. Farley would have a sentimental reason for preferring not to go riding in a horizontal position in a large black car, because persons who go riding in this posture generally do not come back from where they go.

So the horizontal high hat special is out as far as Mr. Farley is concerned and there remains only the idea of his wearing a lower high hat. However, Mr. Farley is a New York Democrat and New York Democrats are great devotees of the high hat. In fact, when higher hats are worn New York Democrats will wear them. The high hat is at once the highest ambition and the favorite aversion of the New York Democrat. When they are mere precinct workers and petty contractors they wear the traditional 75 cent cap and they cherish no sentiment as fervent as their loathing for the stovepipe of opulence and power.

It Means Success.

But when they become district leaders or rise to the heights of public service and consequence as subway builders or sewer contractors they begin to be seen at the funerals of other public benefactors marching under hats of great altitude. There is no sight in New York more significant of the political ideals of the loyal Tammany man and success in life than the long file of local statesmen and contractors treading solemnly and with grave countenance behind some brother going for a horizontal ride to some leafy bower in some suburban park where the gateposts have limestone urns on top.

If this incident of Mr. Brown's high hat, the upkeep of which cost the government $3,500 in one item, to say nothing of chauffeur's wages, gas, oil, tires and wear and tear, is to bring the stovepipe hat into general discredit with the nation, then the great victory of the people at the polls in November will have been an empty one. For if a man has labored all his life to become a statesman in a national administration and is then forbidden by some inopportune development to wear the insignia of success, what is the use of it all? It seems almost like a conspiracy of the Republican party to take the pleasure out of the Democratic administration.

A Highbrow, Eh?

It may not be generally known, but your correspondent once wore a high hat. This was in London. There was a convention of English journalists which required that all reporters covering the opening of parliament should wear the high hat. They might have fringe on their cuffs and patches on their pants, but they must wear the high hat to cover the opening of parliament. Your correspondent was assigned to attend the opening of parliament and appeared at the office to report for work wearing a checkered cap of a Chicago fire engine chaser. There was a great flurry in Temple chambers and an issue was made.

It was the contention of your correspondent that a plug hat was not reasonably to be required of a reporter receiving $27.50 per week, sterling, as part of his regulation equipment, and after some dispute it was agreed that the office should pay the cost of the plug hat, which was thirty shillings. However, it was stipulated that the hat should then revert to the firm to be held in stock for future reporters who happened to draw the assignment to the opening of parliament.

It's All Hooey.

This solution was all right except that your correspondent happened to have an outsize head, due to his having been transferred abruptly from the status of apprentice reporter to that of international journalist at $27.50 per week. Therefore, when the next man wished to wear the office plug hat a year later the hat came down over his ears and shoulders and fitted him like a barrel. He was not visible above the knees, and after several attempts to stuff the head band with copies of the London Morning Telegraph it was decided to retire the hat.

At last report the office plug hat was being used for a geranium pot on the office window.

Your correspondent did not require a special limousine to ride to Westminster for the opening of parliament. He rode to Westminster on a tuppenny bus, and this suggests the idea that the cabinet officers in Washington might ride about their official business on the street cars, which are very good in Washington. A high hat is just a state of mind, anyway.

Pope's Nephew Heads Body to Set Up New Vatican Rule

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Pope Pius promulgated today a commission to form a new government for Vatican City. His nephew, Count Franco Ratti, was named president of the planning commission. Other appointments will be announced Thursday. Reorganization of the government, whereby three commissioners for art, administration, and engineering, will be set up, was announced last week.

DECEMBER COLD IN LOS ANGELES 55 YEAR RECORD

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Los Angeles is having its most frigid and sustained December cold snap in the 55 years since weather reports were collected here.

The milkmen found snow on some of Hollywood's hillside streets last Sunday morning. Since then icy rains, whipping winds, flurries of snow, and ocean gales have provided upsetting havoc.

In Los Angeles' downtown the temperature officially veered from 45 to 55 today, suburban and neighborhood communities reporting freezing of 32, and on down to 24.

Only a minor percentage of the bungalows and apartments are equipped with furnace heat. The result has been hundreds of fire calls. Two were asphyxiated in Long Beach as a result of using gas heaters.

Thousands of orange and lemon growers in a radius of sixty miles of Los Angeles fired up hundreds of thousands of orchard heaters, better known as smudgers, last Friday night, and they have been burning every night since then.

Not many ships were at sea today, because of a 47 mile an hour gale that ruined the pleasure craft pier and wrecked 41 small yachts off San Pedro today. Damage at the yacht anchorage was estimated to exceed $100,000. One of three United States navy ammunition barges was ripped from its anchorage and crashed on Cabrillo beach pier.

YOUNG SUSPECT HELD IN TEACHER MURDER INQUIRY

Anonymous Call Leads to Youth's Arrest.

As a result of an anonymous telephone call, police seized a suspect last night for questioning on the murder of Edwin O. Schildhauer, handsome bandmaster of Austin High school, who was slain Saturday night after being kidnaped in front of his home at 3435 Fulton street. The prisoner gave the name of David Cahill. Later he said his real name was Saubert, but that he uses Cahill, the name of his stepfather. He is 21 years old, and police said he had a prison record.

Capt. Patrick Kelliher with Sergt. Tom Nolan and a squad made the arrest after their telephone informant had said: "If you want the murderer of Schildhauer, go to 3139 Fulton street." The police found Saubert there. He said he had attended a dance at Guyon's Paradise on Friday night. Police said that Schildhauer had also attended the dance.

Offers an Alibi.

Saubert, who is six feet tall and a blond, gave an alibi. He said he spent Saturday evening with Miss Lona Drobny, 1818 Ballou street, and that his mother had driven him to the girl's home. Miss Drobny lives with a married sister, Mrs. Martha Davidson, who owns an automobile similar in size and make to the machine in which Schildhauer was abducted.

The prisoner said he and the girl were together from 6:30 p. m. to midnight. They went to a picture show during the evening, he said. Schildhauer was kidnaped by a man described by Mrs. Frances Schildhauer, the widow, as short and broad shouldered. She fixed the time of the attack at 8:30 p. m.

After questioning Saubert, police said they doubted that the youth had any connection with the murder. They said, however, they would hold him as a robber suspect for the next police showup. The authorities learned that Saubert had served a term in the county jail in 1926 and more recently served a sentence in a Nebraska penitentiary for larceny.

Hunt for Speakeasy.

Lieut. Thomas Duffy, in charge of the police inquiry into the murder, was told yesterday by George Birkinshaw, father-in-law of the slain man, that several weeks ago Schildhauer said he was going to try to close a speakeasy where students drank and played the slot machines. Lieut. Duffy said he had been unable to find the place Schildhauer described.

Earlier police investigated information furnished by Miss Marie Griseto, 16 year old student at Austin High school, who lives at 5960 West Chicago avenue. The girl's father wrote to Principal Wilbur Wright of the Austin school, saying his daughter had a possible clew. Lieut. Thomas Duffy and Sergts. Frank Donohue and Charles Reynolds questioned her.

"I was at the high school's charity dance last Friday night," the girl said. "Capt. Schildhauer [he had this courtesy title in the school R. O. T. C.] asked me for the second dance. I told him I had promised that dance and then he put up three fingers, indicating he wanted the third dance and I nodded.

Calls Her a "Ditcher."

"Before he could find me for the third dance a young man who I later thought was a hoodlum swung me out on the floor. Capt. Schildhauer saw me dancing and called me 'ditcher' as he and his partner danced past us.

"My partner asked me if I knew the big 'sissy' and I said I did. He said I must be an Austin High school girl and I said I was. He then said he didn't think much of Capt. Schildhauer.

"'If you had a chance to dance with the 'big shot' you should have taken it, as you may never have another chance,'" she quoted her dancing partner as saying.

She described the youth who made the threat as about 19 years old and 5 feet 5 inches in height, which would fit the description of the man who was seen by Mrs. Schildhauer to attack her husband and drag him into a car. The Griseto girl was taken to the bureau of identification to look at pictures of gangsters, but was unable to pick out any resembling the man with whom she danced.

Girl to View Saubert.

Capt. Kelliher said he would have her view Saubert, even though he is taller than the man described by Miss Griseto.

Chief Deputy Coroner Stephen Kolanowski said the investigation of the slaying of Schildhauer had been halted temporarily to await the funeral this afternoon. An intensive inquiry is to be made into the private life of the bandmaster, whose appearance, good manners and pleasing personality attracted the admiration of many women and young girls, according to his wife.

LINCOLN PARK LIGHT CHANGE UP TO NEXT BOARD

A new Lincoln park board, to be appointed after Governor Elect Horner is inaugurated on Jan. 9, will inherit the job of installing a progressive traffic light system in Michigan avenue to eliminate the delays, annoyances and hazards encountered by motorists under the present antiquated stop and go lights.

H. Otto Weege, general superintendent under the present board, said he saw no hope of raising money for the traffic improvement before Jan. 9. For all the refinements recommended by engineers, including the installation of lights at five intersections now unguarded, the cost is estimated at $11,500.

"We have millions in bonds that could be used for this purpose, but we have no buyers for the paper," said Mr. Weege. "I'm fully aware of the many advantages of the progressive lights and for two years have advocated their installation, but we can't spend money for traffic lights when we're three and a half months behind on our pay roll."

The south park board and the city have agreed to install the modern control system in Michigan avenue south of the river bridge if the Lincoln park board will buy the new lights in its jurisdiction north of the river.

Inside Dairy Workers Take Cut of $3 a Week

The Inside Dairy Plant Workers' union, local 754, announced yesterday that its membership had voted to take a $3 a week wage cut in a special meeting Monday night. The reduction, from $39 to $36, is to be retroactive to Dec. 1 as part of the understanding between Chicago milk companies and organized labor in making possible the reduction from 11 to 9 cents a quart in retail milk prices. There are about 2,000 dairy workers, of whom about 1,400 are employed, according to Frank L. Pangbourn, secretary.

FANNIE MAY CANDY SHOPS

220 W. Madison St.

CHICAGO

December 14, 1932

Mr. and Mrs. Candy Buyer,
The Middle West,
U. S. A.

Dear Friends:

For over twelve years I have been telling you of the wonderful quality of Fannie May's home-made Candies. And I have been selling them to you at seventy cents a pound.

When I first offered these Candies to you, I had only two shops. Today, I maintain more than forty in and around Chicago. You must have liked these Candies, otherwise I would not be maintaining so many shops.

I have always used the finest chocolate coatings, the best grade of cream, the purest table butter, the most expensive nut meats and flavorings. And, most important of all, I use no preservatives. For this reason they are the most genuinely home-made Candies.

For the coming year, most important reductions have been effected on these same high quality materials. I have, therefore, decided to pass this saving on to my customers. Effective today, the full line that formerly sold at seventy cents is cut to fifty cents a pound. As usual, you are to have the privilege of making your own selection.

Fannie May's name has always stood for highest quality, and I give you my word this fine quality will never be tampered with.

Thanking you for your patronage in the past—and hoping to see you before Christmas, I am

Sincerely yours,

Fannie May

SCHOOL ENGINEER CHIEF SAYS PAY CUT MUST COME

Union Ready to Take It, Spain Declares.

The engineer-custodians of the Chicago school system are prepared and willing to take a salary cut along with teachers and other employés for next year, Joe J. Spain, president of the engineers' union, declared yesterday that the cuts must come if the schools are to continue in operation.

Several members of the board of education, who will discuss the 1933 school budget at a meeting today, have asserted that they are in favor of salary reductions in order to keep within anticipated revenue. Nearly 20 million dollars must be pared from a tentative 80 million dollar budget in order to meet the tax levies agreed upon.

Urges Employé Coöperation.

"The tax situation is such," said Mr. Spain, "that the employés should coöperate with the board in running the schools on the revenue collected. The school system is like a sore tooth. It will have to be treated and filled or pulled out. I am against pulling it out."

Mr. Spain said he favored keeping the schools open for the full 10 month term and all the current activities retained.

"The salaries will have to be cut or the children will be deprived, and I am against further curtailment of activities," he continued. "It is unusual for a labor man to talk in this vein. I would talk differently if the school board had money if its members were tied up with big business and I thought it was just an attempt to cut wages. But this is a different situation."

The salary cuts, according to Mr. Spain, should be in effect for a one year period. He will oppose any attempt to scale down the salaries permanently.

Teachers Oppose Basic Cut.

At the same time it became known that many of the teachers realize their pay must be trimmed, but will work several weeks without compensation rather than have their basic salary schedules cut.

James Armstrong, executive secretary of the Principals' club, said that if the basic schedules were revised downward it would take at least 10 years to bring them up again. "There was an effort made by the former superintendent, William McAndrew, several years ago to raise the schedules," said Mr. Armstrong, "but the opposition of certain classes of teachers, who thought they weren't going to get enough, defeated him."

The work of the special budget committee appointed by President Lewis E. Myers of the school board will be outlined at today's meeting. Other trustees on the committee for trimming expenditures include Orville J. Taylor, Robert F. Carr, Joseph P. Savage, H. Wallace Caldwell and Mrs. W. S. Hefferan.

The board will also be asked to adopt a resolution that all employés of the school system who have incomes of less than $200 a month may get credit on food, clothing, coal and other commodities with the emergency relief commission. The credit will be extended to $50, which will be taken out of the employes' November pay check.

South Side Teachers Squabble.

Members of the teacher delegate assembly of the south side schools held a turbulent session yesterday in the study hall of the Hyde Park High school, 6220 Stony Island avenue.

A squabble arose when a motion was made for the appointment of a committee to call on Mayor Cermak to demand that he use his influence against any pay cuts for teachers. One group advocated calling upon the school board instead of the mayor.

"We'll get little enough support from the mayor," said Robert C. Keenan, delegate from the Bowen High school, in support of the motion, "but from the school board we'll get less." The motion was carried.

EX-MAYOR WALKER SAYS HE GETS STUNG 'LIKE A MOVIE STAR'

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

CAP D'ANTIBES, France, Dec. 13.—Through an American writer who is working with him on his memoirs here and who is acting as his spokesman, former Mayor James J. Walker of New York today denied that he knew anything about the interior decorator's bill on account of which his property in New York has been placed in receivership.

"Somebody may have done a job of interior decorating in the hotel suite I once had, but I am not keeping that suite any longer," Walker authorized the spokesman to say for him.

"If they want to place me in receivership over these 10 cent suits, let them go ahead. Anyway, I'm always stung, as though I were a movie star."

COL. J. M. GRAHAM BECOMES CORPS CHIEF OF STAFF

Col. James M. Graham was installed as chief of staff of the 6th corps area, United States army, in a military ceremony at the army headquarters at 1819 Pershing road yesterday. Col. Graham relieved Col. William H. Burt, whose period of service in Chicago has expired.

Col. Graham came to Chicago from Fort Slocum, N. Y., which he commanded for two years. His service record includes the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection, the Mexican border campaign, and the world war. His father, Maj. Gen. Montgomery Graham, who fought in the civil war, and his grandfather, Col. James Duncan Graham, both saw service with the regular army in Chicago.

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 6th corps area, presided at the installation ceremony.

DELAY INQUEST INTO KILLING OF BERWYN POLICE

The inquest into the double slaying of Policemen Frank Svec and Edgar Chatterton of Berwyn was continued yesterday until Dec. 23 to allow the police more time for investigation. The policemen were shot to death by Arthur Lavac, 1535 Elmwood avenue, Berwyn, on Monday night when they went to the Lavac home to serve him with a warrant for failure to send his children to school.

Police said that a search of Lavac's home revealed books written in Bohemian, which were said to be communist propaganda. Lavac said that he fired because he thought the policemen were burglars. His wife said that he was afraid of burglars and had set bear traps near two windows in his home.

It has been determined that the two policemen were shot with a .38 caliber pistol. The weapon has never been found, although a thorough search of the Lavac home was made.

WIDOW, 67, SUES GERMAN PRINCE FOR BACK WAGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—After thirty years of loyal service to the Hohenzollern family, Marie Bartsch, a widow 67 years old, is penniless. She is unable to recover her pension or a cent of the money owed her by her once royal employers. Her husband was a court official of the late Prince Friedrich Leopold of Prussia—popularly known as the "red prince" because he unfurled a red flag over his palace near Potsdam when former Kaiser Wilhelm fled to Holland.

Mrs. Bartsch's husband died six months ago but she cannot recover the pension to which she is entitled. The arrears amount to more than $200. She sued young Prince Friedrich Leopold and the adminstrators of the "red prince's" estate today in the Potsdam labor court. She was permitted to bring suit as a pauper.

Attorneys for the estate claimed they had no money and could make no payments. Upon cross-examination the lawyers admitted that Prince Leopold is now living in Lugano, Switzerland. The court assured the widow that her pension must be paid and the hearing was adjourned.

Honduran Troops Capture Stronghold of Rebels

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Dec. 12.—[Delayed in transit.]—(AP)—Gen. Gusto Umana, rebel commander, evacuated La Esperanza today, leaving that stronghold in the hands of Nationalist troops. The western zone is now completely free of rebels. Nationalist troops are being concentrated for an offensive against rebels in southeastern Honduras.

ALL CATHOLIC SCHOOLS TO BE SHUT IN WINNIPEG

Archbishop Says Burden Is Too Great.

WINNIPEG, Can., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Msgr. A. A. Sinnott, archbishop of Winnipeg, announced today that all Catholic schools in Winnipeg will be closed at the end of this year.

When the public schools here reopen after the holidays, the school board will be called upon to make provision for the addition of nearly 2,400 more grade school children.

The archbishop made his announcement in a letter addressed to Mayor Ralph Webb, in which it was said that after forty years of effort the time has come when the burden has become greater than the Catholic community in Winnipeg can bear.

"Were it not for the devotion and zeal of the teaching sisters," the archbishop said, "it would not have been possible to have continued the Catholic schools for so long a period. It requires about $30 per pupil to educate a child in the Catholic schools as compared with the figure of $84.65 per pupil for a year in the elementary or intermediate grades in the public schools, the figure recently given out by the public school board."

The archbishop pointed out that each of the parochial schools had been conducted entirely and exactly along the lines of the Winnipeg public school board. He said only the half hour daily allowed for religious instruction had been used for that purpose.

STEALS STREET CAR SO HIS GIRL CAN HAVE A WARM RIDE HOME

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Fred Krause, former motorman, stole a trolley car early today for his girl and had a very reasonable explanation for it when they got him to the 5th avenue court in Brooklyn, where he pleaded guilty. He was remanded to the Raymond street jail until Friday, when he will be sentenced.

Krause said that his girl friend was cold and that she wanted to go home and that he saw the car standing without a motorman and that he decided to take her home in it.

"Is the young woman in court?" Magistrate David Hirshfield demanded.

"No," replied Krause.

"That's mighty poor thanks you're getting," said the magistrate.

BEER GANGSTERS TO BE CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

An announcement was made at the detective bureau last night that Martin Quirk and Fred Farley, south side beer gangsters who were arrested by Sergt. James Keeley at 7130 Cyril avenue on Monday, would be formally charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

The complainant in the case is Patrick Joyce, who recently opened a restaurant at 6440 Cottage Grove avenue. He said the two men went to him and told him he would have to handle their beer if he expected to remain open. When he informed the pair he was not going to handle any alcoholic beverages, he said, they put a barrel of beer in regardless of his protests.

Later, when Farley and Quirk went to him and tried to collect $55, he told them to take back the beer, which was untouched. Then, according to Joyce, the two men slugged him with the butts of their pistols.

OFFICIALS HEAR "LAST WORD" ON CHRISTMAS PAY

Act to Meet Terms Fixed by Sargent Group.

Officials of the city, school board, sanitary district, and county reacted promptly yesterday to the letter from the citizens' committee on public expenditures, which set forth what the committee and banks are willing to do to aid the taxing bodies in meeting their more pressing financial difficulties.

The offers of aid are contingent upon each of the governments making the economies prescribed by the committee upon its 1933 tax levies. Provided that is done, the committee promised that it would ask banks to buy tax warrants to give all employes of the four governments two weeks' pay before Christmas and intimated that it would also seek pay for temporary employes, principally in the county, who have been discharged unpaid.

Will Seek to Save Credit.

The committee also promised that the banks would "put forth every effort possible" to prevent bond defaults by the city and school board on the first of the year, and that the committee would make a campaign for collection of delinquent taxes and for the sale of tax warrants to make possible more pay days. The actions of the various governments were as follows:

1. The sanitary trustees promised to confine their 1933 levy to the committee's limit of $4,000,000, and likewise set the same limit on their 1932 levy, reducing it 20 per cent below the 1931 levy.

2. County commissioners put a number of elected fee officers on record as willing to accept pay cuts and demanded that other fee officers and judges of the Circuit and Superior courts agree to take similar cuts. The county board did not pass the resolution limiting its levy as requested by the committee, however, and some of its members charged that banks had broken faith with the county in the matter of pay roll funds during the present year.

Pledges City's Cooperation.

3. Mayor Cermak caused the drafting of a resolution, which he will present to the city council today, pledging the city to confine its levies to the limit of 50 millions proposed by the committee.

4. School officials said that they would comply with any suggestion of their bondholders in order to avoid defaults on the bonds maturing on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1. The school board was the first governmental body to pass the resolution limiting its tax levy as requested by the citizens' committee, but the matter of bond defaults is expected to come up at the meeting today. The board's difficulty is that it has no legal authority to refund its bonds, which is the method of avoiding defaults under consideration by the banks.

The Committee's Letter.

The letter which was transmitted by the citizen's committee to Mayor Cermak, President Whealan of the county board, President Myers of the school board, and President Fowler of the sanitary district was over the signatures of Fred W. Sargent, general chairman of the committee; Ernest R. Graham, chairman of its executive committee, and D. F. Kelly, chairman of its advisory committee. It follows:

"The committee on public expenditures is authorized to make the following statement pertaining to the financial affairs of the city, board of education, sanitary district, and county:

"1. If the above named municipal corporations will fix their budgets for the year 1933 on the basis approved or to be approved by the committee on public expenditures, then the committee will undertake to secure from the banks sufficient funds to cover the first two weeks' pay roll in the month of December for such municipal corporations.

Asks Copies of Pay Rolls.

"In addition the committee requests that each of the above named corporations furnish, as promptly as possible, copies of pay rolls for employes formerly in service and now discharged. Said pay rolls should be classified so as to give to the committee, as nearly as possible, complete detailed information as to the duties of said discharged employes.

"2. The banks will agree to use every reasonable means available to them and to put forth every effort possible to prevent the bonds of the board of education and the city maturing in January and February, 1933, from going off the approved legal list in the various states in so far as said states have laws referring to such bonds as legal investments for insurance companies, savings banks, and trust companies.

"3. The committee can and will agree with the municipal corporations named that it will continue and intensify its efforts looking to the collection of taxes now delinquent, and in addition will organize a drive looking to the sale of 1931 and 1932 tax warrants for the purpose of providing as much money as possible from such sources to cover additional pay rolls.

"4. Since prompt action is necessary in order to secure money from the banks for pay rolls before Christmas it will be satisfactory if each of the bodies referred to passes a resolution agreeing that the maximum appropriation which is the basis for tax levies shall not exceed an amount which will call for and result in total tax levies for all purposes, other than payment of bonds and interest, in the following amounts for each government: City, $50,000,000; schools, $48,000,000; Cook county, $12,000,000; sanitary district, $4,000,000."

CALLS BOARD MEETING

President Whealan called a meeting of the county board as soon as he received the Sargent committee letter. He invited all of the county fee officers and the judges of the Circuit and Superior courts to be present. The meeting was held in the morning, while the courts were in session, and not a judge appeared.

Deputy County Controller O'Connor read the letter. He said that 1932 levies for the purposes which the Sargent committee says must be compressed within 12 millions for 1933 totaled $14,150,000. Preliminary budgets for the county corporate, forest preserve, and highway funds this year total $12,200,000. This ignores the levy of any taxes for pensions, election costs, or the Riverside sso. Mr. O'Connor estimates that the county board must make budget cuts of $1,300,000 below its present estimates.

For Voluntary Pay Cut.

"This meeting is to show the fee officers the condition of the county," said President Whealan. "Today we are six months in arrears on salaries. We're in such a bad situation that we have had to open a relief station for county employes. We know that we have no legal power to cut fee officers' salaries, but we want to know how many of these officers will take voluntarily the same pay cut imposed upon their employes. We are going to ask those not legally amenable to reductions to state their opinions in writing. This includes judges, county commissioners, and all fee officers.

County Clerk Robert Sweitzer, Recorder Clayton Smith, Clerk Frank Zintak of the Circuit court, Clerk George Seif of the Criminal court, Clerk Mitchell Robin of the Probate court, and Sheriff Meyering agreed to accept pay cuts, and then the commissioners opened their attack on the bankers.

"Who authorized this committee to make a statement to the governing bodies of Cook county as to what they should spend?" asked Commissioner Marie Plumb.

"The bankers," replied Mr. O'Connor.

"The banks didn't keep faith with us," said Commissioner Maurice Kavanaugh. "They told us if we did certain things we would have pay days as often as other governmental bodies. Today we are six months behind."

"We've reached the stage where we shouldn't be dealing in the dark," said Mrs. Plumb. "We ought to see more authority than this idle statement. I for one will never vote for salary retrenchments—unless I do see more authority—simply because the banks didn't keep faith last year."

Judges Hold Meeting.

Chancellors of the Circuit and Superior courts, including Judges Robert E. Gentzel, William J. Lindsay, Joseph Burke, Harry M. Fisher, Hugo Friend, and William V. Brothers, met in the chambers of Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday afternoon to consider the action of the county commissioners. After the meeting the judges announced that they had no statement to make. It was understood that the judges would refuse to recognize the board's demand that their salaries be cut.

DEBT COURT EXEMPTS UNPAID EMPLOYES OF THE CITY AND COUNTY

Cook county government employes who have been unpaid for months will be exempt from prosecution in the Municipal Debtors' court, Judge Thomas A. Green, who is sitting there, announced yesterday. There already have been 255 employes of the city, school, sanitary district, or county governments brought into court by creditors. All these, the judge said, have been "granted a moratorium."

It is the duty of the presiding judge in the debtors' court to allow attorneys to inquire into the assets of debtors against whom judgments have been obtained. If any assets are discovered the sitting judge is required to issue an order for their seizure by the creditors. Judge Green said that the new policy had been adopted after conferences with Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby.

LIMIT CANAL LEVY

The sanitary district trustees complied promptly with the request of the Sargent committee by adopting a resolution setting $4,000,000 as the limit of their 1933 tax levy for purposes other than bonds and interest, and went a step farther by setting the same limit on their 1932 levy. The resolution, passed unanimously by the finance committee, follows:

"It is the sense of this committee that we cooperate to the fullest possible extent with the committee on public expenditures, and we will comply with their request under date of Dec. 12 and take for a basic figure in the consideration of our corporate requirements a tax levy for 1932 and 1933 in amount of $4,000,000 each, subject, of course, to the concurrence of the board of trustees and in conformity with our conversation of this date with your Mr. Rees relative thereto."

Since every trustee is a member of the finance committee, the approval of the board itself is a foregone conclusion. The conversation of the trustees with John O. Rees, technical adviser of the Sargent committee, was in regard to tax delinquencies, it was learned.

"We can operate on a levy of 4 millions if the loss and cost of collections is the normal 10 per cent or thereabouts," said Thomas J. Bowler, president of the sanitary board, "but this year it [the collection on the 1930 levy] is more than 40 per cent. We do not expect to have to cut salaries beyond the 15 and 20 per cent cuts which we imposed last June.

"We have cut our operating expenses enough during the present year to pay our 1932 obligations out of a levy of 4 millions. That is a 20 per cent reduction from the present 1931 levy of 5 millions, and we reduced that levy, in turn, from an original of $6,000,000 early this year."

Priest Seriously Injured in Automobile Accident

The Rev. John Lauer, 30 years old, assistant pastor of St. Felicita's Roman Catholic church, was seriously injured at Freeport, Ill., yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding skidded on an icy road and crashed into a tree. Attorney Robert E. Kinnare, 117 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, also a passenger in the car, escaped with minor hurts. The two men were on a hunting trip.

For the second successive day there were no fatal automobile accidents in Cook county and the 1932 toll remained at 1,650.

ARMED IRISHMEN RAID WAREHOUSE OF BRITISH BEER

[Copyright, 1932, by the New York Times.]

CORK, Dec. 13.—Protesting against the sale of British beer in the Irish Free State, sixteen armed men raided a warehouse early today.

Only four workmen were about when the men, armed with revolvers, entered and commenced smashing the casks of beer.

Extensive propaganda has been carried on in the south of Ireland by a group known as the British Boycott Association for Boycotting British Beer. Recently Cork and Dublin bars have been visited by youths who warned against dispensing the British product.

STATE TAX RATE BOOSTED TO 50C; HIGHEST TO DATE

Board Votes Increase of 11 Cents.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The Illinois state tax rate for taxes collectible next year was fixed today at 50 cents. This is an increase of 11 cents over the previous rate of 39 cents. And it is the highest rate in the history of the state.

This does not mean, however, according to the officials who determined the figure, that the next bills of the taxpayers as a whole will be any higher in dollars and cents than their latest ones. Valuations have fallen so far, it was explained, that the higher rate is necessary in order to provide something like the revenue now being collected for state purposes.

The drop in valuations, it was estimated roughly, has amounted to about one billion dollars in Cook county and there have been similar decreases in many classes of property throughout the state.

Blame Cook County Delay.

The delayed collections in Cook county also were held partly responsible for the necessity of raising the rate to a point considered certain to bring in the required revenue.

Here is a tabulation showing a comparison of the new rates with the old, the figures used being cents:

	New.	Old.
General revenue	21	14
Distributive school fund	16	13½
Waterway bonds	2 1-3	1 2-3
Soldiers' bonus bonds	6 1-3	5½
University of Illinois	3 1-3	3 1-3
Blind relief	1	1
	50	39

Stated in figures of cents there have been higher rates in the past, but these rates were based on a different basis of valuation. Until 1919 the taxable valuation was one-third the full valuation. Until 1927 it was one-half the full valuation. Now the tax rate is based on the full valuation.

The largest increase was in the levy for the general revenue fund which is used for general state purposes. Seven of the 11 cent increase, a jump of an even 50 per cent, is made for this fund. As it is the largest of the six items which make up the total of 50 cents, the increase sought in receipts for this fund also is much larger than that for any other purpose.

State Board Fixes Rate.

The new rate was fixed by the state tax levy board, consisting of Gov. L. L. Emmerson, Auditor Oscar Nelson, and Treasurer Edward J. Barrett. The former two are Republicans and Barrett is a Democrat. Under the constitution the incumbents of these three offices have the sole power to fix the rate.

In announcing the rate the levy board issued the following statement:

"In spite of the rigid economy practiced by this administration and the millions of dollars saved of the moneys appropriated, it has been found unavoidable to increase the state tax rate for the current year. With the hope of finding some way to prevent the increase, the officers designated by law to determine the rate of tax for state purposes have had three meetings to consider the necessary expenses of the state for the year 1933.

"Computations made by the auditor of public accounts and the state treasurer have indicated that a rate of not less than 55 cents on the one hundred dollars' valuation was required. However, a rate of 50 cents has been determined upon in the hope that with strict economy this will produce sufficient revenues.

Factors Affecting Rate.

"Several factors have occasioned the necessity of increasing the rate. In the first place, the valuation of the taxable property in the state has been reduced about one billion dollars. It is obvious that to meet certain fixed charges such as the principal and interest on bonded indebtedness, the amount required by law can be obtained from a decreased valuation only by an increased rate.

"The state tax rate last year was fixed upon the assessed valuation of property outside of Cook county and an estimated valuation in the county. This was necessary because the assessment for 1931 taxes in Cook county is just now being completed. The actual assessment in Cook county is approximately one billion dollars less than was estimated and the assessment elsewhere in the state was also considerably lower. Consequently, when the rate a year ago was kept at 39 cents on the $100 of valuation the actual receipts were considerably lessened.

"The failure of Cook county to pay its taxes at the usual and customary periods has been in a large measure responsible for the financial condition of the state. In spite of the fact that the state has failed to receive nearly $29,000,000 of taxes from that county it has continued to operate, paying its obligations and keeping its bonds and interest from actual default.

Other Revenues Shrink.

"There has been a huge shrinkage in the revenue of the state from sources other than the tax on property. It is estimated that this revenue in 1933 will total 4½ million dollars less than 1932 and 16 million dollars less than 1931.

"The state tax burden is relatively small as compared with local taxation, and in the endeavor to assist local government there has been a constant shifting of duties and expenses from counties and other political subdivisions to the state.

"Instances of this transfer are the increase in the state school tax distributed to local school districts, mothers' and blind pensions now paid one-half by the state, and the compensation of local offices, such as court reporters. In spite of these increasing burdens the state tax rate has been held at 39 cents for the last three years."

CHILDREN MOVED FROM ORPHANS' HOME IN ROME, GA., FLOOD

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Nearly 150 persons, twenty of them children from an orphans' home surrounded by flood waters, were hastily moved by boat from low lying sections on the western side of Rome, Ga., today as rivers swollen by a rain flooded about ninety city blocks there and carried a threat to areas downstream.

Major W. A. Patton, in charge of the relief headquarters, said the condition was "already serious and will become really bad if the rivers keep rising."

Half a dozen north Georgia highways were blocked, as were routes near some of the Alabama and Mississippi streams. Forecasters said low areas around Montgomery, Ala., might be under water tomorrow.

ACTION BY U. S. IN INSULL QUIZ REPORTED NEAR

Federal Officials Prepare to Issue Subpœnas.

The government's investigation of the fallen Insull utilities empire is nearing completion and will reach the grand jury stage before the end of the month. This became known yesterday when federal officials said that subpœnas for grand jury appearances would be issued next week.

For two months expert accountants of the United States bureau of investigation under the direction of James Egan, head of the accounting division at Washington, have been at work auditing the books of the Insull investment and holding companies with a view of developing a mail fraud case.

They have said nothing about their findings, evading all inquiries with the statement that they first wished to make sure that the government would have a case. That they are now satisfied with the case from the prosecution standpoint appears certain in view of the plans to lay matters before the grand jury.

Greatest Case of Kind.

If carried through it would be by far the greatest mail fraud case of record, eclipsing altogether what has been called the largest—the pending case of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company officials, who are awaiting trial. This company was a $67,000,000 concern and the government alleges a loss to investors of $35,000,000.

A deficit of $226,000,000 has been reported to the courts for Insull Utility Investments, Inc., alone. There was a shrinkage of $120,000,000 in the portfolio of Corporation Securities Co., and the pre-cash assets of Middle West Utilities Co., appraised at $308,000,000, are now worth only $13,500,000, according to the note holders' committee headed by Charles S. Dewey. Thus the aggregate decline in assets of these three companies is $641,000,000.

Whether the government will charge fraudulent transactions in all of these concerns and what the alleged loss to investors will be probably will not be known unless and until indictments are returned.

Still Working on Audit.

It is understood that the government's audit for some of the Insull companies has not been completed, and that for this reason the evidence will be presented in sections, from time to time.

A mail fraud case against former officials of the Insull companies undoubtedly would involve a large number of defendants, for such a case is developed along the lines of a conspiracy prosecution. Government officials have said that not only officials of the Insull corporations but also those of bond houses and other distributors of Insull securities would be subject to prosecution if it could be shown that they had knowledge that the companies were insolvent.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. did most of the Insull financing, including the underwriting of the $80,000,000 Insull Utility Investment company debentures. Fraud has been charged in civil suits growing out of the sale of these debentures, for they contained a covenant providing that not more than half of the company's assets could be pledged without equally securing the debentures. It is contended that more than half of the assets were pledged for bank loans.

Stuart Under Indictment.

Besides handling the Insull financing in his capacity as head of Halsey, Stuart & Co. Harold L. Stuart was a director of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and sat on the finance committee with Samuel Insull Sr. and Samuel Insull Jr. Stuart and other officials of the bond house are already under indictment on charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with the financing of a Washington, D. C., realty concern.

Working with Mr. Egan on the Insull matter is Mel Purvis, agent in charge of the Chicago bureau of investigation. These men have just returned from conferences in Washington with their superiors. United States Attorney Dwight H. Green and his first assistant, William J. Froelich, have kept in close touch with the inquiry.

The maximum penalty that may be imposed for using the mails to defraud is five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $5,000 for each count.

Senate Inquiry Planned.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The senate banking committee today ordered a resumption of the inquiry into the stock market and appointed a subcommittee to conduct hearings.

It is to be headed by Senator Norbeck [Rep., S. D.] and includes Senators Glass of Virginia and Fletcher of Florida, Democrats, and Couzens of Michigan and Townsend of Delaware, Republicans. The committee discussed investigation of the Insull collapse and there were indications this would be studied first.

"We are ready to go ahead," said Norbeck.

DOCUMENTS IN INSULL CASE ARE READY FOR ATHENS PROSECUTOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Dec. 13.—The request for the extradition of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, to stand trial on charges of grand larceny and embezzlement in Cook county, Illinois, together with 200 pages of depositions by nine witnesses, including one by Oliver McCormick, treasurer of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company, are expected to be in the hands of Prosecutor Raganakos of the Greek court of appeals within 24 hours.

Translation and the typing of the documents was completed today. Prosecutors Andrew J. Vlachos and Charles Bellows of Chicago checked the typing tonight. It was said the documents will be presented to Leland Morris, American chargé d'affaires, tomorrow for delivery to the foreign office. The documents will reach Prosecutor Raganakos through the foreign ministry and the ministry of justice. According to extradition procedure, he will read the papers and then ask for a meeting of the court of appeal which passes on the case and makes recommendations to President Zaimis on Insull's extradition.

Sergt. Michael J. Mulvey Retires from Police Force

Sergt. Michael J. Mulvey yesterday announced his retirement from the police department of which he has been a member for 26 years. Mulvey, who has been assigned to the Kensington station for the last six years, is 55 years old. He lives at 717 West 60th street. For a number of years he has participated in police department athletic events, always being assigned to the "anchor" position at the end of the rope in tug-of-war contests.

STRUCK BY STREET CAR; DIES.

William Corcoran, 72 years old, 7819 Euclid avenue, a flagman employed by the Nickel Plate railroad, died yesterday in the Burnside hospital of injuries received on Dec. 6 when he was struck by a street car at 94th street and Vaughan avenue.

FAMILY PAINTS IGGY VARECHA AS DEPRAVED KILLER

Defense Rests; Hearing Will End Today.

James "Iggy" Varecha, 17 years old, was pictured yesterday by his own family as a vicious, depraved criminal who should be placed behind bars. The unusual defence presented by the youth's attorney was that Iggy's character was so black that he must be mentally defective and should not be electrocuted for the crime of murder but given a lengthy sentence.

The boy pleaded guilty last week to the slaying of Frank H. Jordan in a holdup on the night of Nov. 16. On that same night he held up another motorist and raped a woman. His confession narrated more than a score of robberies, shootings, and attacks upon women within the last few months.

Defense Rests Its Case.

The defense, which is seeking to save Iggy from the electric chair as demanded by the state, rested yesterday after presenting the testimony of a number of witnesses. These persons told of the youth's criminal career and abnormal behavior.

Rebuttal testimony by the state will be presented when the hearing before Chief Justice John Prystalski is resumed at 11:30 a. m. today. Closing arguments will occupy several hours. The judge is expected to announce his decision at a later date.

Varecha's sullenness, his profane mutterings, his defiant attitude towards the world in general were replaced by an obvious embarrassment when his mother, Mrs. Anna Varecha, a little woman clad in shabby black, tears welling in her eyes, took the witness stand. She spoke through a Slovak interpreter.

"I was in the Juvenile court when the boy was last arrested," she testified. "I begged Judge Bartelme then to put him behind bars somewhere where he could not escape. I thought he might improve his mind if he were kept locked up for a time."

Iggy squirmed uneasily in his seat and the bailiffs, who are constantly watchful of him, gripped his arms. He contemplated no outburst, however, and merely turned his eyes away as his mother descended from the stand and passed near him.

Earlier he had repeated the snarling comments which characterized his first appearance in court Monday. Warnings of the court, his attorney, and the bailiffs have failed to quell him and he frequently growled low threats at Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler.

Frank Matousek, referee of delinquent boys' cases in the Juvenile court, told of the excitement which attended Iggy's appearance in the Juvenile court in December, 1931.

"You think I'm nuts—you might as well give me the works!" shouted the youth when he was arraigned on two charges of robbery with a gun, the referee testified.

When Referee Matousek ordered the youth to the Institute of Juvenile Research for a mental examination Iggy grabbed the leg of a table and it required the efforts of four men to remove him, Matousek testified.

Describes Boy's Escape.

The escape of the youth from a police patrol wagon prior to this arraignment was described by Stanley O'Carroll, probation officer at the Juvenile court.

"I went to the county jail to transport Varecha to the Juvenile court," O'Carroll told the judge. "I had intended to drive the boy in my own car, but after getting a look at him and seeing how he sized me up I thought it wiser to call a patrol wagon."

Despite this precaution Iggy burst out of the patrol wagon as it rolled into the Juvenile court grounds at Ogden avenue and Roosevelt road, O'Carroll testified, and fled down the street. Nine or ten policemen followed, shooting in the air, and finally captured the youth.

"He was frothing at the mouth when he was surrounded," O'Carroll testified. "He tore his shirt open, bared his breast, and yelled: 'Come on, finish me!'"

After the boy had been sent to the Dixon asylum for juvenile mental defectives he escaped. O'Carroll was warned by telephone one night, he said, that Iggy, armed with a pistol, was out vowing to kill Judge Mary Bartelme of the Juvenile court, who had sentenced him, and Officers O'Carroll and Pavlak, who had caught him.

Outbreaks Precede Sentence.

Under cross-examination by the state O'Carroll admitted that most of Iggy's outbreaks occurred in court preceding a sentence and might have been planned to impress the court with his insanity. He admitted also that feeble-minded persons are usually peaceable and not violent.

Dr. William McKee of the Institute for Juvenile Research said he had examined Varecha in December, 1931, and found him with a defective intelligence. The boy had a mental age of 10 years 10 months when he was 16 years old, he said.

Frank Varecha, a brother of the defendant, said that Iggy had been instinctively cruel and vicious since childhood. He had a habit of torturing dogs and cats, he recalled, and when he reached adolescence developed a fascination for firearms. Members of the family were always taking pistols from Iggy, he said.

Record at Parental School.

The youth's record at the Chicago Parental school several years ago was introduced into the record and Harry P. May, an employe there, said that Iggy's conduct was that of an abnormal person. Drs. Warren G. Murray and Bruce Hart, superintendent and assistant superintendent at the Dixon asylum, said that the youth was known as a dangerous character there.

"He was hard boiled, surly, resentful at his captivity," they testified. "His mentality was below normal. He escaped twice, staying only a week the second time."

A PLAN OF FARM RELIEF.

The farmers are in a desperate situation today for these two reasons:

1. The taxes on their farms are absurdly high in relation to the yield of the land. With corn selling at 15 cents a bushel on the farm, the income of an acre is scarcely sufficient to pay the taxes alone, leaving nothing with which to pay interest, wages or a return on the investment.

2. Prices of farm products, as a result of excessive production, are below even the bare cost of producing the crops.

A remedy which would operate to correct either of these two situations would be welcome. A remedy which would tend to correct them both would be doubly welcome. It is such a two edged remedy which is here proposed.

In essence it is this: Let the legislatures in the principal agricultural states provide that land which is left fallow shall pay no state or local taxes. The results of such a provision should be apparent almost at once. Farmers would be encouraged, as if by a bonus on crop reduction, to decrease their acreage. They would find it advantageous to let their poorer acres go uncultivated. To that extent the immense surpluses would be sharply reduced and prices accordingly would tend to rise in response to the diminished supply.

At the same time the individual farmer would have placed in his own hands the opportunity to obtain tax reductions. Likewise the tax spending officials would be forced, by the certainty of reduced tax income, to lower the cost of government to accord with the ability of the farmers to support their state and local governments.

The proposed remedy has numerous advantages, among which are the following:

Without any bureaucratic interference and without in any manner dictating to the farmer how he is to employ his land the plan will bring about crop reduction.

Without any artificial manipulation of prices through a government agency it will create a condition favorable to higher prices for farm products and therefore higher purchasing power on the farms.

Without delay it will force the townships, the school districts, the counties and the states to make the bold assault upon the governmental extravagance which is pushing farmers to bankruptcy and farms to foreclosure.

The plan is simple in design and direct in its operation. The farmer today is under pressure to produce as much as he can force from his land in the vain hope that by doing so he can pay his taxes and interest and have a few dollars left over to buy what he needs. If the fallow acres were tax exempt the farmer's interest in a period of low and falling prices would be to cultivate not more, as at present, but fewer acres.

BEDLAM AS A NEW ART.

Movie directors are discovering a new fashion of drama, one which does without motive and character and consequently without cause and effect. This may not be discovery. It may only be bewilderment. But it is new. The best actors in Hollywood are the unknown or the obscurities who work in the scenes employing the extras. The hams are the stars. The professional genius of the screen has found expression in the types carefully studied for the color and veracity of the ensembles. The emotional pitch required of these extras is not long sustained, and it is primitive. They can be selected for expressive peculiarities and their training is apparently one of hard lines and hard times. Their achievements and the achievements of the directors with them are remarkable. They are so good that they destroy the other imperatives of the theater. They create a plausibility of scene in which the emotional absurdities of the principals and the monomania of the director are absorbed without shock.

All the director has to do is to go to the gate and shout and he can get Tunisian tribesmen, Provençal villagers, Cornish miners, Chinese war lords and soldiery, cultivators from the slopes of Vesuvius, Gloucester fishermen, London cabmen or costers, Tia Juana gamblers, New York gunmen, Japanese samurai, Congo porters, or a Church of England congregation. His carpenters can build him the Dolomite Alps, Westminster abbey, the Grand cañon, Benares, or the Belmont race track. The technology of his camera men is perfect. Any scene he wants or any succession of them he wants can be made, peopled, photographed, and live with compelling sincerity, and into this land of magic he and his stars and his ideas go mad. Outside of him and them there is reality, into which he injects insanity.

Why did the lady turn harlot? It was because of mother love, unquenchable in the true woman's heart. But she wasn't obliged to turn harlot. She had a job. She needed money for her husband, who was a bad hospital case. She falls for the man about town because a harlot in bouncing from the heights to the abyss and back again must encounter a millionaire man about town with the manners of a trained ape but with a heart of gold, and the eternal, brooding mystery of the female is revealed as she double-crosses first her husband, then the heart of gold, then her husband, then her child, then herself, the spectators all the time and everybody but the director, who is too busy double-crossing himself to notice it if she did. In the end virtue returns to its dominion, father and mother join their tears of reunion, and the child is forgiven. Marlene Dietrich joined in this conspiracy against nature is the raw, but no doubt the artistic credit goes to her director.

With a feeling of awe the spectator realizes that a new soul is being breathed into dramatic form. It is the triumphant soul of dementia and illogic, and what the consequences will be to a citizenship influenced by it, if influenced, must be left to the future records of Bedlam.

SCHMEDEMAN MEETS THE PAY ROLLERS.

Governor Elect A. G. Schmedeman finds little help from the pay rollers in his purpose of reducing cost of Wisconsin government. Sympathy they offer in abundance and approval of his purpose so long as it is just an abstract idea. The inclination, however, is a human one for each to see his own salary and authority as a holy thing which must in no way be diminished even in the present time of stress.

Meeting with the state budget committee Mr. Schmedeman finds department heads unwilling to yield any fraction of the functions their divisions have gathered and ready to demand every possible dollar of revenue they can extract from the state treasury.

The governor elect is standing firm and gives notice that, like it or not, they will have to accept reductions and plenty of them. He is thereby earning the approval and support of the taxpayers, who already have had to trim their personal expenditures, many of them almost to the point of deprivation.

Mr. Schmedeman insists there will be a cut, and he is out to make it the 25 per cent he talked about during his campaign. The objections of the pay rollers were to be anticipated. It is axiomatic and notorious that little short of dynamite ever will remove power or jobs from a political department once it is voted in.

Wisconsin's governor elect is no novice, however, and knows how to deal with the subject. There is no way he can start his administration to better advantage than by insisting not only on the strictest economy in personnel but by the elimination of any government functions, however fancy, that are not altogether essential.

The budget of the state normal school board was a refreshing exception to the reports of the first few days of the state hearing. E. J. Dempsey, its chief, upset political precedent by cutting the budget for the nine normal schools nearly 20 per cent at a savings of more than $700,000 for the biennium. The governor elect was so startled he said, "You must be a Democrat."

The state board of control virtuously refrains from asking for the $3,931,063 it says it needs for new buildings, but raises its budget for the two years by $146,000, and wants altogether more than six and a half million dollars.

Budget Director J. B. Borden explained that the state will spend about ten millions more than its income unless all budget requests are cut. He reports that more than 25 millions are requested and that the state will be lucky to collect more than 16 millions next year exclusive of automobile revenues, which go for road construction and maintenance.

State Senator Alvin C. Reis points out that all state salaries amount only to between 15 and 16 millions and that a reduction of 20 per cent, the highest hinted at, would save only three millions, the inference being what's the use of touching the salaries.

The governor elect has been an interested attendant at all the budget meetings, and the impression prevails that after studying the reports he will demand savage cuts, no matter how ambitious the department heads may be or zealous for the public welfare.

It is earnestly hoped Mr. Schmedeman will hold to his determination. In the present state of the nation it is the most important task he faces. It will be good statesmanship and good politics.

In no other way can he so endear himself to the voters who elected him and lay the foundation for a great record for the first Democratic administration in Wisconsin in 37 years. He will also set an example of official courage, public spirit, and true political foresight which will have influence throughout the country, perhaps even in Washington.

Editorial of the Day

SQUAWKING PERMITTED.

[The Baltimore Sun.]

It was a foregone conclusion that the steady increase of gasoline taxes and the growing propensity to resort to them for pretty much any purpose could not continue without protest from those who pay these taxes. There is a point where the plucked goose will squawk and it is somewhat surprising that in this instance the squawking has been stifled so long. It is now being heard, and a national highway users' conference is to be called to give it opportunity to become more voluble.

The purpose of the conference is to discuss equitable bases of taxation for use of the highways so as to prevent imposition of unfair burdens upon motor vehicle traffic and to check diversion of taxes levied upon highway users. It is also proposed to organize in the various states, or to cooperate with organizations now in the field, with a view to securing the active support of the vast body of motor vehicle owners, shippers, and others who are interested in efficient transportation. One object of the conference is obviously to enlist the aid of highway users in offsetting attacks now being made on motor trucks, a quarrel in which owners of pleasure vehicles may not care to engage.

However this may be, the time is ripe to sound a warning against the extent to which taxation of highway users is being carried. The tax is so prolific, so easily collected, and so widely distributed that it has come to be regarded as an inexhaustible mine of wealth, something to be delved into whenever other sources of revenue dry up. Federal, state, municipal, and county governments are eagerly scrambling for it. No goose can supply so many golden eggs.

TIME TO SAY IT.

Kind Old Lady—What would your mother say if she heard you using such language, little boy?

Little Boy—She'd say, "Thank heaven!"

Old Lady—How could she say that, you naughty boy?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Here to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE STERN NECESSITY that caused Postmaster General Brown to require the government to provide him with a new automobile so that he could have clearance space for his silk hat could easily be settled very pleasantly. Would it not be easier on us taxpayers if the 75,000 jobholders in Washington were provided with opera hats that are collapsible and do not require clearance space as silk hats do? They all wear silk hats down in Washington, whether they belong to the cabinet or run the elevator in the Army and Navy building. The finest silk hat we saw in Washington last summer was worn by a dashing gentleman who emptied waste baskets in the new Commerce palace. Now, if an appropriation is put through congress giving all the gentlemen jobholders in Washington folding opera hats to wear it might be easier on us taxpayers than providing them with special built automobiles. Write to your congressman today!

MR. ROOSEVELT, who, it will be recalled, was elected President last November, is sending out his picture on a Christmas card bearing the inscription "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year." Well, that's a nice idea, and Franklin deserves credit for thinking it up, but it doesn't sound very snappy.

THE LADY DRYS argued and argued with a congressional committee against repeal or modification of the sacred eighteenth. We think the girls would have been wiser if they had contended against the extinction of the dodo. They could point out how nice it would be to have dodoes flying around in the trees and giving everybody a hearty laugh, which would, indeed, be a nice thing in these days of the w. k. depression. Of course, the dodo became extinct two or three hundred years ago, but, mercy, that wouldn't prevent the ladies arguing in his behalf if they got interested in the subject.

"COSTS HUNTERS $89.80 for Each Deer Shot This Season."—News Item. Well, it may be great sport to wade around in the north woods half frozen in the snow and lugging a heavy rifle and maybe we haven't any sporting blood, but as far as we're concerned we'd rather have $89.80 worth of hot dogs on rye bread.

MAD POT.

Hidden away on my high kitchen shelf
Is a little tin box that I call my mad pot.
And when I grow angry I say to myself,
"How mad are you now—a cent's worth or what?"

For some mads fly away in a very short time,
While others last longer, and cost me a dime,
But whatever the cause, be it righteous or not,
I figure it closely, and pay what I rate
My temper as worth, to the little mad pot.
I'm growing a sweet disposition of late;

Because—with the times so infernally bad,
It's getting so I can't afford to be mad!

THE GOVERNMENT is still paying pensions for the war of 1812. Which, of course, is perfectly all right, but pensioners of the Revolution, the French and Indian war, King Philip's war, and Bacon's Rebellion down around Jamestown ought not to get an increase, anyhow.

Going Up!

Dear Line: I note Mort Friedman's lament that no Linebook of '31 is available and haste to assure him that I have one yet that is available upon receipt of $1.50, plus postage. It is in good condition except that it has been read through and through several hundred times, but is still legible. If he must have it, all right, but if he can get along without it I shall be just as well pleased, because I may want to read it again a couple or three times before I die. Sincerely, D. J. HOTCHKISS.

Tsk! tsk! This is what happens when you don't get your Linebook while the getting is good! Goodness gracious!

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

[Copyright, 1932, By The Chicago Tribune.]

THEY CALL IT LUMBAGO.

The term lumbago is very loosely used. It should be limited to those who have rheumatism of the heavy muscles of the back just above the hips, and no small part of the cases are of that type. However, it is also used to cover most of the pains in the lower back, due to local causes, and also referred to there from causes located elsewhere. It includes that large group of cases which start off with pain, soreness, and stiffness in the back, and which are accepted for a while as old fashioned lumbago, but which prove resistant to rubbings, liniments, and porous plasters.

And, finally, they come to be recognized as chronic arthritis of the spine—that is, so-called chronic rheumatism of the bones, joints, and ligaments of the backbone.

This story deals with that trouble often dubbed persistent lumbago, but better called chronic arthritis of the spine. Chronic arthritis of the spine is apt to involve the entire spine or the neck and chest region, and this habit of causing pain and deformity elsewhere than in the lower back is one of its features that causes the sufferers to give up the first diagnosis, to have X-ray pictures made, and to submit to examinations in search of a better diagnosis.

In chronic arthritis of the spine the disease processes are operating all around the nerve roots. In consequence, many of the symptoms are noted some distance away from the location of the disease. A nerve root is caught in the inflammation somewhere in the lower back. The pain is felt down the sciatic nerve, possibly as far away as the foot. Or the pinched nerve is in the neck, and the symptoms are those of neuralgia of the arms. Perhaps the nerves pressed on are those that run to the sympathetic ganglia. If so, the symptoms may be cold feet, red nose, or unequal pupils. Or the injured nerves may run to the chest, abdomen, or pelvis, causing symptoms that are felt in those regions, such as shingles, or some disturbance of the heart action or of digestion.

As chronic arthritis advances it tends more and more not only to stiffen the spine but also to increase its crookedness.

This column of bones, carrying much of the body weight, is not perpendicular. On the other hand, it makes several curves backward and forward. We can understand how senility, disease, and other infirmities tend to increase the range of these curves. Nothing short of bone tuberculosis causes such pronounced overcurvature of the spine. The people one meets on the street bent almost double, but with no lateral curvature or hump back, with stiffened spines, are nearly all sufferers from chronic arthritis of the spine.

Studies of properly made pictures of the spinal column usually clear up the diagnosis in the early stages of the disease. Without them a diagnosis of lumbago, sciatica, or neuralgia is liable to be held on to for months or years.

DO NOT CHANGE ANYTHING.

Mrs. C. C. A. writes: My 20 month old boy has not tanned noticeably this summer, even though he has spent four to six hours outdoors nearly every day, usually from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 5 or 6 p. m. He has a good appetite, sleeps about thirteen hours, his bowels move two to four times a day, he is active and agile, and seems to be in good health. He has a beautiful complexion. I have been told it is a sign of anemia not to tan. 1. Is this correct? Does the description sound like anemia in this case? He has cooked cereal twice a day, one egg a day, a slice of bacon, and a quart of milk; also fruits and vegetables. He will not eat potatoes or much bread and has very little meat. He drinks the juice of one orange a day and I am starting cod liver oil again.

2. Does this sound like the correct diet?

REPLY:

1. No. The probability is that he is of the blond, nontanning type. He may never become a tanner. Persons with beautiful complexions are not good tanners.

2. Your boy is getting on first class. Do not change anything materially. However, if you will give him somewhat less milk he will eat more bread, potatoes, and meat.

COLD SORES.

A. E. G. writes: I have been troubled since early girlhood with cold sores. I am now 60. They are very painful while they last. Could you advise me what to do to dry them up? I have used vaseline, cold cream, and other oily preparations, but with very little relief.

REPLY.

When a person has the cold sores habit he probably needs to change his diet and his bowel habits. Heavy sugar and starch eaters are prone to cold sores. When they limit these foods materially they have fewer of the troublesome things. Most persons use camphor water and camphor ointments to dry up cold sores.

NOT CONTAGIOUS.

A. M. writes: Would it be dangerous for a young woman to marry a man who has gastric ulcers? He was operated on several weeks ago. Would she be in danger of contracting them later on?

REPLY.

Gastric ulcer is not contagious.

DEPENDS ON AMOUNT.

B. S. writes: Are buttermilk and yogurt fattening?

REPLY:

Both are fattening if you drink much of them and eat abundantly in addition. They are not if the quantity consumed is small or if no other food is taken.

BARBED WIRE FENCE.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—[Friend of the People.]—I understood there was a law against putting barbed wire on a fence in this city. There is a house in our block with a fence in front about three feet high with barbed wire, which is within easy reach of small children who pass there on the way to school. The other day a small child passed there and ripped his hand on this barbed wire. Please see that this is removed. J. G.

An officer interviewed the owner where the barbed wire fence is located and he promised that the same would be removed, even though it is within the boundary lines of his property. Rather than to cause friction with his neighbors he has caused the same to be removed.

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner of Police.

EFFECTIVE AFTER DEATH.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a will is made and mother is still living and has a son and daughter appointed administrators (1) can she have the younger daughter take care of her estate without advice from the administrators? The mother is very old but has a good mind. 2. Can there be two administrators? 3. Can the younger sister have a voice over the administrators if they don't agree upon the mother's death? B. K.

1. The will has no effect while the testatrix is still alive if that is what you mean to ask.

2. Yes, if the will so provides.

3. The wording of the will would control.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 14, 1916.

PARIS.—Premier Briand, in the chamber of deputies, made a speech on the German imperial chancellor's peace proposal, in which he warned the country to beware of France's enemies. He added that France would not do less in the premises than the other members of the allied conference. "I have the duty to place my country on guard against possible poisoning," said M. Briand amid applause. "When a country arms itself to the teeth, when it seizes men everywhere in violation of the laws of nations, and enforces labor upon them, I should be guilty if I did not cry out to my country, 'Look out! Take care!'"

LONDON.—Official Great Britain is silent on Germany's peace proposition. It has not been received yet, and hence comment must be deferred. The real reason, however, is that Britain is not assuming the responsibility of repudiating Germany's overtures. Until there has been a consultation of all concerned no official pronouncement may be expected. However, there is no mistaking the attitude here. England is not for peace.

LONDON.—The Times' Syra correspondent says: "Venizelist troops have just disembarked at Hermopolis, the port of Syra, and the island passes under the rule of the national government. Crowds cheered the troops as they landed. The remainder of the Cyclades islands will shortly be taken over by the national government."

BERLIN.—Fighting is in progress between Greek regular troops and the French, the Overseas News agency announces. The fighting is taking place north of Katerina, on the sea coast, about sixty miles southwest of Saloniki. The Greeks have a force of 5,000 men, the report says. The town has been captured by the Greeks, the French line of position having been pierced.

PETROGRAD.—Russian troops captured a line of Teuton trenches on heights to the south of Agusualia, in the region of the Trotus valley of Rumania, according to the war office statement. The Teuton counter attacks in an effort to regain the lost positions were repulsed with great losses, the statement adds. Rumanian forces took the offensive south of the Mizil-Buzeau highroad and captured a row of villages, but on being counter attacked were forced to retire.

PARIS.—The war office statement says: "South of the Somme the enemy artillery violently bombarded our trenches in the sector of Bloches-La Maisonnette-Barleaux. In the Argonne a surprise attack directed against the enemy salient north of Four de Paris enabled us to destroy hostile mine works. In the region of Dixmude and in the direction of Steemstraete there were reciprocal bombardments which became particularly intense, followed by destructive fires by the Belgian batteries against the defensive organizations at landmark 18 on the Yser."

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson has practically decided to urge Great Britain and her allies, either formally or informally, to enter into peace negotiations with the Teutonic powers. Whether he will suggest an armistice or merely send an appeal for serious consideration of the German peace proposal has not been determined.

COPENHAGEN.—A plebiscite on the question of the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States will be taken tomorrow.

THE PAY OF NURSES.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—A few days ago I attended a massmeeting of the private duty section of the First District Association of Nurses, which was held for the purpose of discussing the reduction of private duty nurses' salaries and determining a definite scale of prices. In numbers and aggressiveness the meeting could not be outclassed. After years of devotion to private duty, and with a record of which I am justly proud, I still firmly believe that that branch of the nursing profession is the finest, noblest and most important of all, and although I also believe that the Florence Nightingale spirit of service still exists, from the attitude of the majority of those present, only for my firm faith in the merit of my profession, I could almost have been disillusioned. Shorter hours and not much reduction in pay seemed to be the pet theme. Twenty hour duty [which means four hours free for recreation] was relegated to the dark ages, and was labeled a crime.

Looking back over my long career, during which time I have experienced the care of patients with one nurse, two nurses, three nurses and four nurses, from the standpoint of both the nurse and the patient, unless he is so ill as to require constant attention, twenty hour duty in homes is an ideal condition. I have experienced all of the changes in the pay of private duty nurses—$15, $20, $25, $30 and $35—and then the fatal jump to $40 and $56, which affected the nursing situation just as I predicted. At $25 and $30 a week a nurse could be busy fifty-two weeks out of the year if she chose. Her coming into a home was looked upon as an event and she was treated as a superior. In recent years she has lost prestige, not only on account of the increase in her price but because of her refusal to go into homes and her attitude in the homes, if she condescends to go.

I believe that a reduction of the private duty nurses salaries' to $5 a day would not only go a long way toward solving the present serious unemployment situation but would also help in restoring the nurse to the enviable status which she once deservedly enjoyed.

Because so many were clamoring for recognition from the chair, all did not have an opportunity to express their opinions, so I am voicing mine through the press, hoping that the public as well as physicians, who accuse us of lack of cooperation, may know that there are still those who believe "that rarely beautiful thing, the spirit of nursing, which inspired our pioneers to overcome their difficulties, abides in the nursing profession today with undiminished fire. It inspires us to accept the challenge of difficulties, and to work them out on a plane that keeps the nursing profession to us the most glorious and fruitful of all professions."

A PRIVATE DUTY NURSE.

HE WANTS AMERICAN PICTURES.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—In reading THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE today I was disgusted as usual with your rotogravure section. Out of a total of 31 photographs, not including fashion or movie contests, nineteen were from foreign countries and ten of them were from England. Don't we have enough photographic material in our own country, or is it pro-British propaganda? Why not use American subjects for American photographs for an American paper paid for with American dimes by American people? D. C.

PEGLER IN WASHINGTON.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—For some years this correspondent has felt that Westbrook Pegler was not only the white haired boy of your staff but the best dam' caballero in all American journalism. While we delighted in his reporting of sports, we regretted that you used your biggest siege gun merely to shoot at mice.

Last fall Pegler covered the golf championship at Baltimore. The proximity to Washington led him to write a piece on Washington correspondents. As we recall it, he opined that news from the capital was utterly desiccated because the newspapers were hypnotized into accepting the grandiloquence of our lawmakers as charged with importance. The correspondents themselves saw through to truth, but their jobs depended on a perpetual dishing up of the old pap. When they could stand it no longer, said Pegler, they burst loose with a ride on the merry-go-round or a good nasty look in mirrors, taking nervous precautions the while to keep their faces hidden, a la gangster photograph. If there was less baloney in such books than in their signed dispatches, still the evident malice detracted from its potency as reporting.

Pegler suggested that the papers allow the same liberty to their political correspondents as their sports writers now enjoy. Vide Pegler himself.

This week you have given that liberty to Pegler, qua political correspondent. The result is the best picture of the stuffed shirts in Washington and their picayune, idiot cunning, passed off as statesmanship, that you have in our memory printed. Please keep Pegler at a task worthy of his talent and give him free rein. TALBOT WEGG.

FROM A RAILWAY MAIL CLERK.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—I am a U. S. railway mail service employé and as such I work eight hours a day, five days per week and four hours on the sixth day. In addition to this work on the job, since every railway mail clerk must be his own traffic manager and must be able to route mail instantly, I am required to spend an average of about thirty minutes per day studying at home on changes in train schedules, etc. In my opinion this work is skilled labor. Still the compensation I receive per hour is much less than that accorded to the average building trades worker who after completion of his apprenticeship does not have to study.

Today on the eve of the reconvening of the U. S. congress there are two exceptionally powerful organizations clamoring for an indiscriminate reduction of federal government costs. I refer to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and to its allied organization, the National Economy league. Their lobbying, of course, is adequately financed. Now we postal employés know that that financing will be repaid with money taken from our salaries if this lobby is successful. The postoffice department, weighed down by an enormous deficit caused by large subsidies to airplane, steamship, and mail order companies, is one of the primary targets of these wage cutters.

I don't want another wage cut. I don't want to lose my four room frame house contracted for in 1929, and I don't think that the people who laughed at us low salaried government employés three years ago have the right to demand it.

If the National Economy league cannot present specific plans for the reduction of government waste all fair minded people should rise up against them and their unprincipled demand that government employés be denied a decent home for their families. A. L. HUTTON.

MILWAUKEE MILK PRICE IS CUT TO 7 CENTS A QUART

Four Dairies Announce 1 Cent Slash.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—A drop of 1 cent a quart in the price of milk delivered to consumers has been announced by four of the city's large dairies—Luick, Layton Park, Blochowiak and Sunshine.

The new price of 7 cents a quart, which becomes effective tomorrow morning, was taken as an indication of the opening of the price war which the large dairies told the department of agriculture and markets a month ago was imminent unless cut rate competition in the Milwaukee area could be eliminated.

Other large dairies are expected to fall in line. Cut rate dealers were discussing a proposed cut in their price, so as to make it 1 cent lower than the new price of the larger concerns.

Savings to Consumers.

The 1 cent cut, if put into effect by all the large dairies, will mean a saving of approximately $800 daily in Milwaukee's milk bill, not figuring in the hundreds of families that are taken care of by the cut rate dealers. About 1,000,000 pounds of milk are delivered to Milwaukee by the Farmers Coöperative organization, and approximately 500,000 pounds of this goes into fluid milk.

The heads of the dairies making the cuts would not discuss the probable effect on the farmer. At the recent hearing held by the state department of agriculture and markets, it was stated by dairies that any cuts necessary to meet cut rate competition necessarily would be retroactive on the farmer.

The December milk price to be paid the farmer already has been set. The large dairies and farmers will not meet until the end of the month to fix the January price.

Operate at Loss, They Say.

Large dairies said the reduced price will mean they probably will have to operate at a loss during the rest of the month, but they considered it the only means of saving their business.

The Layton Park dairy officials said it also will meet the cut rate wholesale price of 5 cents a quart to stores and restaurants. The other dairies were noncommittal on this point.

The state department had asked the large dairies to wait until Dec. 26, when it planned to issue a permanent order regulating the milk industry of the Milwaukee area. After its hearing last month it had issued a temporary order which sought to force all Milwaukee dairies to buy milk on the two price system, one price for milk used for fluid purposes and another for the surplus.

Surplus Not Taken.

This was designed to meet the objection of the large dairies, who declared their cut rate competitors were buying only fluid milk from the farmers and were not helping to take care of the surplus. This made it possible for them to sell for a lower price, they said.

The prices set by the state department were $1.60 per hundred pounds for fluid milk and $1 for the surplus.

Two Farmers Are Killed When Train Strikes Truck

Raise Steel for Fair Sky Ride

Get Piccard Gondola

The gondola of the stratosphere balloon in which Prof. Auguste Piccard ascended 53,556 feet above the earth several months ago will be on exhibit at the World's Fair next year. Felix J. Streyckmans, chief of foreign participation for the exposition, received word yesterday that the National Foundation for Scientific Research of Belgium would lend the gondola.

According to plans, the gondola will be suspended from the ceiling at the north end of the Hall of Science, directly above the bathysphere, a large hollow metal ball in which Dr. William Beebe set a deep sea diving record of 2,200 feet recently.

The first steel for the World's Fair $1,000,000 Skyride was set in place directly south of Soliders' field yesterday. The steel was for one of the two 625 foot towers between which cars will run on cables. The towers will be 2,000 feet apart. The second one will be built on Northerly island, just north of the Electrical group.

Youth with Gun Seized as He Runs from Store

Joseph Gold, 17 years old, was arrested yesterday as he ran out of a haberdashery at 3230 Madison street with a revolver in his hand. The capture was made by Policeman John Dolan of the Austin station, who was off duty. Just before Gold's capture two youths had entered the store and taken $34 from Samuel Berliner, 4727 Maypole avenue, the manager. Gold told police that he was not one of the robbers. He said a robber thrust the weapon into his hand as he fled.

CHILDREN FLOCK TO TOYLANDS OF STATE ST. STORES

Clown, Musicians and Santas Are Popular.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Twenty years from now, tots who clambered yesterday onto the knees of Santa Clauses in the toy departments of State street stores will spin a yarn to their youngsters about "the good old days." These days! Whatever they may be to the grownups, the only panic the kids know anything about this Christmas of 1932 is provided by "Smilin' Jimmie" Murphy and his hearty cohorts.

Since the great World's Fair of 1893 Jimmie Murphy has been swiping grease paint across his countenance, painting his substantial nozzle a rosy pink, donning outlandish costumes and tumbling around for the delight of children. His huge splay feet and funny tricks still win the laughs, though he admitted yesterday in the toyland of a loop emporium that has retained him each holiday season for the last several years, that it's more like work than it ever was before.

"Kids are different now from what they used to be," admitted the veteran clown, slipping a picture of his own baby out of a pocket somewhere with parental pride, to be complimented. "They're harder to please than when I was turning somersaults for them in the Buffalo Bill show down on the Midway. But I like it."

Just about the only thing missing from the Christmas scene in Chicago toyland now is the rattle of reindeer hoofs. Department store magnates have imported almost every other conceivable adjunct of the jolly old fellow from up near the north pole, even to his igloo, faithfully reproduced.

One of the big stores has scored a hit with its band of strolling musicians, in costumes of the eighties and earlier, who sing the familiar old nursery rhymes in strong, carrying tones. Another has a small shop fitted up to hold the attention of the boys and girls while their elders make selections from nearby counters. The main attraction is the table full of strips and blocks of soft colored woods, and small hammers with which busy fingers pound them into the corked surface with tacks. They are easily removed and hammered all over again.

Another diversion is a sort of kindergarten where scraps of vividly colored felts are assembled into all sorts of ridiculous designs, simply by pressing them onto a larger strip of felt. A nook nearby has a popular slide, and another booth, always crowded, offers the opportunity of being photographed with a real live Santa Claus.

TWO GYPSIES FACE TRIAL.

Two gypsies, Peter Young, 36 years old, 173 North Wells street, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Amelia Marks, alias Mme. Zorn, 631 West 63d street, were taken to Fredonia, N. Y., yesterday to face trial on a $5,200 theft charge.

"Only One Bill!"

"Boy, that's a great feeling!...The kids used to think they had a grouchy Dad 'til I got all the bills I was worrying over grouped into one debt... a loan at the Personal Loan & Savings Bank."

...and to think that Dad was able to borrow for a year's time, pay back little by little...every two weeks or by the month...He put up his "promise to pay" backed by a neighbor and his brother-in-law...and the cost was only a little bit more than if he had put up collateral (which he didn't have!).

SEIZE CAR THEFT RING OPERATING 2 SALES DEPOTS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 45; recovered, 52; stripped, 13 [from Chicago police records for the 24 hours ending at midnight Monday].

Four automobile thieves who cut the overhead in their business by having both sales outlets and acquisition depots in Kansas City and Chicago were arrested yesterday by undercover men working out of the office of Capt. Matthew Zimmer, chief of the uniformed police.

Altogether, according to confessions made by three of the four, they have taken more than 100 automobiles stolen in Chicago to Kansas City to be sold and have brought just as many stolen in Kansas City back here for sale.

Hold Ex-Convict.

Those held are Robert Leggett, 29 years old, 623 West Madison street, who once served a term in the federal prison at Chillicothe, O., for violation of the Dyer automobile act; Thomas Dickson, 28 years old, of Racine, Wis.; Charles W. Staudt, 34 years old, 1140 West Madison street, and Edward Greenspan, 33 years old, owner of a so-called auto hospital at 3251 Ogden avenue.

Leggett, leader of the band, said that he, Dickson, and Staudt took cars stolen here to Greenspan's place and paid him $25 for changing the motor and serial numbers. They also forged expert representations of the regular motorists' registration cards and were prepared to give visual evidence of the ownership of cars if they were halted on the way.

Selling the cars with apparently clean bills of sale in and near Kansas City, the members of the ring then pick up cars stolen there and return. They were trapped when the undercover investigators purchased three automobiles from them and by investigation determined the vehicles were from Kansas City.

Face Government Charges.

Greenspan refused to make any admissions. He and the others will all be turned over to the government for violation of the Dyer act.

Mayor Cermak yesterday took a hand in the drive against automobile thefts. At his request two car thieves, held in the county jail after indictment, were taken to Commissioner Allman's office. They are Stanley Kruk and George Kussman. They were questioned by the mayor and the head of the police force and were reported to have disclosed important information concerning fences to whom they sold cars. The mayor would not discuss definitely what they told, but indicated that a number of arrests would follow.

To Be Arraigned Today for Killing Cafe Keeper

Plymouth, Ind., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Virgil Barber, 27, will be arraigned before Judge Albert C[illegible]pman in Marshall Circuit court tomorrow on first and second degree murder charges in connection with the fatal shooting of Arthur Pratt, Plymouth restaurant man, Nov. 14.

Mayor's Squads Begin Raids; Police Captain Is Suspended

as the tobacco handler. According to the raiders, the sales quarters are a blind for Capone syndicate operations, of which Dominic Nuccio is said to be the boss in the Chicago avenue and Hudson avenue police districts.

Raid Loop Amusement Shop.

Minor raids continued in various sections of the city, both by the hoodlum detail and other police. The loop activity centered on the Playground. This raid was made by policemen from Commissioner Allman's office. A warrant was served on Paul Gerber, 5200 Sheridan road, owner of the Playground. He was charged with keeping a gambling establishment. Gerber denied that the devices used in his place were gambling machines, but police asserted that there were cash payoffs for lucky players.

Hundreds of similar machines are being used in the downtown area, in hotels and restaurants, and these also will be seized, the police said, if they are used for gambling.

About 10 o'clock last night Sergt. Walsh's squad raided the second and third floors at 2950 North Halsted street, in the same block in which Policeman Magoon was slain on Monday. They found the second floor used as a beer flat and the upper one for the manufacture of intoxicants. Teddy Saunders, the owner, was absent, but his wife, Orietta, 32 years old, was questioned. Five men were held.

Others Are Arrested.

Other places raided during the night were alleged beer flats at 4824 South Elizabeth street and 4249 Wentworth avenue. Nine men were arrested and a small quantity of beer and alcohol were seized. At 2933 Elston avenue Policemen William Nelson and Ralph Stepp of the Shakespeare avenue station arrested Mrs. Stella Zavodny as the alleged owner of a beer flat.

Mayor Cermak in an afternoon appearance before the council finance committee told the members of the suspension of Capt. Christensen and informed them that action would be taken against other captains unless his orders to clean out beer flats and gambling were obeyed.

After the mayor's appearance the committee recommended that the city council adopt an ordinance setting the license fee for retail beverage dispensing places at $150 for the six months ending June 30. The present fee charge is $100 for a full year.

In a statement issued earlier in the day the mayor said that it was time for "the policemen to do some shooting."

"They had to kill a policeman to prove that what I said about beer flats was true," he said. "It is time the policemen did a little shooting themselves. If gangs are organized for killing, why shouldn't the policemen shoot? I'm tired of having policemen murdered.

"Police Should Know."

"When the police become active and put the hoodlums behind bars or in the morgue Chicago will be a better city. The murderers must have known he was a policeman and his death is a direct challenge to the police department. The question now is what the police department is going to do about it. Either the gangsters or the lawfully constituted authorities run this city. Which is it?

"How is it possible for the gangsters to drive up to these places with alcohol without police knowing about it? They drive up to these places with beer by the truck load and the gangsters, the hoodlums and the crooks do the delivering. If a cabaret or gambling joint starts operating the hoodlums quickly find out about it and get over there for their cut. The police should be able to find out these things also."

CALLS ON CITY FOR SUPPORT OF WELFARE FUND

Gardner Tells Need for Private Charities.

Despite increased activities of workers, the public response to the Emergency Welfare fund's appeal for $7,500,000 to support the city's private charities has not come up to expectations, Robert A. Gardner, general chairman of the campaign, said yesterday.

"If the people of Chicago wish to avert calamity in the homes of hundreds of stricken families, we shall need a far greater showing of liberality," Mr. Gardner said. "If our citizens would only realize this I am sure we would obtain our minimum."

Gives Example of Need.

As an example of the pressing need for aid, Mr. Gardner told the story of a mother who went in tears to one of the clinics two days ago, with three of her children. Her husband had been out of work for two years and she had worked as a waitress while her husband took care of the children. She lost her job and was unable to find another.

Due to nervous tension in the home, fostered by worry, the parents had quarreled that morning, and her husband had threatened to leave. While the quarrel was in progress the youngest child had gone to the medicine cabinet and had been discovered playing with a bottle of poison.

"The mother was filled with remorse, believing this act of her child's to be a punishment for her fit of anger," Mr. Gardner continued. "She took the child to the clinic, but fortunately it was found no poison had been swallowed. This family did not appeal for aid until its resources were utterly exhausted. In such homes the Emergency Welfare fund lifts the strain."

Yesterday's grand total for the fund was $3,396,081. Among the leading subscriptions were:

National Broadcasting Co.	$1,743
Employés National Broadcasting Co.	1,743
Barron G. Collier Inc.	500
Employés Western Weighing and Inspection Bureau	730
The Hub (Henry C. Lytton & Sons)	1,600
Central Manufacturing District	1,000
Chicago Tunnel company	1,000
Chicago Extruded Metals company	1,500
James B. Clow & Sons	1,000

A thousand women continued their efforts in the loop and elsewhere to enroll 25,000 smaller business houses in the welfare fund. On Friday and Saturday the women's division of the Salvation Army will hold an Old Time Yankee circus at the Chicago Stadium as a benefit for the fund.

BURDICK PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO QUACK CHARGE

Charles S. Burdick, with offices at 550 Surf street, was arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Robert J. Dunne and pleaded not guilty to a charge of violation of the Illinois medical practice law. He waived a jury trial and the hearing was continued to Dec. 20 after a defense witness was heard to enable her to return to her home in Canada.

Burdick is accused by the state department of registration and education of treating various ailments with a machine called the Charles S. Burdick "Neurolectric Vitalizer."

The Canadian witness is Mrs. Mary McClennan of Ontario. Mrs. McClennan said she was the wife of an osteopath who had purchased one of the Burdick machines, which are black boxlike affairs equipped with dials marked "Muscle," "Tonic," "Nerve," and "Rejuvenation." She said she was here to take Burdick's six weeks' course of instruction on operation of the machine, which she intended to manipulate for her husband.

"Does this course qualify you as an operator?" asked Assistant State's Attorney John E. Patterson.

"Yes, it does, but we never attempt to diagnose the ailment. A doctor does that," she replied.

Annual Christmas Revue Given at Hines Hospital

The annual Christmas entertainment for the wounded war veterans at the Edward Hines Memorial hospital was held last evening by a group headed by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer. Stockings filled with cigarets, candy, magazines, and warm clothing for the 1,700 veterans in the hospital were given out. A score of vaudeville entertainers, including an orchestra and chorus, gave a short revue in the hospital wards.

CHURCH GROUP HEAD INDORSES GOOD FELLOWS

Compares Movement to First Christmas.

The Rev. Robert Clements, president of the Chicago Church federation, indorsed the Good Fellow movement yesterday as a true expression of the Christmas spirit. He compared the distribution of baskets to the destitute with the gift to mankind on the first Christmas.

The Good Fellows, however, are not limited to any one group, religion, or race. They include Jews and Gentiles, Negroes and whites, Catholics and Protestants. They include every one who can find greater happiness on the holiday for having done a kindness on Christmas eve.

All Groups Enrolling.

Wage earners and capitalists are enrolling in this campaign to carry Christmas cheer into otherwise gloomy homes where small children must depend upon outsiders to fill their stockings. The enlistments eleven days before Christmas were twenty-seven per cent greater than on the corresponding date last year.

"The spirit of Christmas," wrote the Rev. Mr. Clements, "is essentially the spirit of giving. As the first Christmas expressed the gift inspired by a great need, so certainly our giving at the Christmas time should not exclude the needy, but should begin with the remembrance of them.

"He certainly gets the most joy out of his Christmas who puts the most of the spirit and experience of giving into it. The real joy of our gifts to our own is intensified when preceded by the remembrance of those in need.

Those Able to Share.

"The Good Fellow movement provides the opportunity to engage in this gracious ministry and offers the direction necessary if one is to find and contact the places of real need. Hence it should be joined by very many who in spite of all the present conditions still are able to share with others less favored and thus make happy those who would otherwise have no Christmas at all. Especially to be able to bring the season's joy to little children."

There's a coupon printed nearby for your convenience in becoming a Good Fellow. Mail it to Good Fellows, Tribune, Chicago, and receive the name of a family that will depend upon you for a merry Christmas. The families are recommended by the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau, the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, the Juvenile court, or some other affiliate of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies. Cash contributions are also accepted.

Bags 125 Quail and 55 Rabbits in 2 Week Hunt

DETROIT MUNICIPAL LINES CUT $87,000; DEFICIT $3,500,000

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—While economies which will slash $87,000 from the operating costs of the municipally operated Detroit street railway in the next year were being reported today, another report showing a deficit of $3,500,000 for the system in the last fiscal year was made.

Including depreciation, rail lines lost $2,600,000 and coach lines $879,000, the report shows. Not including depreciation the losses were $1,100,000 for the rail lines and $487,000 for the coach lines.

The reduction of fares to five cents during certain periods of the day last summer and introduction of 25 cent week-end passes resulted in a loss of $2,613,000 revenue.

HUNT 2 ROBBERS AFTER DEATH OF WOMAN VICTIM

Lawndale police yesterday were seeking two young robbers who were responsible for the death of Miss Gertrude Frish, 49 years old, 2509 South Kedzie avenue, who suffocated from a thick gag forced into her mouth by the men. She and her father, Fred, 75 years old, who have operated a confectionery at the Kedzie avenue address for 38 years, were closing the store when the robbers entered. After gagging both father and daughter and ransacking the place for three hours, they left with only $3 in loot. An inquest into Miss Frish's death was continued until Dec. 23 to give the police more time to hunt the robbers.

HUNGRY PUPILS' FUND GETS GOOD NEWS IN MAIL

In the mail bag yesterday of the Hungry School Children's fund was the following note:

"For the Hungry School Children from a mother whose children were helped last winter, and who now has a job and can care for them herself, in deep appreciation of your work." A $5 bill was folded in the single sheet.

As if that were not enough good news for one day, came another $5 bill in another note. It was signed E. S., and read: "Am sending this as a thanks offering for employment at this time. That there is still a place for a woman of 60 in the work-a-day world I am most grateful."

In her neat childish handwriting, small Florence Barr writes: "I am sending $2. The way I made the money was, mother made some candy and I sold it. I hope the money will make some children happy. I will send some more after Christmas."

"DRUGS can't cure your CONSTIPATION"

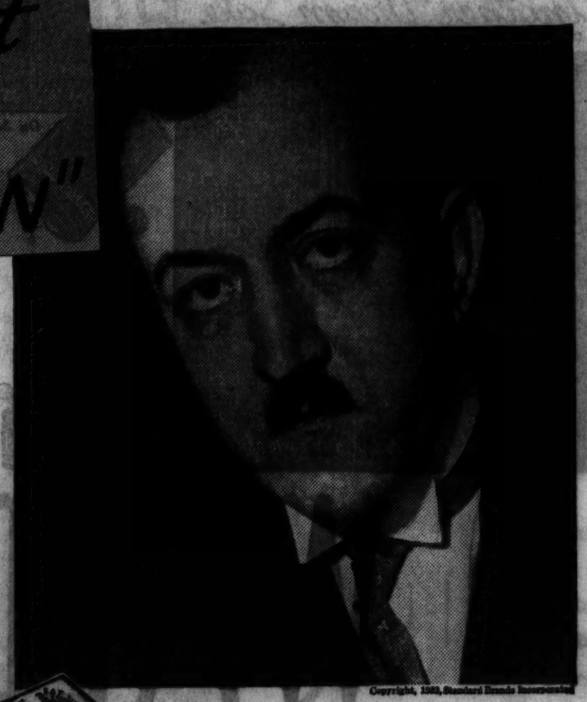
—states this Famous Doctor



DR. GAEHLINGER! Co-author of "La Constipation." Hospital expert. One of the greatest medical authorities in France!

This great doctor says:—

"Thousands of people miss perfect health because of constipation . . . For cases of persistent constipation the best remedy I know is fresh yeast.

"Fresh yeast . . . softens accumulated waste matter in the intestines and stimulates the intestinal muscles to normal action.

"Cathartics cannot do this."

Stop weakening yourself with artificial laxatives . . . drugs. Eat Fleischmann's Yeast!

Eaten regularly, three cakes a day, Fleischmann's Yeast will actually "tone" and strengthen intestines that have become weakened through neglect.

Thus easy, natural elimination of food residues is brought about. Poisons are cleared away. The system is cleansed, purified.

And when that happens, you feel better in a hundred ways. You're clearer skinned. Clearer eyed. Clearer headed. Fit!

"My doctor advised Fleischmann's Yeast for my sluggish system," writes Mrs. John Snyder, Malba, N. Y. "It proved to be the perfect remedy."

You can get Fleischmann's Yeast—rich in vitamins B, G and D—at grocers, restaurants, soda fountains. Directions are on the label. Try it now.

DR. GAEHLINGER, famous French authority, says: "Violent laxatives irritate the intestines." He recommends fresh yeast.

Yellow Cab

Here's the Reason Why

"Why doesn't YELLOW CAB lower its rate now that the price of everything else is down?"

A lot of you have asked this logical question and you are entitled to a direct answer and a definite reason.

Since the depression set in, YELLOW CAB'S volume of patronage has fallen off 66 per cent.

It's volume that makes rates, not only in the taxi-cab business but in everything else. Time and again, in our advertising, we have said to you: "Give us the volume and we'll give you the rates." And every time you did your part, we did ours. The fact is, that YELLOW CAB'S history is punctuated with rate reductions. We never failed in a solitary instance to make good our promise.

Of course, there is a reason for this falling off just now. The people haven't the spending power that they had in normal times, and they can't—and won't—use taxis now, no matter what the rates are. Every transportation company that has attempted to cut rates has been unable to get sufficient volume to make up the cut in rate.

Add to this drop in patronage, the ridiculously increased taxes on everything pertaining to an automobile, gas and oil (4 cents per gal. on each), then add the steady cost of improvement and the maintenance of the kind of cab service you demand, and you'll see exactly where we stand.

And remember this—every other system of local transportation has raised its rates to the peak. They are higher now than they ever were in Chicago's history, and instead of improving their service, they have cut it down.

Now you see where YELLOW CAB STANDS, and these facts are not subject to argument. They are facts.

RUSSO-CHINESE ACCORD EXCITES AND IRKS JAPAN

Pact Viewed as Peril to World Peace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Dec. 13.—The grave possibility that the resumption of Russo-Chinese relations will lead to a situation which will jeopardize world peace was seen today by Japan.

The accord, which was reached yesterday between Maxim Litvinow, Russian foreign commissar, and Dr. W. W. Yen, China's spokesman in the league of nations, is causing considerable apprehension in official circles.

"Forces of Destruction."

A foreign office spokesman characterized the new alignment as "a reunion of forces of destruction." He said the fact that Russia has recognized a country which today more than ever before is without a central government and in a state of disunity and confusion is welcomed by Tokio in that it discloses the true intentions of Russia.

As far as Japan is concerned, this rapprochement has made it possible to adopt a definite policy toward the Moscow government, government officials contend. They declared that the transcendent problem confronting China is how to deal with communist elements and bandits and the fact that Nanking has joined hands with Moscow is an indication of what may be expected.

Japanese leaders argue that a complete change in Russia's far eastern policy is a certainty and that it is very likely that communism will grip all China south of the Yangtze river and even menace India and Tibet.

Japan Ready to Act.

"Japan is prepared to act accordingly," a government spokesman said.

Tokio further feels that it is a foregone conclusion that Russia is dropping her neutral and even pro-Japanese attitude and is assuming an anti-Japanese stand. It is regarded that Moscow will not recognize the new state of Manchukuo.

Army circles are watching the situation closely. All admit that China must have entered the accord fully realizing that the communistic hold would be strengthened, but diplomats here declare that Japan is in no position to say anything, especially as Tokio consistently has spurned Moscow's overtures for a nonaggression pact.

It is stated that China must have been motivated in her action through uneasiness because of the growing Russo-Japanese friendliness.

MOSCOW EDTIOR APOLOGIZES FOR ASSAILING BRITISH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Great Britain's brush with soviet Russia over an article in the Moscow newspaper Izvestia, official soviet mouthpiece, which accused the British foreign office of preparing to forge documents showing that the soviet government is identical with the Third Internationale, is over.

In its article, which was published several weeks ago, Izvestia also charged that British agents abroad had been ordered to obtain evidence, "real or bogus," connecting Moscow with communist disorders in England. The British government demanded an apology.

Anthony Eden, undersecretary for foreign affairs, answering a question in the house of commons today, said that the soviet government has dissociated itself from statements in Izvestia and that the editor of Izvestia, through the Russian ambassador in London, has expressed regret for having published the statements. The editor said he had been misled by his London correspondent.

MRS. LAURA PRICE REFUSES TO QUIT EX-MATE'S HOME

Although Edwin C. Price, 1640 East 50th street, wealthy manufacturer, was granted a divorce at Clearwater, Fla., last week from Mrs. Laura B. Price, dispatches from Clearwater last night stated that she had refused to recognize the validity of the decree.

Instead, Mrs. Price barricaded herself in Mr. Price's winter home there and defied removal from it. Edgar Phillips, attorney representing the manufacturer, yesterday obtained a writ prohibiting her from moving any property from the premises, and a deputy sheriff was stationed on the front porch to enforce the order. Phillips declared that Mrs. Price had already removed oriental rugs and part of the contents of the wine cellar, and that her sister, Mrs. Marie Dawes, was carrying some of these articles away when her car struck a cow, causing injuries to Mrs. Dawes.

Price has already left Florida for Chicago. In his divorce suit he brought out the fact that his wife had served a jail sentence in Chicago for conspiring to defraud an insurance company by a fake jewel robbery.

JAPAN REJECTS PLAN TO LET U. S. SIT IN ON ROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Dec. 13.—Cabled warnings from Tokio that Japan will not sit in on any league of nations' commission of conciliation on the Manchurian conflict that includes the United States and Russia, particularly the United States, tonight appeared to have dampened the enthusiasm of the special committee of nineteen to send an invitation to the two nonmembers. Moreover, a strong stand on the part of the league is exacted by the United States as a condition of her sitting in and the lack of interest shown by the Russians for joining the committee of nineteen has likewise discouraged the group.

A subcommittee of five appointed to draft a resolution capable of permitting the coöperation of the United States and Russia in negotiating a settlement was unable to reach a decision tonight. The committee must do something tomorrow.

The thesis of conciliation, as presented by Sir John Simon of England, above all else seems to have won the day. But the participation of the Chinese, as well as the Japanese, is required, and the Chinese have been insistent, too. A limit of perhaps three months would be set on the conciliatory efforts to please, it was suggested today. Little hope is entertained of a decision that would attract the United States into the committee unless Washington has modified its stand. It is suggested by the powers, which are more interested in keeping Japan satisfied than anything else, that if the two parties to the dispute could be lured into the commission the United States and Russia could wait.

Mrs. Adeline Burroughs Seriously Ill in Florida

Mrs. Adeline Phipps Burroughs, 5126 Blackstone avenue, widow of Nelson T. Burroughs, veteran real estate dealer who died three months ago, suffered a stroke of paralysis yesterday at Fort Myers, Fla. Her condition late last night was said to be serious. Mrs. Burroughs, who is 82 years old, left Chicago two weeks ago to spend the winter in the south.

ALDERMEN HEAR TAXI OFFICIALS OF OTHER CITIES

The Yellow Cab company yesterday presented officials of taxicab companies in other cities as witnesses before the joint council subcommittee on taxicabs to dispute the contentions of independent operators who want present restrictions on the number of cabs in Chicago lifted and who propose to operate at cut rates.

The first witness was Paul L. Houston, president of the Yellow Cab company of Pittsburgh, owned by the Parmalee Transportation company, which also has a substantial interest in Yellow Cab of Chicago. Pennsylvania regulates taxicabs as public utilities, and his company has a virtual monopoly of Pittsburgh business, Mr. Houston testified.

In October, 1931, Mr. Houston said, his company cut rates to 15 cents for the first sixth mile and 10 cents for each additional two-thirds mile, a rate slightly higher than the cut rate proposed by Chicago independents. His company lost $167,000 in ten months, he said, and returned to the rates now charged by the Yellow and Checker Cab companies in Chicago.

Dale Hareman, president of the Yellow Cab company of Kansas City, Mo., testified that his company, which is not connected with the Yellow Cab company of Chicago, increased its business 350 per cent by instituting a zone rate of 50 cents for three miles, but made no profit.

Ald. John Toman [23d] clashed during the hearing with Robert McLaughlin, former president of the Checker Taxi company, and Harry Gordon, who are seeking a license to operate 1,500 cut rate cabs under the name of the Century Cab company. The alderman objected to their interrupting the witnesses with questions.

"Why don't you bring in somebody else than affiliates of the monopoly as witnesses?" retorted McLaughlin.

YOUTH SWALLOWS THREE SAFETY PINS WITHIN ONE MONTH

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—An open safety pin—the third he has swallowed within a month—was removed today from the throat of Samuel Schwartz, 17.

Schwartz's record of safety pin swallowing began on Nov. 11, when he was attended at the hospital for joint diseases. Six days later he appeared at Lenox Hill hospital and a second pin was removed.

Yesterday he was found lying on a sidewalk and taken to Flower hospital, where examination disclosed the third safety pin. It was lodged, point upward, just below the Adam's apple.

Bronchoscope experts removed it today, first straightening it out with 15 inch forceps.

Schwartz gave various explanations, one being that he swallowed it while eating oatmeal and another that it went down with a potato.

100,000 GALLONS OF ALCOHOL ON SHIP IS SEIZED

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—One of the largest liquor seizures made in recent months was effected today by members of the customs harbor patrol squad at Bayonne, N. J.

In Port Johnson the graveyard of abandoned ships, at Bayonne, where many hulks and broken vessels lie unused, the patrol squad came upon two new tanker barges and a tanker tug, surprising the crews as they were transferring the liquor ashore.

The total value of the seizure, including about 100,000 gallons of Belgian pure grain alcohol, the two barges and tug, was estimated at $810,000.

MRS. W. J. BEMIS ASKS CUSTODY OF TWO DAUGHTERS

Attorney Lloyd A. Faxon yesterday presented to Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan a petition on behalf of Mrs. Gertrude J. Bemis, who is now living in Los Angeles, asking that her two daughters, Elizabeth, 6 years old, and Patsy, 3, be sent to live with her.

Last summer Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude sent the two little girls and their three older brothers to live with their grandmother, Mrs. Annie Bemis, 5447 North Clark street, a former county commissioner, pending settlement of their mother's separate maintenance action against Walter J. Bemis, consulting engineer.

In her petition Mrs. Gertrude Bemis states that Elizabeth's health makes it desirable that she live in a warmer climate. She asks that her temporary alimony allowance be increased from $15 to $25 a week. Hearing on the petition was continued to Friday.

That's what today's smokers demand—Mildness and Better Taste.

But just calling a cigarette mild doesn't make it mild. Chesterfield starts at the beginning by using the right kind of mild, ripe, better-tasting tobaccos.

Then—Chesterfield ages its tobaccos just right. And scientific research has developed a unique method called "Cross-Blending" that makes Chesterfield tobaccos milder still—and still better-tasting.

Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois
Gentlemen-
Yardley advertising in Chicago has been concentrated in the Chicago Tribune since the early part of 1928. Not one cent has been spent in any other publication in the Chicago market in the past four years.
We wanted intensive coverage and powerful sales influence, not only in Chicago and its suburbs but also in the rich territory in the Chicago trading area surrounding it. The Tribune, we considered, gave us that, and so when we decided, four years ago, to do all of our Chicago advertising in Tribune color rotogravure pages, we did so with the belief and hope that concentration in your medium was the wise course. We have since seen the results of that move.
Yardley business in the area covered by the Sunday Tribune increased over 137% during the four year period from January 1928 to December 1931.
When you consider that Yardley products are truly quality items, appealing as they do to a discriminating and class clientele — and when you consider that this period of time includes over two years of the depression — this is an encouraging performance.
While it is too early as yet to report fully on the results of our Chicago sales in 1932, we believe they will equal or surpass 1931. And we show our continued confidence in the Chicago Tribune by placing our order now for color rotogravure pages in 1933. Again concentrating all of our advertising in Chicago in your newspaper.
Our best wishes for continued mutual success.
Faithfully yours,
Curtis Campaigne

*"We Are Again Concentrating All Our Chicago Advertising in the Chicago Tribune"

YARDLEY'S used thirty-eight pages exclusively in the Chicago Tribune during the last four years . . . and their sales volume steadily grew.

Yardley's . . . perfumers de luxe . . . capture the great Chicago market by consistent and exclusive full page color advertising in the Chicago Sunday Tribune, increasing their business despite the depression.

A sales increase of 137% . . . obtained in off-luxury years . . . is convincing evidence that Yardley's are using sound sales strategy. They know they are more than well advised in building their Chicago business on a persistent Chicago Tribune campaign.

Curtis Campaigne, Sales Director of Yardley's, finds that his salesmen when covering Chicago and the many important cities and towns adjacent to Chicago, actually see the direct value of Tribune advertising. For they are able to merchandise this advertising in a highly effective way. Department stores and druggists throughout the territory enthusiastically commend the Yardley pages in the Chicago Tribune, for they are able to trace much of their Yardley business to this advertising.

Yardley salesmen rate the Chicago Tribune of vital assistance in obtaining the most desirable accounts. This is true both in Chicago and in those rich suburbs and contiguous cities that make up the extensive Chicago market. A glance at the accompanying table of coverage figures shows how definitely the dominant influence of Tribune advertising extends throughout Tribune Town territory.

No other newspaper even approaches the position of the Chicago Tribune, either in the city itself or in suburban and adjacent communities. Consider what it means in Metropolitan Chicago alone, with 1,157,677 separate families, to secure 50% coverage of that number of homes by one newspaper.

Experiences of advertisers who have used the Chicago Tribune repeatedly prove, for either manufacturer or merchant, that the Tribune delivers a tremendous primary market which is so important to-day. Whether you check the distribution of circulation, or the lineage of retail stores, you will conclude that the Tribune is a newspaper of all classes starting at the top stratum and penetrating down through all levels of income which are of interest to advertisers.

As you look ahead to your own sales problem in Chicago this coming year, a little earnest investigating will indicate just where and how the Chicago Tribune can help you. For if you do not know the place that the Tribune can take in your Chicago plans, you have not yet appraised the greatest single essential influence in winning your way both in Chicago and in Tribune Town.

IL DUCE WAVES DALMATIAN FLAG; RAGES AT SERBIA

Thousands Protest "Acts of Vandalism."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 13.—Addressing a huge demonstration against Jugo-Slav destruction of art relics and symbols of the former domination by Venice of Dalmatia here tonight, Premier Mussolini said:

"I fully understand your feeling, comrades. Barbarous acts cannot destroy history nor cancel civilization in Italian lands across the Adriatic; such acts, however, cannot and must not be forgotten."

Mussolini waved a Dalmatian flag. His words were received with wild enthusiasm and he was obliged to appear again on the balcony of the palace while the crowd below sang the national anthem and Fascist hymns.

Menace Serbian Legation.

ROME, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini addressed thousands of shouting anti-Jugo-Slav demonstrators from the balcony of Palazzo Venezia this evening, declaring that history will not forget "the acts of vandalism" committed in Dalmatia. The demonstrators, consisting mostly of students, waved Italian and Dalmatian banners.

The premier spoke briefly and then retired inside the palace, while several hundred students marched through the streets in the center of the city towards the Jugo-Slav legation, where they were stopped by 300 mounted troops and policemen.

Troops Close Streets.

A large number remained in the vicinity of the legation, but were kept at a safe distance by troops and police, who closed all the streets leading to the building at the distance of a block.

Interspersed with shouts against Jugo-Slavia were numerous anti-French remarks, reflecting resentment against relations with those countries. Premier Mussolini in his speech declared he associated himself with the protest of the students.

The wives of many members of the diplomatic corps were "besieged" when the student demonstration caught them at a tea party at the Jugo-Slav legation.

A cordon of troops and police surrounded the building. For a time it looked as though the wives of the diplomats would have to remain indefinitely, but after a while the police found a safe way out.

The Canadian steamer Mount Louis, taking on flour at Fort William for Toronto, was reported as remaining there for the winter.

MAN CAUGHT IN KAISER'S CASTLE HELD IN GERMANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—Heinrich Fuecker of Neuss-on-Rhine, who was caught with a dagger and pistol on his person in the former kaiser's castle at Doorn yesterday, was turned over to German police at Emmerich today by Dutch authorities.

The prisoner told police that he wanted only to speak to the former kaiser and that he carried the dagger to protect himself if attacked by watch dogs. The revolver, he said, was to attract the attention of the former emperor if he met him in the palace grounds at Doorn. Beyond that he refused to talk.

Fuecker, it was revealed, was sentenced to prison for 15 years as a railway station bandit.

Colds can be ABORTED

(with lemon juice)

Don't waste time with cold remedies that only relieve a cold. If you want to end your cold, abort it. The lemon juice treatment will do it. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's cold compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then drives all cold symptoms right out of the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will abort the worst cold overnight. One cold compound tablet will check a cold at any time, for several hours; then when night comes you can get rid of it by abortion. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to half-way remedies.

RIDING MASTER GIVEN 18 MONTHS FOR SEDUCTION

Refuses to Marry Girl to Legitimize Child.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Rockland county's sensational seduction trial was checked off the calendar today when Sidney Homewood, the gay Romeo of the case, appeared in county court and heard himself sentenced to serve from eighteen months to three years in prison and to pay a fine of $500.

SIDNEY HOMEWOOD.

Sentence followed the collapse of further efforts to persuade the young English riding master to marry the girl he was convicted of betraying, Miss Charlotte Gibson, and so legitimize the child she expects within a few days. Members of both families are said to have united in the unsuccessful effort to bring about the wedding.

Homewood has been quoted as declaring that he would spend the rest of his days in a prison cell before he would marry the girl.

Sentence was imposed by Judge George H. Traylor Jr. who presided at the trial. In contrast to the days when the defendants were giving their different versions of their affair from the witness stand, only a handful of townspeople were on hand in the county's million dollar courthouse today to hear the sequel to the trial.

AGENT REPUDIATES BOMB CONFESSION AND WINS FREEDOM

Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday directed a jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the case of Charles Bell, business agent of the Grant Works Butchers and Grocers' association of Cicero, who was on trial on a charge of bombing. Bell, who is 30 years old and lives at 1345 South 49th avenue, Cicero, was charged with bombing the shop of Bruno Shimkus, 4923 West 14th street, on March 1. After his arrest he confessed that he had hired a man to bomb the meat shop. His repudiation of the confession yesterday left the state without convicting evidence.

"You were saved by a technicality," Judge Feinberg told the defendant, who appeared well dressed and wore a large diamond ring. "The police depended on your confession. Legally, it is no good if you deny it. My advice to you is to get out of that racket and go back to your trade as a butcher."

Has Chance to Break Record.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Amy Johnson tonight had an even chance of breaking, on her return flight, her own record for the 6,200 miles between Cape Town and England. If she reaches London before Thursday noon she will better the time of four days, six hours and 55 minutes she made on the flight from England to the cape last month.

The daring British flyer left the Cape Sunday morning and reached Gao, in French West Africa, today after being unreported for 26 hours.

BOLIVIAN TROOPS RECAPTURE KEY GRAN CHACO FORT

Casualties in Jungle War Placed at 30,000.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 13.—(AP)—It was officially announced today that the Bolivians had recaptured Fort Platanillos, considered of great importance because it is the key to the principal highways of the Gran Chaco, now the subject of dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay.

Paraguay Claims Victories.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The minister of war today issued a bulletin declaring that Paraguayan forces had captured several points on the Bolivian front in the Fort Saavedra sector of the Gran Chaco.

The announcement also said Paraguayan troops had repulsed an attack near Fort Lachina, in the Platanillos sector, and that the Bolivians suffered many casualties.

Casualties Put at 30,000.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 13.—(AP)—American cattlemen arriving here from the Gran Chaco region today said casualties on both sides have been appallingly large. They declared that unofficial estimates put the Paraguayan dead and wounded as high as 12,000 and those of the Bolivians at 18,000.

Since July, it has been estimated, also unofficially, the Paraguayan forces have been increased until they now number 30,000 to 40,000. It was semi-officially announced several months ago that there were 20,000 Paraguayan soldiers in the field.

The English mission at Makthlawaiya, like most available buildings in Paraguay, has become a hospital filled with wounded soldiers. Paraguay has requisitioned most of the available cattle, giving vouchers not immediately redeemable but offering a price slightly higher than market quotations.

Increasing rains meanwhile are transforming the Chaco into a vast bog, which, when the rainy season reaches its peak in January and February, is certain to halt all military transportation except that by ox train.

Brazil to Fortify Amazon.

PARA, Brazil, Dec. 13.—(AP)—A battalion of light infantry from the Brazilian state of Maranao arrived at this port today and will await transportation to Tabatinga, on the upper Amazon.

Army headquarters announced plans of installing light cannon at the ancient fort of Tabatinga, long neglected, as a precaution in the Peruvian and Colombian dispute over the seizure by Peruvians of the Colombian port of Leticia.

Meanwhile, dispatches from western Brazil said the movements of Peruvian launches on the upper Amazon have been active.

Detachment of Troops Arrives.

Among these was the ship Alberto, which, the dispatches said, lately had arrived from Iquitos, Peru, with a detachment of troops.

The commander of the unit said officers on the Peruvian gunboat Nato had been reprimanded for a misunderstanding in which the Brazilian launch Conceicao had been impeded while attempting to ascend the Putumayo river in Peru.

Guns from three gunboats arrived here from Rio de Janeiro today. They will be shipped to the upper Amazon, where they will be mounted on small ships.

HOLD MRS. JEAN VAN VLISSINGEN FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Jean Van Vlissingen, once well known in Chicago as a teacher of interpretive dancing, will be held today at the home of her son, Waldron, in a Philadelphia suburb, where she died Monday. Mrs. Van Vlissingen was 70 years old.

MRS. JEAN VAN VLISSINGEN.

She was the first teacher of Isador Duncan and was given credit for creating the style of dancing interpreted by her famous pupil. Many of Mrs. Van Vlissingen's protégés were successful professionally, among them Jeanette Derdiger, Mary Servoss, Mary Behan, and Martha Messenger.

Before leaving Chicago five years ago, Mrs. Van Vlissingen repudiated the dancing cult she had founded. She announced herself shocked at the gauze draped exhibitions of dancers. Interpretive dancing, started for health and for pleasure, had been debauched by commercialism, Mrs. Van Vlissingen said.

SCIENTIFIC ADVICE ON COLD RELIEF

Unbiased Medical Research Favors Vapex—the Delightful Inhalant

For two years, a prominent medical research laboratory has been experimenting to determine what really is good for a head-cold.

In their opinion, Vapex—the delightful inhalant—is an ideal relief. Vapex is preferable to salves, sprays, and drops, because it is more likely to penetrate to the seat of a cold . . . the breathing-passages.

You breathe the soothing Vapex vapor . . . just as you breathe air. It's natural and it's safe!

Sniffles and sneezes . . . stuffed-up head and nose . . . much of the discomfort of a cold . . . soon disappear when you breathe Vapex. And Vapex has one important quality that makes it far more valuable than other inhalants. In unbiased tests, it was proved that the vapor from a single drop of this delightful inhalant killed germs present during a cold. In similar tests, many other inhalants commonly substituted for Vapex had little effect on the germs.

So insist on V-A-P-E-X at your druggist's. Now 75 cents a bottle.

REP. GARRETT, HOUSE RULES COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN, IS DEAD

NOW! PILES MEET THEIR WATERLOO!

No more pain! No more itching or scratching! No more torture when you sit or walk! No more torture at the stool! The relief of Piles has now been solved. No matter what the form of Piles you suffer from—genuine relief for you lies in Pazo Ointment.

Pazo not only stops the pain and itching and makes defecation easy but it tends to correct the condition of Piles as a whole. This is because Pazo is threefold in effect. It is (1) soothing, (2) healing, (3) absorbing. Thus, it not only allays the inflammation and repairs torn tissue, but actually reduces the swollen blood vessels which are Piles. The method of application makes Pazo doubly effective (see picture below). Thousands say it saved them the need of a painful operation. Try Pazo yourself and realize from one trial that your days of pile suffering are over. All drug stores sell Pazo in Collapsible Tube with special Pile Pipe, complete for 75c.

Perforated Pile Pipe attached to Collapsible Tube Makes Application Correct and Easy

The PAZO Collapsible Tube and Perforated Pile Pipe make it very easy to apply the Ointment high up in the rectum where it can reach and thoroughly cover all the affected parts. Complete interior treatment in all cases of Piles is plainly important.

New Fairbank Novel Is Calm Record of Life

'Bright Land' Has Setting in Old Galena.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Bright Land," by Janet Ayer Fairbank. [Houghton-Mifflin.] Published today.

IN the days when Chicago was considered merely an ill-advised settlement of those who hadn't foresight enough to know where to settle, Galena, Ill., was a metropolis of the middle west. Its strategic position on the Mississippi brought it settlers from the south and a culture of luxury vastly different from the cold meagerness of the lives of other communities in the mid-west. The lead mines poured comparative wealth into the pockets of their owners. Success, comfort, gayety, the thrill of a pioneer town filled with youth, made of Galena one of the most romantic spots on the map of that fantastic life along the great Father of Waters.

JANET FAIRBANK.

Galena, before the civil war, in its heyday of prosperity, is lush fiction material which has gone this long time unmined. Janet Ayer Fairbank has found in it the rich fictional ore has found in it rich fictional ore. "The Bright Land" is a historical romance in the sense that it revivifies a past—forgotten and apparently strangely little mourned, since it has fired so few imaginations to creative reconstructions of its glories. But "The Bright Land" is not in any sense a costume piece, since it tells the universal story of a family rather than merely reconstructs a glamorous era.

The heroine of "The Bright Land" is Abby-Delight Flagg, daughter of a typical New Hampshire patriarch, the child of his first wife, brought up by her aunt-stepmother, mothering her stepbrothers and sisters, a serious girl, by nature self-contained, incapable of showing her emotions, distrustful of those who have too facile a laugh or a tear, apparently destined for a stern New England spinsterhood despite her calm beauty and her youthful adoration of a young theological student who goes away as a missionary to earn her. Into her life there bursts a man from the west, the son of a former townsman, who falls immediately and completely in love with Abby-Delight. She commits the one rash act of her whole long and restrained life when, after her father has locked her in her room for disobeying him, she climbs down the trellis of her window and rushes to the stranger as he is taking the stage coach with the request that he marry her immediately and take her away.

In a world of utter blackness to her his impetuous proposal seemed the only escape, and, frankly without loving him, she ran away with him. The rest of the book is an unfolding of Abby-Delight's character, of her growing love for her husband, of his undying and sometimes baffled adoration of her, of their life together, of their trials with their six fine children, of their spiritual agonies as the civil war separates them and takes their oldest boys, of the slow but sure knitting together of two diverging natures, the gay, spendthrifty, wide gestured husband, the quiet, almost silent, wife.

The charming romance of married happiness is the human thread through the bright tapestry of the glamorous town and its spectacular life. Stephen is a pillar of the city, and he has a part in everything that gave Galena life and color. He owns packets plying on the Mississippi. He shakes the hand of Abraham Lincoln when he speaks there before the war. He is one of the reception committee for Gen. Grant when he returns to his home town a victorious hero. He naturally is a part of every phase of the life of the district. Through Stephen and Abby-Delight the reader sees vividly the panorama of a period.

"The Bright Land" is a long book, 525 pages, and it has nothing spectacularly dramatic about it; it is a quiet, calm, pleasant record despite the tragedy of the civil war through which its characters are drawn. But it has that special allure without which, however fine, a novel can never achieve wide popularity. It has "that something," and a novel can go on and on like the dormouse's tail if it has. "The Bright Land" has novel "It."

About the same period and an even more fantastic trek—to the California goldfields—which Stephen visits in "The Bright Land," is "The Long Knives Walked," by Mary Louise Mable (Bobbs-Merrill). The material for it, like the material for "The Bright Land," is so obviously fiction gold that it is amazing that it has not been used before. The absorbing tragedy of 1846 was the loss of the Donner party—the tragic tale of the perishing of almost the entire group of forty travelers on the Overland trail.

It is one of the epics of history—with gruesome echoes of the dead eaten in the desperation of starvation. It has remained for Mary Louise Mable to make the first artistic fictional record of the tragedy. Its tone is the exact opposite of the tone of "The Bright Land." Instead of calm, it is violent, fierce, dramatic, a record of historic vitality as opposed to a record of human vitality against the historic background.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, By News-Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

A CROOKED ATTORNEY.

"A client of mine wanted her two $10,000 negotiable bonds tomorrow," continued Attorney Davis. "I had just taken them from the safe when a man quietly entered the door and covered me with a gun. He cut the telephone wires, took everything of value I had on me; then, noticing the bonds on the desk, slipped them in his inside coat pocket, held up five fingers, shook his head from side to side, locked me in, and escaped. This just about ruins me," he lamented.

"What did he look like?" inquired Sergt. Reynolds.

"He was a big, swarthy, tough looking fellow of about 30. He wore a brown suit with very short sleeves and as he kept me covered with his left hand I noticed a long scar on that wrist. I don't know whether he was dumb or not, but he didn't utter a single word while he was here."

"This looks like the guy that stuck up Davis, all right," said Reynolds two hours later as he bent over the bullet riddled body lying on a vacant lot. "Don't see any bonds, though," he continued, searching the pockets of the cheap brown suit.

"Yes, that's him—no question about it," exclaimed Davis later, viewing the body at the morgue. "There's the scar and—yes, that's him. But what do you think he did with the bonds, sergeant?"

"He never had them, Davis," replied Reynolds, "and you know it. I don't know if you're implicated in this murder, but you framed the theft of those bonds and I'm holding you!"

HOW DID REYNOLDS KNOW?

Women Map Fair Program of 100 Clubs

Report Preparations Are Well Advanced.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Feminine participation in the Century of Progress took a long stride forward yesterday. Presidents of more than 100 major organizations of Chicagoland who will show the world next summer how far women have progressed in the last 100 years met at the Palmer house under the chairmanship of Mrs. Henry W. Hardy and the auspices of the National Council of Women to tell each other how they are going about it.

It wasn't, it developed, a matter of stimulating enthusiasm, but merely of fusing the individual ardor of the various member groups, many of whom already have their plans laid and their preparations well under way. It was a revelation to most of the delegates to discover how long and how energetically others have been busy about the fair and to learn from veterans of the preceding exposition, in 1893, what was accomplished then.

Mrs. Arthur Meeker, as a trustee of the fair and a vice chairman of the Friends of Music, appealed to the clubwomen attending for support of the project that will give the exposition the symphony concerts and other high class musical attractions it is hoped to secure. Frederick Stock is honorary chairman of the project, which seeks to raise $100,000 in Chicago before Feb. 1 to insure adequate and artistic musical representation on the program. Headquarters have been established at room 1124 in the Monroe building.

Mrs. Louis E. Yager, representing the National and Illinois Federations of Musical Clubs, informed the gathering that since October of 1930 an office has been maintained in the Stevens hotel, authorized by the Century of Progress board, where the musical program is being crystallized. Artists and choruses from all over the world are being contacted, she revealed.

Mrs. Harvey Fox, president of the Chicago Woman's club, sketched the manifold activities in prospect for that organization. These include a historical pageant that will be produced for twenty weeks on the exposition grounds, depicting women's progress; an extensive exhibit at the clubrooms of numerous phases of women's contributions to Chicago's social scheme, and participation in the congress of women.

There will be a woman physician on duty every day at the "House of Health" to be erected by the Medical, Dental, and Allied Science Women's association, Dr. Edith Lowry, secretary, reported. Parents may have their children given physical examination, or bring them in for first aid treatment there.

Mrs. Othelia Myhrman, who in three weeks has obtained 2,580 signatures to the petitions to foreign governments asking them to send their most noted women as delegates to the congress, spoke for the American Daughters of Sweden, of which she is president.

"When the World's Fair comes in at the door in Chicago next summer," asserted Helen Bennett of the Century of Progress staff, "poverty is going to fly out of the window. This fair comes at the psychological moment to give employment to carpenters and painters and electricians. Think of the people who are going to be riding our transportation systems, eating in our restaurants, and so forth. And we have a story to tell them—grand exhibits to show them. If you haven't been to the fair grounds I hope you'll come and get an idea of what we are going to show them."

Memories of Mrs. Potter Palmer the first, of Mrs. Charles Henrotin, of Susan B. Anthony and other noted women who made the Columbian Exposition what it was were given by Mrs. Hannah Solomon, who was on the board of the parliament of religions in 1893.

Many Extra Special Gifts Low in Price

These Suggestions Easy on Pocketbooks.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There are a lot of extra special gifts that are cheerfully and mercifully tagged with modest little price marks . . . for instance, warm woolly scarfs made of brilliant plaids, checks and stripes, some fringed and some tailored with swanky simplicity. Then you can buy some tricky silk and heavy crêpe combinations that will tie snugly around your best street costumes, wild colors preferably, that will contrast any dull colors of wool and silk.

Have you seen the new bib scarfs that are anything but the infantile things they are named? Usually they are of riotous silks, and the newest models go in for yarns and stitches as well as color contrast. Very woolly angora collar and cuff sets are something else to pack away for Christmas loot . . . the deep, wide, expertly shaped, hand crocheted collars will do grand things for black wool frocks for office wear.

About the most exciting footnotes of the season are the captivating boudoir mules made of the new deep berry shades of velvet. They are stunning affairs combined with either gold or silver kidskin. The new anklet strap combination prevents flip-flopping about the house, if you are the sort of a person who dislikes that kind of foot racket.

The coldest feet can slide into the downy depths of fur lined slippers with a great sigh of contentment. You will find two styles, the flat sole that offers no obstacles in the way of heels, the kind that you can park beside the bed, and find even with both eyes closed in sleep. The thick, fluffy, white bunny fur makes them the most tropical of foot warmers.

The other model boasts about a snooty high heel, shorter fur lining and a wide turnover cuff of the fur to contrast the colored velvet. The black and deep crimson creations made in this manner are the best looking mules that can be parked in any clothes closet.

If you decide that you need foot glamour, and that fluffy feathers will fill your needs, look for the marabou trimmed mules in all pastel and deep colors, with harmonizing or contrasting bands of marabou snuggled around the instep line of the velvet slipper itself. And for the gal who yearns for untrimmed swank and swagger, there are all kinds of fine supple leather mules and folded Pullman travel compacts of leather case and slippers to match. And the coq feather swirls that parade around the insteps of velvet of silk mules are something to rave about.

This year you can buy silk hose for sums that will make you gasp with unbelief; even the good old reliable "service socks" are delightfully sheer and feminine looking. You can buy mere airy trifles of thin chiffon in sets of three for a ridiculously moderate investment, you can buy three pairs of dancing hose for a perfectly delightful collection of nickels and dimes and quarters, the thin sheers that you would have sunk twice that amount for in the so-called good old days when hosiery was a decided luxury.

And so between socks, scarfs and slippers pinned with price tags that dangle temptingly marked with unbelievable low prices, this Christmas shopping habit should be a simple and highly satisfactory expedition for every one.

John Charles Thomas Arrives for Concert of Bohemians Tonight

More than a little excited over returning again to the stage of the old Auditorium theater, John Charles Thomas, baritone formerly with the Chicago Civic Opera company, stepped off the Broadway Limited at the Union station yesterday. He termed the Auditorium "the finest opera and concert stage in America." He will sing tonight at the benefit concert to be given by the Bohemians of Chicago, as will other operatic and concert artists, including Mme. Elsa Alsen, Wagnerian soprano, who also arrived yesterday. Joseph Hofmann, pianist, is to come this morning from Philadelphia. An enlarged symphony orchestra under the direction of Mr. Stock will be another feature of the concert.

Stock Uses 3 Numbers for Full Concert

But Program Has Plenty of Artistic Cheer.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mr. Stock assigned only three compositions for the concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon. Numerically the list was not great, but in qualities of fine performance and artistic cheer it was one of the best.

Even Kodaly's "Hary Janos" suite registered among the agreeable events of the season, and this to the ones who customarily regard a composition in the modern idiom as a bit of punishment for the good of their musical souls. It remains, as it always has been, a combination of charming melody and musical humor, humor which is in the essence of the music itself and does not depend upon the slap stick and the glass crash to give it point.

This was the second number in the program. The first was another suite, the unfailingly engaging set that Sir Hamilton Harty made out of Handel's "Water Music." There is reason to believe that some one desirous of making a reputation with some orchestral music could accomplish his end by digging out some of the less familiar Handel music and arranging it as Harty did with this suite. It would need rescoring from the ancient instrumentation of Handel's day to that of the modern orchestra, but there is a lot of highly attractive and little known music waiting to be uncovered.

For the third composition, which was the entire second half of the program, there was another hearing of Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony. Once again there was a great performance. Mr. Stock would seem to have discovered the true secret of interpreting Tschaikowsky. It is to soft pedal his melodrama while emphasizing his still potent melodies.

Jacques Gordon, former concertmaster of this orchestra, passing through the city the other day, told of having engaged in a discussion with some eastern musicians who professed to be unable to understand how the Chicago Symphony could accomplish what it does.

"But," said Mr. Gordon, "you are talking about Frederick Stock."

Society to Make Gala Event of Reopening of Auditorium

Benefit Concert of Bohemians Will Draw Old Opera Patrons to Historic Structure.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE reopening of the old Auditorium theater tonight—all redecorated and probably as grand as it was in its youth—is an auspicious occasion from a social standpoint, and tonight's audience undoubtedly will be as gala a one as if it were assembled for the opening of a grand opera season.

All the faces that were familiar in the diamond horseshoe of boxes in the last ten years that opera was given at the Auditorium will be there tonight; no, not all, for two of those who always were among the most prominent of "among those present," the late Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, will not be there, of course.

Mrs. Carpenter it was who redecorated the theater the last time it was done over and Mrs. McCormick was the "angel" of Chicago's opera company for years, so that their names are irrevocably linked with the Auditorium in the minds of those who followed the career of opera there for the last decade in which the theater was in use.

It is much older than that, of course, for it is forty-three years—and five days, to be exact—since it was dedicated.

Benefit Concert of Bohemians.

Tonight's rededication takes the form of a concert for the benefit of the Bohemians' club of musicians, not of natives of Bohemia, relief fund. Some of those who will have box parties tonight will be sitting in the same boxes in which they used to hear opera—the Cyrus Hall McCormicks in 54, Charles H. Swift in 47 [Mrs. Swift is in Poland], the Ernest S. Grahams in 48, and the William A. Yagers in 3.

James Keeley will have box 5, which was occupied for so many years by Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick. The Chauncey McCormicks have their old box, too, but they are in Washington, so will not be there tonight.

Others who will have boxes tonight are Miss Anita Blair, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. William O. Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker [she is general chairman of the committee in charge of the concert], Mrs. Francis Johnson, who was box chairman; Russell Tyson, Mrs. Patrick A. A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

If one wants to enjoy a fireplace, a real honest to goodness coal or wood burning fireplace, an ash drop in the floor of the fireplace through which ashes can be swept and dropped into a special basement compartment, is almost a necessity. Considering how small is the cost of installing such a drop, and how easy it is to have it done, there is no reason for not having one. Carrying light, powdery ashes, or half burned coal and heavier ashes over rugs and floors is such a harrowing task to the immaculate housekeeper that usually the family does without the glowing "flames" when this is a necessary part of the hearth-side fire.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four-masted ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Bach, an unemployed engineer; Roberta Millbank, and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employe. Benny, a cook, hires up for his keep. Henery Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. One owner of an unused car sends his French chauffeur, Raoul, along. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter is made mate. The ship is seized by four stowaways on the high seas. A warning comes in over the radio about four bank robbers being at large and the captain realizes he and his crew are in their hands. After several days the bandits are overpowered and set adrift. The ship reaches Cape Town, where Henery's cargo is traded, through Peter Muller, a banker friend of Roberta's father, at a large profit.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

AN EXCHANGE OF CARGO.

The Abigail White discharged her mixed cargo and loaded another that was even more mixed, in exchange; chrome, asbestos, corundum, bales of ostrich feathers, and a good deal of her enormous hold space was filled by twenty huge wagons of the sort used for trekking across the veldt, hauled singly by draft animals or in a train by a tractor. They were tremendously heavy and beautifully made, of course, by wainwrights who had perfected their construction through many years of practice. The American "prairie schooner" of 1849 and later would have borne about the same relation to them that a light department store delivery wagon bears to a fifteen ton stone truck. Mr. Muller Jr. got the order for them by cabling to Brisbane, the low cost of transport making a good profit.

Only a small part of this cargo was Henery's. The Mullers and some of their associates were inclined to a private venture after visiting the schooner and talking to her captain. So favorably were they impressed by both that they made a higher gamble of it by deciding not to insure. This let Capt. Hiram in for a very decent little money profit, of which the crew shared on lay.

Henery rubbed his chin and felt content. His assets had not thawed to any considerable extent, but he had swapped them off for goods of a determined value at a profit of over 150 per cent on their price of purchase. If things kept on this way the folks at home would have the satisfaction of confirming their former brief of "a fool for luck." The better his idiotic venture succeeded the more would their conviction grow that it was more profitable to be born a lucky nut than a sound business man. The rating of this latter had taken a Humpty Dumpty cropper.

Mr. Muller looked thoughtful when Henery said: "The world's commerce will come back to barter. There's goin' to be established a commodity balance where money won't count for much. The intrinsic value of a product is what counts, not what's stamped on a piece of paper and backed by so many ounces of rare metal. Even that don't make the paper money safe right now, and sooner or later some fool like me is apt to stumble onto the secret of how to take base metals to pieces and put 'em together again to fill the tests of a precious one. What's goin' to happen to your credits, then?"

"Chaos——" Muller muttered. Henery fascinated him.

"You bet, sir. But there's no chaos about materials to clothe you or lug you around or shelter you from heat or cold or the fruits of the good earth to fill your stomick. What the world needs is to go back to the early princ'ples of trade, barter, and forget about its nom'nal currency values. Somebody's always got mor'n they need of something useful, and in lack of somethin' else that's vital to the public weal. The world's got to establish an equilibrium of supply and demand. What's the good of gold 'cept for your teeth? What's the good of silver 'cept for knives and forks?" He looked at Muller Jr., a handsome and alert young man: "What's worth more, a pearl if you couldn't sell it or a big ripe peach?"

Muller Jr. looked at Roberta. "Even as a business man I'd rather have the peach."

The big schooner got away to sea again, bound for Sydney, Australia, which is a distance of 6,546 miles on the steamer track.

She was in perfect laden trim with a fair current, the antarctic drift, all the way to the southernmost tip of Australia opposite which is the large island of Tasmania. It was midsummer in those latitudes, but they were so far south that the weather was no more than pleasantly warm as it might be in June off New York.

"The loneliest run in the whole wide world," said the captain to Peter, "but at this season about the safest too, so long as we keep well north of the antarctic ice drift. No danger of collision, anyhow."

A big four masted schooner comfortably laden with no tremendous weight so stowed as to make a pendulum of her is the driest, easiest and steadiest craft afloat. She cannot be driven hard into a head swell, like a steamer, to make her plunge heavily, and the steady pressure on her canvas keeps her from rolling. Green seas do not crash down aboard her nor heavy sprays lash across her except in a gale. In such weather as they encountered the Abigail White was more like a big barn than like a ship at sea, and housed her tenants as such.

A curious leveling atmosphere came to pervade the vessel, as if there were not and never had been any particular distinctions of class or culture or circumstance or experience worth considering. At least these were not worth considering as any sort of obstacle to the relationships of those aboard. They became a close community, in thought and speech and conduct.

The ship was a small detached example of communism that was a fact, and not an ideal nor a falsity because enforced. There were no rules nor regulations; no prohibitions. All the don'ts were do-s. Do this, do that, was expressed in the quiet finality of a pre-accepted compliance that was no more autocratic than some elemental necessity imposed by nature. Even the captain's quiet order: "Trim the mainsheet" was in the nature of a sudden crash of rain that carries the tacit admonition and accepted compliance that one seek shelter. All worked together with the unanimity of ants or bees, migratory wildfowl or fishes. A colony of beaver could not have cut their trees and built their dam with less dispute than did this group of intelligent people sail their ship.

Arlette was scattering corn for the chickens, with an eye lifting toward Raoul, who was sawing wood for the galley stove. Slightly detached from this bucolic scene, Peter and Adam were making up a sail that had been hauled out and spread to sun against mildew, and Roberta was perched on a stool beside the galley doorway peeling yams and listening to the grizzled cook, who was reciting passages from "The Tempest" as he kneaded a huge bowlful of dough. Her eyes scarcely left Peter, however, peeling the yams entirely by sense of touch.

"In all my seagoing experience," said the captain, "I never saw anything like this. Never believed anything would be like this aboard ship."

"It's enough to frighten you," Ladybird admitted. "But, after all, why not?"

"Seems like tempting Providence to take some sort of crack at us."

"Do you think that sail cargo carriers like this will ever come back?" she asked.

He shook his head. "Not unless the whole system of world trade should get on the old basis of barter. Not while it's a question of racing back and forth and round the globe for fluctuating money values of commodities. The doom of the sail ship is that it is too slow. We just happened to get a break, but we couldn't hope to keep it up."

No reason why the girl should make a fuss. But tell her you're sorry if you appeared rude.

Japanese Girl Gets Belated Wampas Rating

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—After Lillian Miles, a blues singing platinum blonde girl from the midwest, was elected as the Columbia studio's representative among the year's group of Wampas baby stars the Columbia studio discovered it did not have Miss Miles under contract. This discovery resulted in an unusual and to Miss Miles embarrassing state of affairs, for the Columbia studio made an urgent request that the Wampas replace Miss Miles in its list of baby stars.

The Wampas finally agreed, and now the first non-Caucasian girl ever to receive a place among the baby stars in eleven years of annual selections has been announced as Miss Miles' successor. The new baby star is Toshia Mori, 19 year old girl of Los Angeles' "Little Tokio," daughter of a Japanese physician, Dr. Toshia Ichoka.

Miss Mori was born in Kyoto, Japan, came to this country at the age of 10, and returned to Japan over five years ago. She attended dramatic schools and was also educated by tutors. She broke into films during the last year in "Roar of the Dragon" and Columbia's "Bitter Tea of Gen Yen." She is five feet high and weighs 100 pounds.

Richard Bennett, instead of Lew Stone, as first announced, will play Prince Chairmonte in Metro's talkie retake of "White Sister" with Helen Hayes. Stone started today in the company making "Men Must Fight" with Ruth Selwyn, Mary Carlisle, Hedda Hopper, Phillips Holmes, May Robson, and Diana Wynyard.

Not many know it, but Dorothy Mackaill once was a chorus girl in a Paris musical show starring Chevalier.

Billie Burke and Katharine Hepburn, who did so well when they both busted into films in "Bill of Divorcement," will again play in the same picture together in Radio's "A Great Desire," with Colin Clive. Gerald Grove, baronet, has been signed to a contract to act as the picture's technical director.

Theodore Von Eltz was run down by a hit and run driver yesterday, and taken to the hospital, where it was found that his injuries consisted of a wrenched left knee.

Husband Given Pointers on How to Avoid Reno

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Pops, this is your day before the Tribunal. Somebody hints that giving Mom all the advice about how to keep the marriage out of Reno is just pressing one coat sleeve. The garment can't be worn unless the other one, too, has an iron run over it.

So, here goes! Being a good husband has its orders, too, so to speak!

It is a fact that you can't prime a woman on all the enduring wiles and virtues and expect her to keep on working at them in marriage if her mate doesn't give her coöperation. It's just as bad for the institution if you fly off the handle at every little thing as if Maw does it. Worse, we'd say, because Mom's nerves aren't supposed to be so placid as yours.

It's just as silly for you to expect that you've been cheated because your "angel" is tarnished with human vices as for the woman to be mad because you failed her as a god. You're both wrong. What with the tempers and the fussy notions and fits of unreasonableness and moods both our sexes are pretty evenly cursed.

What's wanted mostly from your side of the house as first aid to a long-lived marriage is good sportsmanship. You fail on certain things more because they've been bred in the bone than because you're mean or ungenerous. The hardest thing the majority of you men do is to be fair and square on money matters with your wife. Yes, you pay the bills, buy her a house, maybe, a car, take her on trips and show her a good enough time—but how many of you honestly think of your wives as working partners entitled to share fifty-fifty?

Surely, you've had more business experience than she. But how about passing on to her a bit more of your education in this line where she needs it? You could teach her how to budget, save, spend. But you can't do it if you're going to hold out on her and treat her as if she were an incompetent.

Another thing. How about voluntarily offering her a little more mental companionship? Some of you complain your wife's dinner conversation is confined to the youngsters' bright or naughty sayings. What chance do you give her to express herself on other things?

City's Society Will Go Back to Auditorium

Reopening Tonight to Be Gala Event.

W. Upham, Mr. and Mrs. Leo F. Wormser, the Musicians' Club of Women, and the Women's Symphony orchestra.

Triangle Club Show Plans.

While final rehearsals of "It's the Valet," the Princeton Triangle club show, are in progress down at Princeton, the Chicago alumni are going right ahead with plans for a gala evening when the musical comedy is given at the Auditorium theater Dec. 22.

Already boxes have been reserved by Mrs. William O. Goodman, Miss Gwethalyn Jones, Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, Mrs. Howard C. Phillips, Mrs. Edward D. Shumway, Mrs. Adele H. Whiting, Mrs. Charles B. Shaffer and Mrs. John L. Senior.

Many plans are under way for dinners before the performance. A few of those who will entertain before the theater, in addition to the box holders, are Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, Mrs. J. Russell Forgan, Mrs. Alfred T. Carton, Mrs. Calvin Fentress, Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham Jr., Mrs. T. Albert Potter, Mrs. Rawleigh Warner, Mrs. John P. Welling, Mrs. Henry Babson, Mrs. John A. Bloomington, Mrs. Frank Elliott, Mrs. F. W. Merritt, Mrs. John Ralston, Mrs. Dexter Fairbanks and Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman.

Those who go to tonight's performance of "The Laugh Parade" will not only be entertained but will have the pleasant knowledge that they are contributing to a worthy cause, the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago, for the theater has been taken over as a benefit by the Kenwood Social Service club which gives $10,000 a year to the society. Mrs. Carl W. Defebaugh is chairman of the committee that has arranged the benefit.

Pauline Palmer to Arrive Soon.

Miss Pauline Palmer, the "sub-deb" of the Potter Palmer family, will arrive at home from school in the east the end of this week to spend the holidays with her family. Gordon Palmer, who's a freshman at Harvard, will not be here until the end of next week.

The former Bertha Palmer, now Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne, and her 4 month old son, Oakleigh III., have come to spend the holiday season with the Palmers and Mr. Thorne will join them early next week. The Thornes plan to return to Millbrook, N. Y., after the holidays, and at present they have no plans for wintering in California or in Florida. Neither have the Palmers; in fact, Mrs. Palmer says she expects to be in Chicago until early next May, when she will go to Bar Harbor for the summer.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham of 936 Lake Shore drive has as her guest Miss Marion Kerby of New York, who arrived yesterday and will be here until Monday. Miss Kerby has many friends here and always is very busy socially during her visits to Chicago. Mrs. Upham is entertaining at dinner tonight at her residence before the Bohemians' concert.

Mr. and Mrs. William McClelland Drake of the Blackstone hotel are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son last Saturday. Mrs. Drake, the former Elizabeth Keays, is at the Michael Reese hospital. The boy, according to his dad, will be William Jr.

Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson is returning today from a three weeks' visit down east. Part of her time was spent in New Haven, where Joe Jr. is a freshman at Yale. Joe Jr. will be in Chicago for the holidays, arriving Sunday or Monday.

Yale Elections to Fraternities.

Some Chicago parents who have sons at Yale have received the glad tidings that they have been elected to fraternities if they are in Yale proper and to clubs if they are in Sheffield. Keith Spalding Brown of Wheaton is now entitled to wear an Alpha Delta Phi pin; Leonard Dewes Burgweger is an Alpha Sigma Phi; Frederick Willard Preston of Lake Forest is a Chi Psi; Richard Ely Danielson Jr. is a "Deke"—he isn't a Chicagoan, for his parents live in Groton, Mass., but his aunt, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, lives here, and his mother is a former Chicagoan; Nelson L. Barnes Jr. is a Zeta Psi; Rosecrans Baldwin Jr. is a member of Vernon Hall at Sheffield, and Robert Wells Zabriskie Jr. is a St. Anthony's man. Young Zabriskie lives in Aurora-on-Cayuga in New York state, but his stepmother is the former Hazel Everingham of Chicago and the boy is well known here.

We were incorrect in stating that Mrs. Charles G. Little and her daughter, Miss Myra Little, were giving a luncheon for Miss Helen Johnson during the holidays, for Miss Little is in Paris, taking her junior year at Bryn Mawr at the Sorbonne, and Mrs. Little is giving the luncheon for the debutante by herself. Miss Little will spend the holiday season at Gstaad, in Switzerland, enjoying winter sports.

Go Southwest for Winter.

Mrs. Thomas R. Lyon of Glencoe has left to spend the balance of the winter in Phoenix at the Arizona Biltmore. Her daughter, Mrs. John W. Gary, who will return tomorrow morning from a brief eastern trip, will join her mother for Christmas.

Among other Chicagoans who have augmented the Chicago colony at the Biltmore in Phoenix recently are Mrs. Blome Vose and Miss Mary Lou Anderson. The latter is not staying in the hotel, however, as she has a lovely house on the Biltmore grounds which she built two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Cremin of Scott street are planning to leave on the 23d to join their daughters, the Misses Florence and Noel Cremin, and Mrs. Cremin's sister, Miss Mary Amberg, at the Biltmore for a holiday visit. They are delaying their departure to be in Chicago on the 22d and see their son, William, appear with the Princeton Triangle club. He will spend the holidays touring with the club.

Mrs. Robert V. Massey of Philadelphia is in town to spend the holidays with her father, William A. Bond of the Webster hotel. She will be in Chicago for about a month and then will go to Florida for the rest of the winter.

Mrs. William Van Doren Wright and Miss Marion Wright, who have been in New York recently, sailed last Friday on the Majestic for Europe.

Mrs. W. R. Tapper Goes to Paris.

Mrs. William R. Tapper of Highland Park has made an on-the-spur-of-the-moment decision to be with her son-in-law and daughter, the Baron and Baronne d'Almeida, in Paris for Christmas. Perhaps one of the biggest drawing cards is the new grandchild whom Mrs. Tapper is to see for the first time. The baronne is the former Barbara Tapper. Mrs. Tapper will return early in the new year.

Mrs. Louis T. Jaques and Miss Lois Jaques of 6134 Kenmore avenue have been spending a month in Houston, Tex., where Miss Jaques is working out daily on the courts of the Houston Country club with her coach in preparation for the winter tennis season in Florida, where she has been invited to play. They will return to Chicago for the holidays and then will go to Palm Beach early in January.

Miss Helen Jeffries, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Jeffries of Highland Park, is leaving the end of the week for Cincinnati to assist at the debut tea of Miss Olive Mills on Sunday and to be present at a dinner dance that Judge and Mrs. G. E. Mills will give for their daughter the next night.

Miss Virginia Jeffries, a junior at Connecticut college, will arrive at home Friday to spend the holidays with her family. Miss Helen Jeffries, who goes to Ferry Hall in Lake Forest, is playing the leading rôle in the Christmas play which will be given before she goes to Cincinnati.

Isabel Eustice to Return Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Eustice of Evanston have received word that their daughter, Isabel, will be home for the holidays Saturday. She is attending the King Smith Studio school in Washington and when not actually at her studies she is seeing quite a bit of the gay life of the capital under the escort of her uncle, Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas.

Miss Margaret La Shelle, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rayner La Shelle of Highland Park, will be married Saturday to Frederick Perry Boynton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Boynton of Highland Park. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Christoph Keller of the Highland Park Episcopal church officiating.

Miss La Shelle has chosen her sister, Elizabeth, as her maid of honor and Woodward Boynton will serve his brother as best man. There will be no other attendants.

The couple do not plan a wedding trip at present but will settle in Chicago as soon as they find an apartment. Miss La Shelle attended Ferry Hall and was graduated from the Bennetts school near Boston. Mr. Boynton is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

The drama group of the Highland Park Woman's club which has organized itself under the name of "The Mimes" is busy putting the finishing touches to "The Swan," which is to be produced Saturday night for the benefit of the Emergency Relief fund.

First Sculptor Exhibit Held by Julie Mann

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

If young Billy Mann had never played at modeling elephants in plasticana his mother might never have discovered her talents as a sculptor.

This was the thought that impressed more than one of Julie Manierre Mann's friends who dropped in to see her first "official" exhibit of plaster children and dogs yesterday afternoon at Lydia Lee's on Deerpath road in Lake Forest.

"It was certainly chance that I began to play with plaster, for I'd never had a lesson in drawing or sculpture in my life," Mrs. Mann told one person after another who inquired how she happened to stray from music to art. Her soprano voice has been well known for years here in Chicago.

"It was about a year ago," she continued, "that I found Billy playing with some plasticene (this is the foundation material in sculpturing) modeling elephants and dogs. I was curious to see what I could do. I tried and here is the result—this little portrait of Billy."

And with this the guests turned amazed, if not envious eyes, on Mrs. Mann's first piece of sculpture. The portrait is one of several plaques that are among her nicest pieces. Paula Roff and her brother, Morton, of Ravinia are subjects for two of the others.

At least three months intervened, however, between Mrs. Mann's first and second attempts. She was afraid she might neglect her music if she gave way to the new interest. But at last desire was too strong and she modeled Sang, the family's pet chow, in plaster. And this was the beginning of what portends to be a real career for Mrs. Mann as a sculptor. One of the city's finest connoisseurs of art saw this likeness of Sang stretched out in his favorite fireside position and insisted upon casting him in bronze.

Incidentally Sang is one of three lady chows the Manns used to have—Sing, Sang, and Sung—a commentary certainly on Mrs. Mann's musical talents. Soon after she finished Sang she cast the Philip Wrigleys' chow, Singaling, and he, too, has since been done in bronze.

"The Musing Fawn," a purely imaginative piece which had the place of honor yesterday in the front of Lydia Lee's parlor, probably drew the greatest number of admiring comments from the guests. "When I did that," said Mrs. Mann, laughing, "I got rid of all my inhibitions. But seriously it does seem to me the most expressive of art and I believe it represents the last stage in my development."

Still other pieces outstanding in the exhibit were "Adam" (Mrs. Mann is now doing Eve) and "Unemployed," the portrait of a man.

Mrs. Mann has even ventured beyond plaster out at her Garden Studio (this is the new name she has applied to her Lake Forest residence) into pottery. And most interesting among these pieces, perhaps, are the modernistic fish and the very moderne Noel plaques. They are such a long stretch from the very first pieces of pottery that were rescued long ago from Egyptian tombs.

This Exercise Limbers Muscles

Attractive Dress Uses Two Tones of Same Color

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

While this dress is ultra-smart, you will also find it a practical one. Two shades of crinkly crêpe satin in a wine red may be used with good result, and the bateau neck is youthful and becoming. The sleeves, set into deep armholes, makes it an easy dress to fashion. Soft woolens and rough silk crêpes make up beautifully in this model.

The pattern, No. 3,218, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, a 1 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material, with 1⅛ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

Inches Will Melt Away if You'll Stretch

Just Measure Your Arms and Legs; Prove It.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Don't forget to jot down on a piece of paper your waist, hip, bust, arm, leg, ankle, and abdomen measurements. I want you to compare them from time to time during this series of exercises. You'll be encouraged no end seeing your silhouette pruned down by inches. It's the new trend in silhouette-education, you know—reducing by inches rather than by pounds!

For the first week I want you to concentrate on stretching work. There will be more of it later, of course. But stretching and relaxing is the first week's orders. It's best not to start in putting flabby muscles to work on hard exercise. Besides, you have to get after that spine of yours before you do anything else. There's nothing like the tall stretch to make that spine stand tall and straight and smartly.

And while the spine is having its dignity restored with tall stretching movements, one look in your glass will show its influence on the fat tummy and general thickness around the middle. It's pretty hard work for the tummy to protrude with the spine on the up and up. Look and see for yourself! Isn't the profile view a flatter surface already?

The fats aren't the only ones with protruding abdomens. The thins often have them. And these exercises will do much for the thins as the fats. Also, folk who are neither over nor underweight, but aren't noticeably smart of bearing had better get in the stretching class, too. And all of you who want to recapture youth and hold it for years and years can do no better than adopt the stretch-a-day habit. You simply cannot beat it for supplying litheness and flexibility.

Stretch before you get out of bed! Stretch the hands out sideways if the headboard won't permit them going overhead. Walk around the room on tiptoes, stretching tall, tall and taller! Do this frequently during the day.

A Practical Frock for Holiday Hike from Jane Regny

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — With the Christmas holidays about to stalk in our midst, the school girl vacationist is busy assembling her wardrobe for all the sports that are part and parcel of this time of year. Jane Regny, noted for her sports clothes, has designed an especially practical frock, illustrated in the sketch today, for the holiday hiker.

This frock, an emerald green woolen that is both soft and warmth giving, is collarless and has two wide pointed revers edged with a narrow band of the fabric. The band on the right hand rever descends to the waistline in a pointed closing, fastening on a single button.

This apparently simple frock is trimmed with intricate, jutting piece seams, three of which are placed on the sleeves just below the shoulders, and stand erect to give breadth to the shoulders. Two similar seams start just below the shoulders on the bodice front and descend through two patch pockets placed at the bust to end below the hips.

There is a wide green leather belt at the waistline. The skirt has two more projecting seams, starting from the waistline at the sides, and is flared by inverted box plaits at the center front and back, midway down.

In the small sketch is shown the back of this frock. A green and white wool scarf with its ends thrown over the shoulders is worn with it.

Puts Congress First in Dissemination of American Slang

Congress is the great disseminator of American vernacular and the Congressional Record the best text book of American slang. And the White House leans the same way.

This statement is made on the authority of a lexicographer, Sir William S. Craigie, who was knighted by King George V. for his work on the Oxford English dictionary and who is now engaged on a historical dictionary of American English.

So far he has found that the legislators up to the middle of the nineteenth century were quite formal in their diction and might easily have been called purists. Thereafter colloquialisms became more frequent. Congress is the great disseminator of slang, the professor said, because representatives tend to use their own colloquialisms in debate and the good ones first obtain official circulation in this manner.

BY MARY MEADE.

"Enough dishes to have fed an army!"

How many times have I heard my mother voice that lament back when I was just a helping hand on the dish towel end of the dinner clearage—and how many times have I heard the same remarks from friend cooks who, after platter, bowls, service dishes, side dishes, butter plates, salad plates, and all the other paraphernalia have been stacked, sigh to think that such a quickly eaten meal should involve so many dishes.

And the answer is—don't do your worrying afterward—do it before. Plan your meal to shorten your dish washing. For informal home meals the salad plate may often serve also as a butter plate. Vegetables, dressed simply in butter or cream sauce, can find a corner on the dinner plate—and save a side dish. And best of all is the opportunity the modern leaning toward the casserole gives us for cutting down on service dishes, worry, fuel, and expense.

Of course we don't expect to see everything from soup to nuts parading forth from the casserole, but it will often help us to do away with one or two serving dishes. I have picked out the following dishes for your approval; they are delicious, quickly managed, and deal gently with the budget.

CHIPPED BEEF AND SPAGHETTI EN CASSEROLE.

1 cup chipped beef.
2 cups medium white sauce.
1-3 cup bread crumbs.

Grease a casserole and in it place a layer of spaghetti, then a layer of chipped beef and then one of white sauce, alternating until all are used. Sprinkle the top with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in a hot oven [400 degrees F.] for twenty minutes. Serve with a vegetable salad, hot muffins, preserves, and a substantial dessert.

STUFFED CABBAGE ROLLS.

1 medium head of cabbage.
1 cup cooked rice.
2 cups chopped, cooked pork.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper.
2 tablespoons grated onion.
½ teaspoon sage.
¼ teaspoon thyme.
2½ cups sieved tomato pulp, well seasoned.

Cut each leaf of cabbage separately, plunge into boiling water and cook five minutes. Twelve to fifteen leaves should be prepared. Drain the leaves and into each place a tablespoon of the mixture made from the other ingredients, except the tomato. Roll each leaf by itself and skewer with a tooth pick. Lay the rolls in a buttered baking dish and pour over them the tomato pulp. Cover and bake fifty minutes in a moderate oven [325 degrees F.]. Serve with Johnny cake, waldorf salad, a refrigerator pudding, and your best cup of coffee.

SCRAMBLED EGGS IN SAUSAGE CUPS.

8 slices summer sausage, ¼ inch thick.
2 tablespoons butter.
3 eggs.
3 tablespoons cream.
½ teaspoon salt.
Dash of pepper.

Fry the sausage slices, upon which the skins have been left, quickly in the butter. The heat will cause the outer rim of the sausage slices to draw in, curling the slices to form small cups. Beat the eggs, cream, and seasoning together. Divide the mixture between the sausage cups. When the egg is set, dash with paprika, garnish with parsley; and serve on a hot platter, or omit the garnish and surround the egg cups with hot buttered Brussels sprouts.

Child Enjoys Certain Toys in Quantities

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Reams could be written about buying toys and plaything for the children, especially at Christmas time. Our toy and plaything booklet takes care of the general grouping of these choices according to age. But there are one or two other things I want to point out today.

You remember the antique, bearded joke about the man and woman who were discussing what to give a friend for a gift.

"Let's give her a book," suggested the husband.

"O no!" said his wife. "She has a book."

In buying the children's presents—or in suggesting what other people might buy them—don't be like the people in the old but still good joke. I'm not referring literally to books for them but to certain of the children's playthings.

"Let's get Joan some blocks this year," says some one. "O, she has blocks," is not an unusual response. But it's a mistaken idea.

Children can be given blocks for years. They're a staple plaything, a foundation one. In the first place the kind of blocks they use from year to year changes. And the size. The very little boy and girl need blocks that are large and of one shape and few in number. As they grow older their blocks become smaller, they are able to handle some variety in shape, and they can use them in almost unlimited numbers. Marvelous schemes of roads and houses and other sorts of buildings can be carried out with quantities of blocks. You may add to them for years.

The same holds true of trains, too. Between the big, bright wooden locomotive with one car and the fascinating electric train system there are all stages and types for all ages. There's the iron engine that is pulled by a string, and the big substantial ones on tracks that are exact copies, and the windup with its long line of passenger or freight cars.

If you think of other playthings you'll see how this principle holds true. Take trucks and automobiles for instance. First there are wooden dump carts and wooden trucks for the almost baby. And iron or tin ones for the next few years. Then come the substantial vehicles plus derricks and fire engines with innumerable variations of apparatus. These entrance children when they're older and can always be added to. Boys get great delight out of a varied collection, which increases the possibilities of their play, just as girls do with their dolls and clothes, and doll houses and furniture.

Alice Longworth Prominent at Curtis Party for Hoovers

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—With a western thriller—a "talkie"—as after dinner entertainment, Vice President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Dolly Gann, were hosts tonight to President and Mrs. Hoover and a group of high officials.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth was prominent among the guests.

Immediately there buzzed in social Washington talk that the social feud that flared between Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Longworth during the early days of the Hoover administration had reached a peaceful finale. The dispute centered upon social ranking.

The Vice President's dinner was the second main event on the official Washington social calendar and was set around a table arranged in sunken garden effect in the Hotel Mayflower, where Mr. Curtis resides.

The first was a White House reception for the judiciary and will be followed this week by the official White House diplomatic reception and later by a dinner for the Vice President.

After tonight's after dinner chatting the scene was set for motion pictures.

The pictures chosen for the President and Mrs. Hoover were "Heritage of the Desert," its scene in the American west, and "Fisherman's Paradise," depicting a ten minute battle in landing a devil fish.

THE STAGE

George M. Cohan, who returned to Broadway after the brief Hollywood residence which resulted in the film called "The Phantom President," has completed a new play and intends to give it a premiere in Providence, R. I., Dec. 26. This piece, called "Pigeons and People," is described as a farce in one act, although it is as long as the usual three act play. In other words, Mr. Cohan appears to have become a modernist and written a play without intermissions.

The role he has supplied himself will require his presence on the stage for two hours. After visits to Albany, Rochester, and Washington during its tryout period, "Pigeons and People" will be offered in New York.

The Shuberts are preparing to stage an operetta called "Land of Smiles" with Charles Hackett, the opera singer, as its star. Marion Saki, a Japanese-American dancer who has appeared in several operettas under Shubert auspices, has been engaged as a member of the supporting cast.

George White's latest production, an operetta called "Melody," will begin its career Dec. 26 in Philadelphia. Sigmund Romberg is the composer, Edward Childs Carpenter and Irving Caesar the librettists. The cast includes Evelyn Herbert, Walter Woolf, Everett Marshall, Jeanne Aubert, George Houston, Louise Kirtland, Valerie Bergere, and Milton Douglas.

"The Great Magoo," a play by Ben Hecht and Gene Fowler, has been added to the list of quick failures along Broadway. C. C.

A. A. U. AFFIRMS DIDRIKSON BAN AFTER INQUIRY

Hears Conflicting Testimony.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 13.—[Special.—The suspension of nineteen year old Mildred Babe Didrikson of Dallas, Tex., whose accomplishments in the Olympic games and the women's national A. A. U. meet have earned her the title of the world's greatest woman athlete, was affirmed today.

The decision was reached after Lawrence Di Benedetto, chairman of the registration committee and secretary of the Southern A. A. U., investigated charges that Miss Didrikson had indorsed an automobile for advertising purposes. Miss Didrikson, whose picture was carried in the advertisement, denied the charges and invited amateur officials to investigate.

Committee Is Undecided.

The following statement was issued by the Southern group:

"After considering very carefully the evidence submitted to us in the Mildred Didrikson case we feel that there are certain points that have not been cleared. Mr. Gordon Perry of the Perry Motor company, Dallas, under oath testified that he sent the release of the advertisement in question to his factory. The factory in turn sent it to their advertising agency in New York for release. The New York advertising agency absolutely refuses to give us photostatic copy of the so-called release of Miss Didrikson.

"We therefore declare Miss Didrikson suspended until such time as she produces either the original or photostatic copy of the so-called release that Mr. Gordon Perry admits sending on to his factory, so we can make our final decision."

Evidence Is Conflicting.

Conflicting evidence was obtained by the investigating committee which has been unable to determine if Miss Didrikson had permitted her name to be used in the advertisement. The New York advertising agency, which represents the automobile firm, stated it had a release signed by Miss Didrikson, but refuses to send it to the amateur group.

Miss Didrikson, according to Di Benedetto, has not been disbarred formally as yet and will not be until she produces the original release or a photostatic copy. The suspension prevents her, however, from competing in any amateur competition. Miss Didrikson has been playing with a Dallas girls' basketball team.

Wins Title Alone.

Miss Didrikson won the women's national A. A. U. championship singlehanded for her club just before the Olympic games. In this meet she won the broad jump, javelin throw, shot put, 80 meter hurdles, and the baseball throw. She tied Miss Jean Shiley of Philadelphia, Pa., for the high jump title and placed fourth in the discus throw. She scored 30 points.

In the Olympic games Miss Didrikson won the javelin and the 80 meter hurdles, establishing records in both events, and was second to Miss Shiley in the high jump. One of her jumps in the latter event was disallowed because officials said she had dived over the bar.

"UNFAIR," SAYS BABE.

Houston, Tex., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Mildred Babe Didrikson, Texas girl athlete, issued a written statement tonight denouncing as "grossly unfair" the action of the Amateur Athletic union in suspending her from further amateur competition.

She said she would not decide whether she would appeal from the action of the A. A. U. committee, taken today at New Orleans, until after she had returned to Dallas and conferred with Foster Jacoby, A. A. U. commissioner.

Miss Didrikson announced she had no intention of bringing suit against an automobile company which used her name and picture in an advertisement. She declared the indorsement which led to her suspension was not authorized. The statement said:

"One thing should be made perfectly clear: I have already said, and now repeat, that I did not receive a single penny or any other consideration or advantage of any kind in exchange for the opinion I expressed about an automobile—the origin of all this controversy."

MAY LOSE AWARD.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the Amateur Athletic union, announced today that Mildred Babe Didrikson will be disqualified from consideration for the James E. Sullivan Memorist award, emblematic of the United States' outstanding amateur athlete for the year.

No other athlete will take her place on the list of ten chosen by 600 sports writers and officials, Ferris said. The other nine named are Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, James Bausch, Ralph Metcalfe, Bill Carr, Lieut. George C. Calnan, Leo Sexton, Jack Shea, Ralph Hill, and Barry Wood.

Bears, Spartans Go Amateur for Pro Title Game Sunday

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Professional football, frequently criticized for its mechanical play and lack of inspiration, has turned amateur. The Chicago Bears and Portsmouth Spartans are so eager to win the National league football championship that they are determined to settle their dispute in the title game at Wrigley field Sunday. And just to make certain that there's a winner and a loser George Halas of the Bears now proposes that if the regulation 60 minutes ends in a tie an extra 10 minute period be played.

Each team is satisfied it can defeat the other. Moreover, the two scheduled games this fall ended in a tie, so Sunday's game not only should determine the league champion but it should mark finis to a lot of personal feelings that have developed between the rival players.

Title Rated Above Gate.

Naturally enough, the Bear and the Spartan managements are hopeful Sunday's game will be a success financially. Nevertheless, the championship is valued more than gate receipts. The players have expressed the same sentiments, for, after all, if they didn't anticipate the title their pay checks wouldn't compensate for hammering at each other on a frozen field or submerged in snow drifts, as they were last Sunday when playing Green Bay.

The Bears' line will outweigh the Spartans' line, which should be a distinct advantage if the field is heavy and slow. This will be offset, however, by the all around proficiency of the Spartan backs, who are excellent in the open field and at handling forward passes.

Dutch Clark will not play here Sunday, but Portsmouth expects Glenn Presnell to lead its running attack. He's as effective as Clark and is rated better defensively. John Cavosie and Ace Gutowski, both excellent plungers, will match the drives of Bronko Nagurski. Roy Lumpkin is one of the best blockers on the team and his defensive tackling at full back helps offset the light Portsmouth line.

Grange Best on Defense.

The Bears' attack centers on the spectacular punt catching of Keith Molesworth and the plunging of Nagurski. Red Grange, one time famous for his runs, now is invaluable to the Bears as a blocker. Red also is the best defensive back against forward passes on the team. This was the reason why Red played 60 minutes against Green Bay last week.

According to Coach Ralph Jones of the Bears, Dick Nesbitt probably will see more action against Portsmouth than he did last week when Dick shared the right half position with Doehring and Sisk. Nesbitt is the Bears' best kicker.

If it is impossible to play the championship game Sunday arrangements have been completed to stage the title battle at the Chicago Stadium on Tuesday night.

The only defeat on the Bears' record is a 2 to 0 reverse by Green Bay. This came in the fourth game of the season after scoreless ties had been played with Green Bay, Stapleton, and the Chicago Cardinals. Later the Bears defeated Stapleton, 27 to 7; the Cardinals, 34 to 0, and last Sunday downed the Packers, 9 to 0.

The only game with Boston ended 7 to 7. The Spartans were tied at Wrigley field, 13 to 13, and at Portsmouth, 7 to 7. Others Bears' victories were: New York Giants, 23 to 8 and 6 to 0, and Brooklyn Dodgers, 20 to 0. The Bears have scored 151 points to their opponents' 44.

GIANTS, 18; SPARTANS, 0.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The New York Giants scored a touchdown in the first quarter and two more in the second quarter to defeat the Portsmouth Spartans, 18 to 0, in an exhibition professional football game here today.

Dr. Dickinson Explains Award to Wolverines

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—One year ago Dr. Frank G. Dickinson of the University of Illinois, originator of the football rating system by which the Rockne trophy is awarded, traveled to Los Angeles which welcomed him with open arms and took him to its heart. He sat on the right of Coach Howard Jones at a dinner for the Trojan football team and was cheered to the echo when he formally presented the trophy to Southern California.

Today things are entirely different. Dr. Dickinson is being deluged with long telegrams from partisans in Los Angeles commenting caustically on this year's award to Michigan instead of Southern California. Los Angeles newspapers demand an "explanation" and charge that a Big Ten bias was responsible for the decision.

In his work of nine years with the rating system, Prof. Dickinson has become inured to comments from disappointed fans, but he pointed out that only two Big Ten teams have ever been ranked first while coast teams have received three awards, the record being as follows:

1924—Notre Dame.
1925—Dartmouth.
1926—Stanford.
1927—Illinois.
1928—Southern California.
1929—Notre Dame.
1930—Notre Dame.
1931—Southern California.
1932—Michigan.

"The rating system does not pretend to select a national champion but tries to rank the teams that seem to meet the hardest competition," Dr. Dickinson said. "The Pacific coast showed poorly in intersectional games, which was the decididing factor, as the Big Ten record in this line was exceptional."

BOSTON SEXTET WHIPS TORONTO MAPLE LEAFS, 5-1

Clancy Punches Art Ross, Bruin Manager.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins' hockey machine, clicking on all six cylinders, crushed the world championship Toronto Maple Leafs by a 5-1 margin tonight at the Boston garden.

The Leafs were outclassed from start to finish and failed to put over a score until the third session, when Bob Gracie tallied on Happy Day's assist during one of the few lax moments of the Boston defense men.

Score in Every Period.

The Bruins scored in every session, registering three against Goalie Lorn Chabot in the final. Late in the second Red Horner and Joe Lamb engaged in a mild exchange of high sticking. The Bruin got a major for his part in the slugging and Horner was sent off for two minutes.

They were escorted to the penalty box, close by the Boston bench, by the entire Toronto team and when Manager Art Ross attempted to question Referee Cooper Smeaton about his player's major King Clancy threw a punch at the Boston pilot.

Clancy Escapes Penalty.

All of the players, including the Toronto spares, police, and various garden employés, then engaged in a spectacular but harmless scrimmage, and when quiet was restored the game was resumed. Clancy escaped a penalty.

The Canadiens took the lead when Albert Leduc netted the puck in the first period on a double assist from Burke and Lepine when the Rangers were a man short. The Rangers evened it up in the second

In the WAKE of the NEWS

COLLEGE LETTER BOX.

DEAR HARVE: Notre Dame undergraduates take in good spirit our defeat by Southern California, probably better than the alumni. For the first time this season we feel, after reading the newspaper accounts, that we were beaten by a better team. We did not feel that way after the Pittsburgh game.

Notre Dame's eleven this fall lacked something. That was shown both against Pittsburgh and Northwestern, although a good total was recorded against the Purple, perhaps a trifle luckily. But Northwestern's much lighter line ruined our running attack completely and that was not confidence inspiring.

Perhaps our weakness is lack of a field general like Carideo; perhaps it is lack of an outstanding man in the back field like Marchy Swartz, Jack Elder, or Christy Flannagan. Once every Notre Dame play was a potential touchdown play which, tried possibly ten times or more, finally clicked for a count. We have not had that in our games this year.

We students have no criticism to offer. We must take our share of defeats, but look out for us next year because we have coming up what I think is about the greatest freshman backfield combination that ever enrolled at Notre Dame. Corby Hall.

HTW: I deprecate the tone of some Purdue men writing in your column recently. In the old bad days we took it on the chin regularly, offered no synthetic alibis, put up a good fight, and congratulated the winner. Probably as a result of this, when we won the title in 1929, every one was very decent about it and said that next to their own team they were glad to see us win.

As to the Rose bowl game of 1929, Dr. Elliott, our president, told an alumni gathering that he had been approached but had turned the proposal down cold because the rule against it stood and we would not try to break it merely to make money. Therefore no one, Michigan or any one else, had a chance to oppose it, as intimated.

As to the situation this year, every fan knows the facts and Purdue is given ample credit. It is quite true that Purdue features teamwork and it is hard for any one player to stand out for an award like the Silver Football for the player of greatest value to his team. Nevertheless, we had this year two men commonly recognized as of all-American caliber.

F. W. Smith, Purdue, '10.

GIANTS DICKER FOR FREDERICK, BROOKLYN STAR

Reported in Another Three Club Deal.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—A three-cornered player deal involving the New York Giants, the Phillies and the Brooklyn Dodgers was reported as completed and ready for momentary announcement as the National league club owners debated their problems behind locked doors at the Commodore hotel this afternoon.

The New York Giants, according to the report, have procured Johnny Frederick, an outfielder, and Neal [Mickey] Finn, an infielder, from the Dodgers.

Before that part of the deal could be made the Giants have to send Hughey Critz and cash to the Phillies to get Ray Benge, the Philadelphia pitcher, along with whom they would send Sam Leslie, reserve first baseman, to the Dodgers.

Phils Prefer Finn.

When formal announcement of the deal was delayed, investigation revealed that Manager Burt Shotton of the Phillies expressed a preference for Finn over Critz, and he was trying to have the deal adjusted on that basis.

Joe Judge, veteran Washington Senator first baseman, may become a Brooklyn player before tomorrow night. He has requested his unconditional release from Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington club, with the idea of talking business with the Dodgers. It is understood he is going to be freed.

Before this report became known the Giants announced another move in their team bolstering process. They traded Sam Gibson, a pitcher, to Portland of the Pacific Coast league for Bill Shores, a pitcher who has had a trial with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Senator-Brown Deal Rumored.

Another reported deal that gained some credence today was one involving the St. Louis Browns and the Washington Senators. The rumor had it that Washington asked for Goose Goslin, the hard hitting outfielder; George Blaeholder and Walter Stewart, pitchers, and Oscar Melillo, infielder. In exchange they were reported as ready to surrender Carl Reynolds, the outfielder; Judge, and Harley Boss, young first baseman so often mentioned as being in demand by the majors.

Manager Joe Cronin of the Senators and Bill Killefer of the Browns were discussing the deal today. The Browns have a good first baseman of their own in Irving Burns, and the deal is said to be held up because the Browns don't want a first baseman to figure in the exchange.

Cubs, Sox Have no Luck.

Chicago's two clubs, the Cubs and Sox, are both anxious to get new talent, and their executives have been holding numerous conferences, without announcing any trades. J. Louis Comiskey of the White Sox said he could not give out "even a whisper" of any deal and William Veeck of the Cubs was equally silent.

Despite various rumors, the Yankees appeared hopelessly out of all trade considerations with Manager Joe McCarthy playing only a passive rôle and merely lending an attentive ear to numerous propositions. All the American league clubs seem in favor of relieving the world champions of anything they have but giving little in return.

The Dodgers shipped Pitcher Fay Thomas to Los Angeles but have engaged Rosie Ryan, veteran, who pitched for Minneapolis last season.

CARNERA STOPS BIG BOY PETERSON IN SECOND ROUND

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Primo Carnera won a second round technical knockout over Big Boy Peterson of Minneapolis in a scheduled 10 round bout here tonight.

Peterson's handlers threw a towel in the ring as the fighter sank to the canvas for the fourth time in the round.

DIVISION OVER RADIO THWARTS POLICY CHANGE

Cubs Lead Fight for Games on Air.

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The controversial subject of broadcasting regular season baseball games was debated today by American and National league clubs without reaching a definite decision, although five of the eight club owners of the National league informally put themselves on record as opposed to putting anything but world series games on the air.

These five clubs were New York, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, and St. Louis. At the same time they agreed generally to a policy of permitting all clubs to exercise their own judgment in the use of the radio, "so long as it did not materially injure anyone else."

This action was in accordance with the views of the Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves, which favor broadcasting of their home games. Its effect, in view of an American league situation where four clubs each are for or against radio, will be to create a status quo on the subject for 1933.

The joint meeting tomorrow will go into the radio situation further, but club owners pointed out tonight that the sharp differences of opinion absolutely precluded any action or adoption of new policy. It takes a unanimous front by either league to effect legislation for or against radio, and no unanimity exists in either league.

Grapple with Problems.

The magnates, meeting in separate sessions, grappled for more than four hours with the manifold problems understood to be besetting America's national game. They finally came to the conclusion that, depression notwithstanding, they would do nothing drastic in the way of retrenchments that would seriously affect baseball's time honored customs or, as one owner expressed it, cheapen the game.

Both leagues voted to stand pat on the present 23 player limit and declined even to consider including in this figure the number of coaches each club may feel it necessary to engage.

No action was taken in bringing about uniform reduction of player salaries and, in fact, about the only slight economic move taken was the adoption of a resolution advancing from June 15 to May 15 the date when the 23 player limit becomes effective. On May 15, too, all trading between major clubs must cease, but prior to that date, all clubs will be permitted to carry 40 players on their reserve lists as heretofore.

More Sessions Today.

Originally it had not been planned for both leagues to go into action today, the program reserving the day for the National league while the American leaguers were not to go into session until tomorrow. But the club owners decided they had entirely too much routine business to dispose of in one day and so both met separately today and each will hold another session tomorrow afternoon.

The National league reelected John Arnold Heydler president for another term of four years. It was a formality the club owners had almost overlooked as no one prior to the meeting seemed aware that Mr. Heydler's term had expired. Then, by way of setting an example for the players Mr. Heydler voluntarily accepted a reduction in salary.

Following this came a survey of the season's statistical records which revealed that the campaign of 1932 had suffered a decrease of 16 per cent in attendance below the 1931 figures. The league's total attendance was not revealed, but it is understood to have fallen a trifle short of 4,000,000 as against more than four and a half million for 1931.

Cubs Have Good Year.

Despite this drop, however, it was disclosed that several clubs had exceptionally good seasons. The Chicago Cubs again led in home attendance falling only 25,000 shy of a million, with the Brooklyn Dodgers second and the Boston Braves, who had one of their best seasons in years, third. The Giants rated only fourth and the Reds fifth, though the latter showed an increase of nearly 100,000 over 1931.

The Giants, despite their season of adversity which never saw them out of the second division, remained the leading road attraction. The club, led by Bill Terry after John McGraw retired as manager, played to approximately 650,000 fans on the road. The Pirates were the next best road team, the Cards third, and the Phillies fourth.

In addition to reelecting Mr. Heydler, who also holds the office of treasurer and secretary, the league named the following as the new board of directors: Stephen W. McKeever, Brooklyn; Sam Breadon, St. Louis; Sidney Weil, Cincinnati, and G. P. Nugent, Philadelphia.

Makes Meeting Complete.

Then without which no National league meeting could ever be complete, President Heydler announced that 4,240 dozen baseballs were consumed by the circuit last season.

Aside from announcing that, like the National league, it favored May 15 as the new time limit when clubs must reduce to the 23 player limit and discussion of radio, the American league seemed to have taken no action on anything of vast importance. According to President William Harridge, reducing the present player limit was not even discussed, nor was anything said of uniformly reducing player salaries.

MILLS COMPLETES DOUBLE; ONLY 2 BEHIND GILBERT

Camp Boss Wins Feature; Jockey Race Tightens.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Jockey Hank Mills gained on Jockey Johnny Gilbert in their race for the year's riding honors when he scored a double at Jefferson park here today while his rival was able to get only one winner. Gilbert now has 191 winners to 189 for Mills.

Mills won with Burgoo in the second and Camp Boss in the fifth, which had the place of honor on the card. Gilbert was first to the wire with Deserve in the sixth. Gilbert was one behind Mills when this meeting opened on Thanksgiving day, but went into the lead and once had a margin of four.

Wins for Chicagoan

Camp Boss bore the colors of John Marsch of Chicago and won by two lengths over Making Bubbles, which gained the place by a head from La Salle. The field was completed by Indicative, ridden by Gilbert; Sadina, Prometheus and Lullaby II., which finished as named. The winner carried top weight of 115 pounds and finished the six furlongs over a fast track in 1:12 1-5.

Even though Gilbert's mount finished far back at the end, there was a keen duel in the race between the two rival jockeys for most of the way. Camp Boss broke running from a good start and was a jump or two ahead of his field almost at once. Indicative got off next to last, but was rushed to contention by Gilbert. After the first quarter had been run, it was Camp Boss and Indicative head and head.

Pace Tires Indicative.

Gilbert forced the pace so strongly that Indicative was in front rounding the turn, but the fast going tired him. Gilbert had something in reserve with Camp Boss and he shook up his mount turning for home and was able to make Indicative stop. From that point on the contest was an easy one. Making Bubbles had to be put to a drive to get the place from La Salle, which held on well.

Gilbert rode in every race on the card, getting in the money only once with the exception of his winner. Mills had six mounts and was once in the money in addition to his two winners. There were some who thought that Gilbert might also complete a double in the nightcap, but the winner was a surprise when Strongheart, at $108.40 for $2, got home first by a nose. Strongheart was coupled in the mutuel field, other field horses placing third and fourth. Second fell to Prate.

GIRL APPLIES FOR LICENSE AS HORSE TRAINER

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—If the plans of Mary Elizabeth Hirsch go through you can add to the list of jobs filled by women that of trainer of race horses.

The daughter of Max Hirsch, famous trainer, is applying to the Jockey club stewards for a license to train and race her own string, and if her application is granted she will be the first woman to hold such a certificate.

Since she was a baby Miss Hirsch, 20 and weighing 95 pounds, has been around horses, and since last spring she has been stable manager of her father's string, which includes the horses of Cary T. Grayson, M. L. and A. C. Schwartz, and B. M. Baruch.

She supervises office details, training gallops, and all the other routine of a big stable. She can discuss the fine points of a horse with the best of them.

Her "string" at present consists of only one chestnut filly, but she hopes to add to it. She plans to follow her dad's example and keep a public stable. Her brother also is a trainer.

RUDOLPH TIES FOR FIRST PLACE IN CUE TOURNEY

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland, tonight shot his way into a three-way tie for first place in the national pocket billiard championship, defeating Walter Franklin of Kansas City in the closest game of the tournament—125 to 106.

Rudolph achieved his victory, his fourth of the tournament, in 13 innings to move up on even terms with young Jimmy Caras of Wilmington, Del., and Ralph Greenleaf, the defending champion, both of whom won their fourth games yesterday. Pasquale Natalie, Chicago veteran, dropped into the defeated class earlier in the day when he lost to George Kelly of Philadelphia, last year's runner-up, 125 to 61, in 26 innings. The triumph was Kelly's first in five games.

Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia, who dropped his only game of the tournament to Bennie Allen Sunday, got back in his winning stride with a 125 to 69 victory in eight innings over James Mills of San Jose, Cal.

Horsemen! Only 18 Days Left to Do Your Name Shopping

BY FRENCH LANE.

Folks who own thoroughbred race horses are scurrying around these days and are burning some midnight oil trying to find appropriate names fo. their young charges. The names are to be registered before Jan. 1. A horse cannot start until he is registered and named.

The task has become a bit more difficult, because the strict ruling Jockey club in New York has outlawed names that appear ridiculous or which smack of something that isn't just right in the general scheme of things.

By this ruling the name "Gang Chief" would be refused for a royally bred young thoroughbred.

Al Capone, as the name for a young horse, would be turned down. So would the name of Terry Druggan or Abe Attel or Rum Runner or Murderers' Row or Taken for a Ride.

The name Prohibition Agent also comes under the ban. For only fifteen letters and spaces are permitted to make up the name of any horse. This ruling was adopted to make it possible for the copy readers on newspapers to work the appellation of a truly great race horse into the headlines.

The owners of our greatest race horses haven't attempted to name their horses in such an outlandish fashion. But every now and then an owner of a young horse, the first he ever possessed, comes along and tries to pin the silliest sort of a cognomen on the thoroughbred that is to race in his colors. That's all out, the Jockey club has warned the people who just now are trying to name their young horses and register their names before Jan. 1.

Now and then the haphazard naming of a horse turns out all right. A story has been told about the naming of one of the great horses of all times. Here's the way it goes:

Back ten years ago in France a colt propped up on four shaggy legs set at crazy angles ran away from his mother and galloped around the paddocks and stables on an inspection trip. The cook who served the meals to the stable and help had left a handful of spinach on the doorstep, and when the colt found it he took a couple of healthy whiffs and then indulged generously.

The cook became enraged, but instead of hitting the young horse with his meat cleaver he reported the incident to the farm manager and asked that a severe punishment be meted out.

The colt was not punished. It was time to name him. His mother was Epine Blanche, and as the owner desired this side of the pedigree to appear in the name it became a simple matter, for the French word meaning "spinach" is epinard. So they called the young culprit which later made turf history on two continents Epinard.

Family resemblances in names has long been the object of the more prominent breeders of thoroughbred horses in America. It is a custom handed down to them from the owners of thoroughbreds in Great Britain.

For instance, Whisk Broom in a fitting name for a son of Broomstick. Battle Axe and Bludgeon are appropriate names for sons of Cudgel, while Copper and One Cent are right nice names to call a couple of sons of Last Coin.

Nearly all of Man O' War's sons smack of his name. Among them have been Flagship, Crusader, and Quarter Deck. Then there was Twenty Grand, a son of Bonus. Mrs. Payne Whitney picked the name of Spar for a son of her mare, Fair Feint.

There comes information from Col. Edward R. Bradley's farm that he expects to win the next Kentucky Derby with a colt he has named Boilermaker. This is a different type of name than other great Bradley horses such as Blue Larkspur, Bubbling Over, Burgoo King, and Behave Yourself, which raced so gallantly in the Bradley silks in other years.

Col. Bradley celebrated his 73d birthday anniversary the other day and may have come to the conclusion that his horses should no longer be named after flowers, soups, etc., but should be given a handle that hints of more durability. The colt Boilermaker is a son of Bubbling Over-Vaila and they say he is as fast as greased lightning. He only started twice as a 2 year old.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz debated a long time before they picked the name of Our Count for the first son of Reigh Count-Anita Peabody. Their friends suggested that he be called Mr. Futurity or Futurity King or some other name that would have the word Futurity in it because his mother and father finished first and second in the richest Belmont futurity of 1927.

"What if he should be a bad horse or a bum, as the racegoers would say?" they asked one another. In that case the name Futurity should not be flaunted around by such an animal, they decided. Finally they struck on the name of Our Count, which is proof enough that he is a son of the champion Reigh Count. He possibly will be good enough to be worthy of the name Futurity.

3 Stages of a COLD!

And Relief Is Far Easier in the First Than in the Second or Third Stages!

A cold ordinarily progresses through three stages: the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. The first stage is when treatment is most effective.

To stop a cold in the first stage, take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It does the four things necessary. Opens the bowels, kills the germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and tones the entire system. Anything less than that is trifling with a cold. All drug stores sell Grove's Laxative BROMO QUININE. Be sure to get that and nothing else. Cellophane wrapped box.

Now Race Horses Are Crazy Over Music, Music

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13.—(AP)—First it was music at play time, then music at meal time, and it begins to look as if your favorite race horse—if you have one—will insist upon his pet radio rhythm before he lines up at the barrier.

Trainers of thoroughbred aristocrats here for winter racing at Hialeah park have turned in large numbers to the radio as a means of soothing or invigorating their charges according to the temperament of the animal.

Radio after radio is turned on during rest periods at Hialeah park, in track rooms, stalls and living quarters of the handlers, and many's the equine ear that is cocked for the strains of a band or the voice of a favored entertainer.

"Horses all like music," is the assertion of Fred Kraft, trainer for Rudolph Spreckles of San Francisco, for Charles H. Thieriot, wealthy New York horseman, and for himself.

"Their tastes vary, though," Kraft continued, "Mr. Spreckles' Caneheart loves to listen to organ music. Scout master, owned by Mr Thieriot, likes to listen to any band, but he is particular about the volume. He doesn't want his music too loud.

Memories Dear, one of Kraft's horses, appropriately enough, is fond of waltz music. Then there's Charlie O., half brother of the veteran handicap horse Mike Hall and a possible candidate for the Florida derby. Charlie O. is nervous, high strung.

"But he quiets right down if you get the right kind of blues singer on the air," declared Walter Taylor, who with his brother, J. T., trains the horse and others of the string of the R. M. Eastman estate.

"This morning, for instance, Charlie was fidgeting and jumping. We dialed in on a blues singer, with a nice contralto, and he calmed right down and stood there listening."

The half brother, Mike Hall, calm and serene in disposition, listens to all offerings, but his ears prick up when a band swings into a number on Harlem moons.

John I. Smith, trainer for H. T. Archibald, had no hesitation about the tastes of his charges.

"Silly Sis likes hill billy music from a banjo, guitar or accordion, or all three," he said, "and Gamma Delta loves Kate Smith."

Michigan May Curtail Minor Sports Card

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Michigan played to only 2.3 per cent fewer spectators during the 1932 football season than in 1931, yet because of smaller receipts, based largely on reduced ticket prices, may have to curtail its program of activities for 1933-'34, according to the annual report of Prof. Ralph W. Aigler, chairman of the athletic control board. The report was announced today.

Prof. Aigler mentions that a reduced program may be necessary due to the fact that such costs as maintenance of plant and interest on bonds are fixed and coaching salaries already are low. While no intimation has been given as to the nature of the change in activities, the rumor here is that intercollegiate coaching and intramural duties may be combined in some cases.

The Aigler report shows receipts of $236,534.74 for the year, of which $227,968.58 is from 1931 football. Basketball turned in $8,639.50; hockey, $3,065.17, and all others less than $500 each. Cross-country, golf, fencing, and gymnastics showed no return. Other income totaled slightly more than $84,000, including $80,407.69 from student coupon books.

The amounts spent for all sports ran up to $130,073.38. Nearly $40,000 went toward reducing indebtedness on plant additions and $36,653.35 was paid as interest on bonds.

KIECKHEFER ADDS TO HIS CUE LEAD OVER THURNBLAD

Augie Kieckhefer, world's three billiard champion, increased his lead over Arthur Thurnblad last night by winning the fourth block of their 500 point match at Kieckhefer's Recreation room, 20 East Randolph street. Kieckhefer leads 200 to 175.

With the aid of a high run of six Kieckhefer took an early lead and never was headed, winning the evening block, 50 to 28, in 39 innings. Although starting off with a high run of ten in the afternoon block Kieckhefer succumbed to Thurnblad, 58 to 50, in 53 innings. Two blocks will be played today, one in the afternoon and the other at night.

HURRY!

• You can hurry through with your morning shave if you use the rust-resisting "BLUE BLADE." In the first place this blade is hard enough to cut glass. The steel is especially tempered to take and hold edges of phenomenal keenness. Easy, once-over strokes shave your face clean. You don't need to go back against the grain of the beard. When you are through shaving simply loosen the razor handle and hold the blade under hot water—that's all. The "BLUE BLADE" is then clean and spotless—ready for use the next time. This is one of many reasons why you get unequalled convenience and comfort with the "BLUE BLADE." Try it and see.

No package contains genuine "BLUE BLADES" unless it carries the portrait of King C. Gillette.

FOR CHRISTMAS—Ask your dealer to show you our special Gift Box containing 100 "BLUE BLADES." You pay for the blades alone. The handsome cigarette or jewel case—rich mahogany color—is free.

Michigan Play Notre Dame by 1935? Yost Says No

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—A report that Michigan will meet Notre Dame in football by 1935 or before, apparently started in Detroit, was spiked today by Athletic Director Fielding H. Yost.

The Michigan schedule for 1934 already has been announced and six of the eight games in 1934, those with Michigan State, Ohio State, Illinois, Minnesota, Chicago, and Northwestern are certain. A conference team, probably Iowa, and an eastern opponent not yet determined, will complete the card. The 1935 schedule is likely to be much the same, Yost said, including six conference games and contests with Michigan State and an eastern team.

FIGHTERS BEGIN HARD WORK FOR COLISEUM SHOW

Four 10 Round Bouts to Be Offered Friday.

All the principals in the four 10 round bouts to be presented at the Coliseum Friday night are in town to finish training. Billy Jones, who faces Charley Belanger, has been drilling at Kid Howard's gymnasium for the last ten days.

Jones, a Philadelphia light heavyweight, and Belanger, who comes from Montreal, Que., fought a draw at Detroit several weeks ago. The Philadelphia boxer is seeking a title match with Georgie Nichols. In order to gain this opportunity he must whip Belanger, who is ranked No. 2 by the National Boxing association.

Blitman Battles Shea.

Harry Blitman, also of Philadelphia, will make his Chicago debut against Eddie Shea. Harry, who is a southpaw, was rated one of the best lightweights in the east some months ago. He will have several pounds on Shea, who is a natural 128 pounder.

Jack Moran, who replaces Young Leonard against Young Terry in another 10 round clash, receives a chance to break into the first flight in the middleweight division. In his last appearance Moran beat Ray Tramble. He gave Frank Battaglia and Sammy [Kid] Slaughter interesting battles previously.

Dazzo Starts Sparring.

Paul Dazzo started sparring yesterday for his 10 round match with Young Geno of La Salle, Ill. Danny Neenan, 1931 Catholic Youth organization lightweight champion, and Eddie (Red) Chinski meet in the opening contest at four rounds.

Ten thousand seats have been placed on sale at $1.

Nate Lewis, Chicago Stadium matchmaker, is attempting to arrange a card for Dec. 29. He is seeking one of the following matches:

Kid Chocolate vs. Fidel La Barba.
Max Baer vs. Primo Carnera.
Mickey Walker vs. Georgie Nichols.
Ernie Schaaf vs. Primo Carnera or King Levinsky.
Sammy Fuller vs. Billy Petrolle.

La Barba has agreed to meet Chocolate for the Stadium, but Luis Guiterrez, the Kid's manager, said Chocolate's time to stay in this country is up and he must return before the holidays, unless an extension is granted him by immigration authorities.

Chocolate, who is recognized as featherweight champion in New York, boxes Seaman Watson, British titleholder, at New York late next month.

Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, started training at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday for his 10 round match with Jack Roper at the Rainbo Fronton Friday. Everett will seek his sixth straight victory and his second over Roper. A year ago Everett whipped Jack at White City in 10 rounds after Roper had floored the Gary fighter four times.

Since their first contest Everett has put on 10 pounds, now weighing 190, and he has had 20 matches, winning 15 of them. In his last five starts Buck has defeated Larry Udell, Tony Cancela, Dick Daniels, Harvey Mortenson and Biff Bennett. Roper has improved since meeting Tuffy Griffith on the south side last summer. Johnny Long faces Jack Delaney in one of five four rounders.

Twelve bouts between St. Philip High school boxers and a team from the Jewish People's institute will be offered at St. Philip's gymnasium next Monday night.

PITT DIRECTOR THINKS HIS TEAM GOOD AS TROJANS

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Don Harrison, Pittsburgh director of athletics, expressed the opinion today that the Panthers will prove to be as great an offensive team as the University of Southern California in their Rose tournament game at Pasadena on Jan. 2.

After scouting the Trojans in their 13 to 0 victory over Notre Dame, Harrison said: "Offensively I rate the teams equal. If Southern California has any edge it will be a very slight one on defense.

"However, even in this department it is difficult to see the difference. In their game with Stanford the Panthers held the Indians to a net gain of 12 yards from scrimmage, while I understand the Palo Alto boys ran the ball 170 yards against Southern California."

Harrison assured Trojan officials that the Pitt team this year would not be an overconfident group of sightseers. Apparently he referred to the contest in the Rose bowl almost three years ago when the Panthers were beaten back 47 to 14.

Coach Howard Jones sent the Trojans through a light workout today, as he started to reorganize his offense for the Pittsburgh game. He will work the team again tomorrow but will follow up with a week of rest for the players.

Purdue Opens Season with Miami Tonight

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Purdue's Big Ten championship basketball team will swing into action for the first time tomorrow night when it meets Miami here with a lineup which will include a number of new players. The vacancy created by the injury to Ray Eddy probably will be filled by Joe Wheeler, reserve forward from last season.

Harry Kellar, co-captain of last year's five, who will be eligible for competition only in the first semester, is sure to be at the other forward.

Sophomore to Play Guard.

None of the basketball candidates who were members of the undefeated football squad, including Dutch Fehring, Emmett Lowery, Doxie Moore, and Charles Meade, is expected to see much action, as they have been out for drill only a few days.

Coach Ward Lambert indicated tonight that the floor guard post held down by Johnny Wooden last season would be filled by Norman Cottom or Ed Shaver, sophomores.

Miami Opens with Victory.

Miami made its first start of the season last Saturday night, defeating Wilmington college. The Miami five is built around John Anthony, center, a former Whiting, Ind., High school star. Lineups:

Rabbit Hunters Welcome Snow but Fear Fever

BY BOB BECKER.

Rabbit hunters welcomed the recent snowfall. Although cottontails may hole up and sleep snug in their hideouts during a storm, a habit which the squirrels are apt to follow, let the storm stop and the weather clear and out they come to leave their telltale records in the snow. It is then that the sport of rabbit hunting reaches its peak.

Rabbit hunting still is the major sport of thousands of mid-western hunters. But there are many sportsmen who have passed up this fun since tularemia, the disease which can be transmitted from rabbits to human beings, has been known to exist in this state.

The story in Sunday's TRIBUNE reporting two cases of tularemia, one of which resulted in death, was a grim reminder that this disease cannot be taken lightly. The "rabbit fever," as it is known, has spread through many states. Wisconsin has been warning hunters about it. It is encouraging, however, to know that only a small percentage of cottontails are infected. This is true in many states. But scientists have discovered that ground squirrels, raccoons, and other furbearers can contract the disease.

Last fall the state reported that a few cases of human tularemia appeared in November, more are found in December and then there is a marked increase of cases during January. Although one would think that hunters, who kill rabbits, would develop more cases of tularemia than any other class, relatively large numbers of women are infected. This doubtless is due to the fact that housewives handle the carcass before and during the process of cooking.

It has been estimated that in Michigan at least 1 per cent of all wild rabbits are infected. Just what the percentage is or has been in Illinois is not known. At least we know of no such estimate or study of the disease being made involving the Illinois cottontails, although any information along this line would be welcomed by sportsmen.

The most recent suggestions to hunters regarding tularemia and what to do to avoid infection includes the following:

[1]. Don't bring home or handle any rabbit which, when flushed in the field, seemed slow or sickly. It very likely is a sick animal. Kill it and if possible, bury it.

[2]. To be absolutely safe against infection, wear rubber gloves when dressing a rabbit.

Davis-Elkins Opens Loyola Season Tonight

A Loyola university basketball team of unknown strength opens its season tonight at the Loyola gym against the Davis and Elkins college five of Elkins, W. Va. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Lennie Sachs begins his tenth season as basketball coach at Loyola with three untried players in the starting lineup. Capt. Don Cavanaugh and Jim Hogan, guards, are the only regulars left from last year's team which won 15 of 17 games.

Eddie Connelly, who is starting at forward, has won two letters, although he never has played regularly. Bob Ohlenroth, the other forward, and Harold Motz, center, make their first appearance in Loyola uniforms. George Silvestri, guard; Joseph Frisch, forward, and James Hoey, center, are the principal replacements.

Bring High Scorers.

Davis and Elkins brings to Loyola three of its regulars who last year assisted the West Virginians in winning 19 out of 21 games. Capt. Ellis Vest and Lester Heavner, forwards, were high scorers on the team, which averaged slightly better than 45 points a game. They scored victories, among others, over Loyola of Baltimore, one of the east's leading teams, and the Crescent Athletic club and Seventh Regiment teams of New York City. Averaging one-fifth of an inch over six feet, Loyola will have a slight height advantage. Probable lineups:

Ohlenroth	F	Heavner

GET THOSE SKI ENTRIES IN, BOYS! LISTS NOW OPEN

Tribune Meet for Novices to Be Held Jan. 1.

The first opportunity is offered today to the boys of Chicagoland to enter the third annual ski tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and the commissioners of the northwest park district. This annual meet will be held at Riis park, Fullerton and Meade avenues, on New Year's afternoon.

Entries must be mailed not later than midnight Dec. 27. All letters postmarked before that time will be included in the list of contestants, which will be printed in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE on the morning of the tournament. Team entries from clubs or other organizations may be made in a group, provided that an official of the team vouches for the ages of the competitors.

Cup for Team Winner.

A silver cup will be awarded to the club which scores the most points in the four divisions. First place will count five points in each age class; second place will count three points, and third place one point. Boys from Norge Ski club won the team trophy last winter.

Gold medals will be given for first place in each division, while the awards for second and third places in each class will be silver and bronze medals, respectively.

In addition to these prizes, a gold medal will be given the boy who makes the longest single jump, regardless of form. The standings in each group will be based on the composite points scored for form and distance. Each contestant will be required to make at least two jumps.

Opportunity for Practice.

Last year there was little opportunity for the boys to practice. Lack of snow forced postponement of the meet several times, but already there has been more than enough snow for all the youthful skiiers to haul out their equipment, repair to Riis park or to other slides and begin preparation for THE TRIBUNE meet.

This tournament is designed to offer competition for novices. The slide at Riis park is not too high, nor is it too difficult. If you always wanted to experience the thrill of a fast ride down a slippery slope and a flying leap through the air, THE TRIBUNE meet is just the event for you to get that thrill. Officials of Chicago's ski clubs will judge the competition and all possible protection will be given the contestants.

Clip the entry blank which is printed in these columns and mail it immediately to the Ski Editor, Sports Department, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 13.—High grade corporation bonds forged further ahead today, while the rest of the list for the most part marked time. Scattered profit taking depressed domestic speculative liens.

The foreign section was featured by a brisk runup in German obligations. The rise in reich issues reminded traders of their performance following the Lausanne agreement.

High Grade Bonds Firm

High grade domestic bonds again showed their immunity to the day to day speculative influence. All groups, including prime rails and utilities, United States governments, and state and municipal bonds were firm. Demand for municipal bonds is viewed as encouraging owing to the heavy supply of new issues to be marketed this week.

Strength in German bonds was traced to buying from abroad.

Rallies extending up to 3 points were the rule in such German bonds as City of Berlin Electric 6s and 6½s, Electric Power of Germany 6½s, issues of the Central Agricultural banks, German Government 5½s and 7s, Rhine Westphalia 6s, Saxon Public Works 6½s, and others.

U. S. Liens Recover.

United States government bonds were firm, with prices recovering from yesterday's reaction. The short term issues dated Dec. 15, on which small allotments were announced yesterday, shared in the gains.

Treasury discount bonds were slightly higher.

NEW BOND ISSUES.

Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co., and Yarnall & Co., are offering a new issue of $250,000 Washington county, Penn., 4 per cen. bonds dated Dec. 1, 1932, and maturing $50,000 each Dec. 1, 1938 to 1942, inclusive, at 102 and interest.

A banking group comprising E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc., A. C. Wood Jr. & Co., and R. M. Snyder & Co., is offering an issue of $400,000 City of Allentown, Penn., 4 per cent funding gold bonds dated Dec. 1, 1932 and due serially Dec. 1, 1933 to 1952, inclusive, at prices to yield 2.00 per cent to 3.70 per cent.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol.

I would sincerely appreciate information on U. S. Industrial Alcohol company.—B. W. R.

United States Industrial Alcohol company produces about 34 per cent of the ethyl alcohol produced in the United States. Total output of industrial alcohol is limited by the federal government. About a one-sixth interest in the company is held by Air Reduction company.

About two-fifths of alcohol produced is used as anti-freeze mixture for automobiles. Demand is dependent on weather conditions. It usually reaches its peak in the fourth quarter. Alcohol is also used to make lacquers, vinegar, pyroxylin, chemicals, and other products. A subsidiary manufactures numerous chemical products, such as solvents and nitrocellulose solutions.

Sugar molasses is the principal ingredient of alcohol and becomes available during January. Cost of production depends primarily on the cost of molasses. It has been the custom of the trade to determine alcohol prices at the beginning of the year and to maintain them for the rest of the year. Manufacturers thus were enabled to determine their profit margin. Price is dependent on demand and the maintenance of amicable relations between producers.

Excess of productive capacity and slackened demand in the last three years have upset this practice and have resulted in lower prices. Profits are also subject to fluctuations in the price of sugar molasses. The threat of synthetic alcohol at present is not formidable because of the low price of industrial alcohol. However, commercial production of synthetic alcohol appears to place definite limits on the price of the industrial product.

Unseasonal weather in October, 1932, made results in that important month disappointing. Net income for the first ten months was about $150,000, or 40 cents a share.

Net income for the first half of 1932 was $33,000, or 9 cents a share, against loss of $527,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. Loss in 1931 was $1,334,000, against loss of $1,895,000 for 1930. Net income in 1929 was $4,721,000, or $12.63 per share, against net of $3,703,000 for 1928.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $9,384,000 and current liabilities were $660,000. Working capital was $8,725,000, against $10,869,000 the year before and $14,369,000 on Dec. 31, 1929.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 378,846 shares of no par common stock. Nothing has been paid on the stock since May 1, 1931. It is a speculation.

Atlantic Refining.

I would like your opinion on Atlantic Refining 5s, due 1937.—W. D. S. They are sound.

BUSINESS NEEDS COURAGE TO WIN, AD MAN AVERS

Younggreen Points Way to Success.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

If, as many economists declare, the business depression was precipitated by a lopsided economic structure—an overdeveloped system of production and an underdeveloped system of distribution—then the merchandiser is the fellow who must lead the way out.

"You won't find tomorrow's business by studying over how you got business last year," says C. C. Younggreen, executive vice president of Reincke-Ellis-Younggreen & Finn. Mr. Younggreen had been asked to give his views before a meeting of the Engineering Advertisers' association. He is a past president of the International Advertising association.

"New and changing markets, changing methods of distribution, and revamped sales methods all demand new advertising policies—so new, indeed, that many business men are finding it very difficult to lay out their courses," he continued.

Expects Ad Increase.

"I believe there will be an increase in advertising appropriations in 1933 because wise business leaders have found that advertising appropriations have been curtailed to the irreducible minimum—in places even approaching the danger line of inertia.

"And these appropriations will vary in size, just as the courage and the vision of the heads of the individual businesses vary; for it is always in times like these that the real leaders assert themselves and take the steps which will assure their standing and continued leadership in the days to come."

Mr. Younggreen points out that, no matter what the state of general business, there must be sales. The individual must replenish and renew, the store must restock, the processing plant must requip, and the manufacturing plant must produce.

Who Will Get Business?

"The question tomorrow will be who will get that business? For there certainly is not going to be enough to give every one all he wants. The answer is easy. Business will go to the house that goes after it. It will go to the house which, through its continued advertising, shows the world that it is in business and intends to stay in business.

"Firms that pull down the shades—that stop their advertising—are simply saying 'not in' to possible customers. The house that waits for the 'big turn' and shuts down on its advertising—this vitally important branch of selling—is practically committing suicide."

Which brings up the vitally important question: How is the business man to know when the "big turn," as Mr. Younggreen calls it, has arrived?

Where Is the Corner?

Is it to arrive suddenly with the blare of trumpets and an official proclamation that the depression turned the corner at midnight last night? Or is to to be a gradual process with some companies leading the way and others lagging behind?

In every industry there may be noted concerns that are moving ahead—some slowly and some more rapidly. They have adjusted their operations to the new levels and are going ahead on that basis.

E. A. Cudahy, chairman of the board of the Cudahy Packing company, in his annual report to stockholders indicates that he believes his company in that class.

Sees Depression at Bottom.

"Our organization, plants, and equipment are their best, and if, as many believe, the bottom of the depression has been reached, and so far as our company is concerned I think it has, our earnings will be quick to respond to any upward swing in prices."

Some companies adjust themselves to the new level of business by their own efforts, some are forced to it by their creditors, and some have to go through the receivership wringer. The trend is definite, although the length of time that these developments will take depends to a large extent on outside influences, such as the reduction of taxes and the curtailment of government competition and interference.

"This is the most interesting period in the history of the world," remarked one banker yesterday. "Nothing could be more interesting than to watch the way things are working out.

"The pattern is pretty distinct. We seem to see how this process is working out. I hope nothing happens to me. I want to be here to see the answer."

Cord Obtains Airway Rule; Strife Ended

Operating control of American Airways, one of the nation's three transcontinental air lines, has been obtained by E. L. Cord, Chicago automobile and airplane manufacturer, as a result of the compromise effected between the Cord interests and a group of New York bankers. The two groups had sought control of the Aviation corporation, holding company for American Airways.

This was disclosed yesterday by L. B. Manning, vice president of the Cord corporation. Mr. Manning returned from New York last week after the compromise agreement had been put into effect. The new board of directors of American Airways will be composed of himself, Lester D. Seymour, Mr. Cord's choice for operations manager of the air line, Lyndol L. Young, Mr. Cord's attorney and vice president of Aviation corporation, Richard Hoyt, president of Aviation corporation and chairman of the board of Curtiss-Wright corporation, and a fourth man to be chosen by the bankers, Mr. Manning said.

Cord Plans Changes.

"Mr. Cord has told me that he intends to start a program of improvements that are expected to place American Airways on a paying basis in the shortest possible time," Manning said.

"We are studying proposed changes of the route of American Airways, the development of faster equipment for the line, and many operating economies. Now that the compromise has been effected, we intend to settle down to the serious business of operating an airline, and making a profit at it."

Mr. Cord plans to offer his holdings of 96 per cent of the stock of the Transamerican Airlines, which operate between Chicago and Buffalo, New York, to Aviation corporation at its cost to him, Mr. Manning said. In addition the Manix Air Line, operating between Buffalo and New York, will be available to Aviation corporation at cost.

To Form Second Route.

The combination of the two lines will form a secondary route between Chicago and New York which is less than fifty miles longer than the present route of United Air Lines, via Cleveland, Mr. Manning pointed out. The air mail, passenger and freight traffic between Chicago and New York is the largest between any two cities in the world, at present calling for seven schedules daily in each direction by United.

That secondary route would provide a direct line between Chicago and Boston as well, Mr. Manning said, and would become the logical route for all air commerce between those two cities.

FLOW OF GOLD TURNING NOW TO SHORE OF U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 13.—The liner Berengaria arrived here today with approximately $5,400,000 in gold consigned to the federal reserve bank.

This is a portion of a total estimated at $17,000,000 which was reported shipped by the Bank of England last week. The liner La Fayette, which is due here tomorrow morning, is carrying approximately $5,400,000 in gold also, from the same destination and to the same consignee. Where the remainder may be is not known among the banks.

There are rumors that the French liner Champlain, due here next week, is bringing some gold. The North German Lloyd liner Bremen, which is scheduled to arrive tomorrow, is reported to be carrying $3,000,000 of gold, but the only portion actually identified is the small shipment of $830,000 consigned to the Banque Belge pour L'Etranger from its Paris office. This shipment is a commercial transaction.

French Watching Market.

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The dollar went off half a centime today, closing at 25.62 francs. The pound sterling slumped slightly, going to 83.37.

It was reported in financial circles that the Bank of France has been watching the market sharply and has been selling dollars when it was considered necessary in an effort to check the export of gold, since the dollar has been hovering about the gold point.

In the morning trading, the dollar went to 25.61 francs on selling, but recovered later.

Sterling Is Steady.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The day's developments in connection with the war debts had little net effect on the sterling dollar exchange. The pound showed a drooping tendency after early steadiness, declining a little more than a point, but recovering later to close at $3.25½, within half a point of the opening figure.

NEW PACT BY WORLD'S CHIEF OIL INTERESTS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Dec. 13.—After discussions which have continued daily for two weeks, the international oil representatives meeting here today announced an accord had been reached with producers in Rumania "for measures to make production conform to demand." Standard Oil, Royal Dutch, Shell and Anglo-Persian were parties to the parley.

The statement made known that the Rumanian interests had agreed to limit their output to 18,500 tons a day for three months, beginning Jan. 1. This increases the Rumanian quota of 1,750 tons, accepted at the July meeting here, which the Rumanian delegates declared upon assembling for the present meeting impossible to put into practice. Before July Rumania's production was 2,400 tons a day.

It has been stipulated that the increase allotted to Rumanian producers shall not augment the total output of Rumania.

Kessler Explains Pact.

"The Americans and Europeans agreed," said J. B. Kessler, a director of the Royal Dutch Shell, after the meeting, "on the necessity on the one hand of reducing production now in excess of demand, and on the other hand on the desirability eventually of reaching a price fixing agreement to make profitable production possible.

"If the soviet authorities desire to contribute to order in the world and not to aggravate the depression, they have only to do their share in organizing economic peace. But I cannot say what the soviet proposes to do regarding balancing production with consumption or regarding the observance of world prices."

Persia Protests British Views.

TEHERAN, Persia, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Declarations that the Persian government does not consider The Hague court competent to examine the Anglo-Persian oil dispute or that the optional clause is applicable to that dispute, are contained in a lengthy note replying today to a note from Great Britain.

The note adds that the Persian government considers itself justified in canceling the d'Arcy concession and does not see any reason to withdraw its original note. It also considers that it has the right to bring to the notice of the league of nations the British government's threats of pressure.

In its recent note Britain asserts that if Persia persisted in its threat to cancel the concession Britain would submit the dispute to The Hague.

The oil fields remained perfectly quiet and it was said there was no truth in reports of disturbances at Abadan and Masjid.

Basis for Complaints.

The causes for Persia's dissatisfaction and the reasons for cancellation are stated thus: 1. The concession was obtained as a result of pressure. 2. The amount of royalty was unfairly calculated. 3. The Persian government was not allowed to check the company's account. 4. The Persian government received no royalty during the war. 5. No income tax has been paid. 6. There has been reckless expenditure in other parts of the world combined with excessively high prices in Persia.

Oklahoma Oil Case.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The second blow in two days at current state regulation of crude oil production was struck today by the Oklahoma Supreme court. They upheld the general powers of the state corporation commission but declared present orders invalid.

In a case brought by the H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas company, the State Supreme court upheld the rights of curtailment of production on an equitable basis as between producers and between pools, but invalidated rules granting flat and water allowables in the Oklahoma City field. All regulatory orders issued since Nov. 1, 1931, were invalidated.

Yesterday the United States Supreme court ruled that Gov. R. S. Sterling of Texas had exceeded his authority in exercising military powers to limit production in the east Texas petroleum area.

U. S. Crude Production.

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 3,700 barrels in the week ending Dec. 10, totaling 2,123,850 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California decreased 10,700 barrels to 1,647,850 barrels.

CHASE NATIONAL SUES M. J. INSULL FOR $2,016,505

How extensively Martin J. Insull speculated in the stock market and the heavy obligations he incurred in attempting to protect his accounts is apparent from a suit filed yesterday by the Chase National bank of New York.

The bank is seeking to recover $2,016,505 on a note which was executed in November, 1931. The suit alleges that the note matured Feb. 13 this year and that no part of it has been paid.

Paying for Protection.

The rapid multiplication of bondholders' "protective" committees in recent months has led one wag in La Salle street to observe that there are more bondholders' committees than there are bondholders. In the case of many bond issues in default there are several rival groups seeking the support of the bondholders. Naturally all committees need some financial support from the investors they propose to protect. Wry smiles must have appeared on the faces of the investors holding bonds of a certain concern, who were recently asked to pay a deposit fee of 1 per cent of the face value of the bond, or $10 for a $1,000 bond. At the time the request went out the bonds were selling in the open market between $3 and $4.

To Place Rail Order.

According to reports in railroad circles the Illinois Central is preparing to place an order for 2,500 tons of rails. The business is expected to be divided equally between the Illinois Steel company and the Inland Steel company. This is part of the 6,000 tons which the road plans for purchase for 1933 delivery.

Bank's Deposits Gain.

Few of the larger banks have shown an increase in deposits in the last year. The Bowery Savings bank of New York is an exception. At the close of business yesterday the bank had deposits of $530,519,489, against $479,243,091 on Dec. 12 last year. Depositors yesterday numbered 394,987, against 359,354 a year ago.

WARNER BROS. WIN CONTROL OF MOVIE FIRM

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 14 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The Warner management apparently had won its fight to retain control of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., early today as the count of proxies ended and the balloting for five directors began.

The proxy count was stopped when the number of shares represented reached the total of 1,918,464, or some 10,000 more than the number required for the quorum necessary to declare the annual meeting in session.

With a quorum established, a member of the Warner group nominated five candidates for the directorship and then Attorney Goldberg, for the opposition, announced his group would not place a slate in nomination because, he said, there had been "so many irregularities and crooked work" in connection with the acquisition of the proxies.

Charles Suter, a Philadelphia attorney, nominated as the Warner candidates Charles Guggenheimer of New York, John P. Laffey of Wilmington, former general attorney for the Du Pont interests; Samuel Morris of New York, vice president of Warner Brothers Pictures; Morris Wolf of Philadelphia, a director of the Stanley company, and Stanleigh P. Friedman, New York attorney.

U. S. Board Adopts Basis for Cottonseed Product Rate

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today for the first time laid down a basis for figuring freight rates on cottonseed and its products throughout the country. Acting on instructions of congress contained in the Hoch-Smith resolution of 1926, the commission prescribed a plan. It will cause, it is said, an increase in the rates on cottonseed and other vegetable oils and inedible portions of oil throughout the country.

Quaker Oats Cereal Plant Is Running at Capacity

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 13.—(AP)—For the first time in two years the cereal department of the Quaker Oats plant here is working on a 100 per cent production schedule. George Laird, general manager, said that 200 men have been reemployed in the past two weeks.

NORTHERN STATES LIFE INSURANCE RECEIVER IS NAMED

Federal Judge Walter O. Lindley yesterday appointed Ald. John A. Massen as temporary receiver in equity for the Northern States Life Insurance company whose home office is at Hammond, Ind. The action followed the filing of a petition by Attorney William H. Haight on behalf of Robert L. Potts of Chicago, owner of the 13,000 shares of the 25,000 shares issued by the company, with a par value of $5 a share.

The petition alleges that the company is already under state receivership in Indiana and that it owns mortgages and real estate property in Chicago valued at about $150,000.

Judge Lindley set Dec. 20 for a hearing on a motion for the appointment of permanent receivers.

Insull Stake in East Holds Faint Promise

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chances daily are growing fainter that the security holders of the Middle West Utilities company will salvage any substantial amount from the $40,000,000 investment that the Insull management made in utility properties along the Atlantic seaboard.

Notwithstanding the decision of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company to put off its collateral sale a little longer, the involved situation of the eastern properties holds little hope for Middle West's security owners.

Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch, receivers for Middle West, have just about exhausted the possibilities in their attempt to keep the eastern properties in the Middle West system.

The odds against the granting by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to retire the bank loans in the east are about 1,000 to 1. Officially there is still a chance that Receivers Hurley and McCulloch will salvage something in the east. Actually the prospects are extremely poor.

Bank loans of the eastern holding companies total $21,000,000. They are secured by stocks of subsidiary operating properties. The collateral has a nominal value substantially in excess of the loans but there is serious doubt if the real value of the pledges is sufficient to cover the obligations. The holding companies have debentures outstanding in addition to the loans. Legal uncertainties over creditor's rights exist.

The receivers of Middle West have concentrated their efforts in an attempt to prevent the banks which have well secured loans from reducing the pledges to possession.

The receivers are confronted with a serious problem in other sections. As they push forward their plans for reorganizing the properties on a sound basis they automatically cut off income to the top holding company.

Philadelphia Co. Votes Usual Common Dividend

The Philadelphia company yesterday declared the usual quarterly dividend of 35 cents a share, payable Jan. 25 to holders of record Dec. 31.

RAIL UNIONS REFUSE WAGE CUT EXTENSION

Parleys Back Near Starting Point.

The railroad unions yesterday rejected the proposal of the railroad operators for an indeterminate extension of the contract under which the unions accepted a 10 per cent deduction from their basic pay, beginning last Feb. 1. Unless the contract is renewed the basic scale will be restored automatically next Jan. 31.

On Monday the operators proposed an extension from which either party could withdraw on thirty days' notice. Such an extension would be the equivalent of cancellation, Alexander F. Whitney, chairman of the labor forces, contended in a statement made to the operators' committee yesterday in a joint meeting at the Palmer house.

"Your committee has indicated its desire to terminate any such extension at the earliest possible moment," Mr. Whitney observed. "To agree to your right of termination is to agree to cancellation. Your proposal would be wholly for the benefit of the railroad management and wholly to the detriment of the employés. It is difficult to believe that you made the proposal seriously."

Come Back to Beginning.

Mr. Whitney's declaration left the operators in the same quandary in which they found themselves when the negotiations opened. As early as last September they had declared a 20 per cent basic cut necessary for the financial stability of the carriers, and they came here hoping to negotiate on that question, but were forestalled when the union chiefs announced they were empowered to negotiate only on the 10 per cent contract.

Accepting that announcement, the operators' committee, headed by W. F. Thiehoff, announced Monday that

OIL FLOWS WITH THE FLOW OF CREDIT

BEGINNING at the oil well, ending at the filling station, oil flows across the country with the help of credit.

From oil fields, through pipe lines, to refinery—to distributor and retailer—at each step, money is borrowed from banks and returned when the step is completed. Thus credit flows from bank to industry and back again, in an ever moving stream, as season follows season, as demand for credit diminishes here, increases there.

In every industry affecting the daily life of the nation, commercial banking plays an essential part. And the Continental Illinois National Bank, strategically located, is an important factor in mobilizing credit to serve American business.

RUSH TO SELL SURPLUS WHEAT BREAKS PRICES

Liverpool Lowest Since the Year 1588.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices in gold in leading markets, computed from rates of exchange prevailing at the time they closed, follow:

	Tues.	Mon.
Chicago, May	47⅛c	48¾c
Winnipeg, May	39⅛c	40⅜c
Liverpool, March	45⅜c	46⅝c
Do, May	48⅝c	49½c
Do, No. 2 Manitoba	53¼c	54⅝c
Rotterdam, January	44⅝c	45½c
Buenos Aires, Feb	37⅝c	38c

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

World wheat markets were depressed yesterday by increased competition between Canada, Argentina, and Australia with lowered prices in an effort to interest importing countries of the world in the burdensome supplies of old and new crop wheat.

Cheaper offers from the southern hemisphere started liquidation in wheat in Liverpool, and the March delivery sold at equal to 45¼c per bu on a gold basis during the day, the lowest level since 1588 in that country, as shown by the late J. E. Rogers' compilation of English prices. The average figure for that year was 43c, a level reached by the Strassburg, Germany, market in 1654.

Winnipeg wheat prices dropped 1⅜@1⅝c per bu in Canadian funds in an effort to maintain its position as the world's leading exporter, and the December future dropped to equal to 36¾c, gold basis, and the May to 39⅛c per bu, establishing a new all time record low for Canada.

Argentine Prices Lower.

More favorable weather conditions for the new Argentine wheat harvest are resulting in sellers in that country making a determined effort to find a buyer for the grain. Theoretically Canada and Australia have the British market to themselves as the result of grain being admitted into the United Kingdom duty free, while other countries must pay slightly less than 4c per bu based on current rates of exchange. This prevents English millers from buying large quantities of Argentine grain, and the latter has apparently made an effort to undersell Canada equal to the import duty.

Canada, even if it could secure the entire British trade, would have a market for only a little more than 50 per cent of its estimated exportable surplus of wheat and must find buyers on the continent and elsewhere to take its grain. Without preferential treatment it must compete on even terms with Argentina in other parts of the world. Buenos Aires closed ⅝@¾c lower for the day, with prices in the Argentine market about the lowest known.

U. S. Above World's Parity.

American wheat prices, while only a few cents above the all time record low for the Chicago market, are still far above a world's parity. The May future in Chicago at the time it closed was 47⅛c, or equal to 8⅜c per bu above the gold price for Winnipeg May, within 1⅛c of the same future in Liverpool, and 8½c above Buenos Aires, Argentina, May. The seller of the Liverpool May future is forced the pay the import duty of around 4c unless Canadian or Australian grain is delivered.

At no time Tuesday were wheat prices in Chicago as high as the finish of the previous day. Scattered selling carried prices off steadily and the close was at the bottom with net losses of ⅞@1¼c. December finished at 44⅛@44⅝c; May, 47⅝@47⅜c, and July, 47¾@47⅞c. The trade ignored the continued dry weather in the winter wheat belt, and what little bullish enthusiasm had been engendered by the poor crop comments evaporated completely.

World's financial and economic conditions are regarded as again having come to the fore as the main factors in the market. Only scattered sales of Manitoba wheat were reported made for export during the day.

Liquidation in Corn.

The pessimistic feeling which existed among wheat traders spread to the corn pit and started scattered liquidation. Prices dropped ⅝@1c, with December showing the most resistance. The later closed at 22½c, while May was 26⅜@27c, and July 28½c, all being within a fraction of the lowest figures of the season. Oats lost ⅛@⅝c in sympathy with corn, the December closing at 15¼c and May at 17½c.

The northwest was a fairly active seller of rye futures in the local market, and the close was 2⅛@2⅜c lower, with December 30½c; May, 33, and July, 33¼c. According to cables from abroad, Russia and Polish rye is offered at about 2½@4c per bu below Canadian. Liquidation developed in barley with the May closing 2⅞c lower at 29¼c.

OUTPUT OF TIRES DURING OCTOBER SHOWS INCREASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 13.—Production of tires during October was higher than in September, but shipments dropped sharply, statistics compiled by the Rubber Manufacturers' Association, Inc., disclose.

That organization reports that shipments of pneumatic casings amounted to 1,798,136 during October. This compared with 3,082,285 in September, the decrease having been equivalent to 41.6 per cent. The shipments in October, 1931, totaled 2,351,653 casings.

Production of casings on the other hand amounted to 2,568,641 units during October, against 2,538,720 in September, an increase of 1.2 per cent. In October of last year, however, production was 2,973,755 casings, or 13.6 per cent greater than this year.

Inventory of casings in the hands of manufacturers on Oct. 31 is estimated at 6,785,980 units. That was an increase of 12.8 per cent over September, when inventory amounted to 6,096,098. At the end of October, 1931, inventory of casings totaled 8,300,065, the decrease this year being 17.2 per cent.

RESIDENCES IN RIVER FOREST CHANGE HANDS

Ralph Tiffany Buys J. L. Flanagan Home.

BY AL CHASE.

One of the largest suburban real estate transactions of the year was closed yesterday in River Forest. James L. Flanagan, identified with racing publications, purchased the residence of Ralph Tiffany, manager of the Cadillac Motor Car company of Chicago, at 1036 Franklin street, River Forest. Mr. Tiffany bought the 75x189 property in 1931 for a reported $25,500. Last year he erected a house which, it is stated, cost $60,000.

Mr. Flanagan gave as part payment his residence at 841 Clinton street, River Forest, which occupies a 75x187 site. He purchased the property a few years ago for a reported $35,000 and, according to L. M. Mantynband of Epstein & Arvey, attorneys for Mr. Tiffany, turned the residence in at $25,000. In addition he assumed a mortgage on Mr. Tiffany's house for $28,500. The balance of the undisclosed consideration was paid in cash, it is stated.

Mr. Flanagan will occupy the Tiffany residence and Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany will make the Flanagan house their future home. Thomas Cusack of the Cusack Realty company was the only broker in yesterday's transaction. Crowe, Gorham & Savage were attorneys for Mr. Flanagan.

Get Title to Castle Court.

Title to the Castle Court apartments at the northwest corner of Jeffery avenue and 70th street, lot 230x134, was conveyed yesterday by William G. Burns and Gideon W. Turnquist by quitclaim deed to William M. Richards, assistant secretary of the H. O. Stone & Co. bondholders' protective committee.

The foreclosure sale of this property has been set for Dec. 16. At that time the bondholders' protective committee will attempt to bid in the property and, if secured, will reorganize it by means of a liquidation trust. The building, which contains 63 apartments, 15 of which are now vacant, was financed by means of a $350,000 first mortgage bond issue, since paid down to $311,500. The Metropolitan Trust company is receiver for this property.

Won't Affect Reorganization.

Edward Morse of Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levinson & Morse, attorneys, stated last night that the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings instituted in the United States District court yesterday against Marks Brothers, Inc., probably would not affect the recently announced reorganization of the bond issues against the Marbro, Granada, and Broadway-Strand theaters.

The petition of Morris Ovson, a bondholder, asked that a receiver be appointed. The theaters are under lease to Balaban & Katz for a three year term at a reported rental of $200,000 annually for the group. Wolfsohn & Fireman, attorneys for Ovson, stated that the Marks Brothers concern had liabilities of $3,000,000.

MEN—NORTH-NORTHWEST

WE WILL SIGN UP A FEW ADDITIONAL MEN IMMEDIATELY AT OUR CHICAGO BRANCH. YOU WILL UNDERTAKE FIVE YEAR PROGRAM OF EARNINGS AT $51 PER WEEK, WITH ADDITIONAL CASH PROFITS IN EXCESS OF THIS FIVE YEAR PERIOD OF $11,500.

This program of earnings and savings is something entirely new. It is definite and practical plan for the man who wishes to cover the overhead expenses of himself and his family each week and save a substantial additional profit. It is such men we offer this opportunity. We prefer married men with established homes they must maintain, in a permanent arrangement and we are not looking for the man who is not serious minded about his future and about getting ahead in an honest, industrious manner.

You cannot make money here unless you earn it. But if you are capable of understanding simple instructions and if you are one who likes to practice to gain skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are a worker, willing to pay a working price for success, then we recommend that you come in Wednesday for an interview. It costs nothing to try. The training is free, and we furnish full equipment with no deposit required. There is no expense.

We require men to be of good reputation, active and alert. This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good, substantial positions. We have tried to state the facts and requirements clearly. Please do not apply for these positions unless you feel you can meet the requirements. Applicants will be personally interviewed. Apply Wednesday, 9 a. m. No other time. Room 215, 1046 Wilson-av.

SOLUTION TO A CROOKED ATTORNEY

Davis said the burglar SLIPPED the bonds in his INSIDE coat pocket while covering him with a gun held in his left hand. TRY IT! You'll see how difficult this would be.

Davis had learned of the murder of the left-handed man in the brown suit before faking the bond theft. He had used the bonds for purposes of his own and had been just a little too careful in his description of the holdup.
